BOTH FATHER AND SON DROWN TO CLOSE SALOONS ON SUNDAY

D. L. CHAPMAN, PROSPEROUS NORTH SHORE RANCHER, AND HIS SON MEET DEATH IN A SMALL CREEK.

A peculiarly sad drowning occurred at Nasel, on the north shore, Monday evening about 5 o'clock when D. L. Chapman, prosperous rancher of that place, and his son, Ward Chapman, 19 years of age, met their death in a little stream.

There were no witnesses to the drowning, but it is presumed that the younger Chapman, after washing off the horses in the creek, thought he would take a little swim, and being unable to swim himself, was drowned in trying to save the boy. Mrs. Chapman heard her husband's outcry and looking out to the creek saw him going down for the last time.

She gave the alarm and aid was soon summoned and the bodies recovered after being under the water about 15 minutes. The father probably died of heart failure, as he was lifeless when brought out, but the younger man showed some signs of life and willing hands worked with him for about five hours, but just before Dr. Pilkington, who had been summoned from Astoria, arrived, the body began to get cold, and he was then past all medical aid.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE FROM THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE THAT LAW WILL BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED

Announcement is made from the office of the assistant district attorney, Howard M. Brownell, that every saloon in the city and throughout Clatsop county must be kept closed on Sunday. A letter has been sent to each and every saloonkeeper in the county, calling attention to the law on the matter and stating that it will be the policy of the district attorney's office to rigidly enforce this law. Following is a copy of the letter:

"I respectfully desire to call your attention to Section 1974 of Bellingier & Cotton's Annotated Codes and Statutes of Oregon, which makes it a misdemeanor to keep open any house or room in which intoxicating liquor is kept for retail on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or give, or sell, or otherwise dispose of intoxicating liquors on that day.

"I do not know that you are violating that law, but I write to you at this time to notify you that it now is and will be the policy of the district attorney's office for this district, to rigidly enforce this law throughout Clatsop county, Oregon, and I earnestly hope you will use your best endeavor to help the district attorney uphold the law."

One man said that while sitting in his place last Sunday afternoon he saw about 40 men go into the back door of a saloon whose front door faces on Commercial street.
