RESIDENTS OF UNION-TOWN GET BLACK HAND LETTERS

of the men lying in wait for him, cannot be known.

The letters have been turned over to the postal department and every effort will be made to arrest the miscreant. Several months ago Mr. Thornydyke, editor of the weekly Leader, received a similar missive. A well known business man also found one in his mail. It is also said that a young lady residing in Uniontown received a series of letters about a year ago, all of a blackmailing nature.

The following is a copy of the letter received by Daniel Hannula:

Astoria, Oreg., Aug. 25th.
A Draft For $600

Read this carefully, because your life depends on this. We are a portion of a large gang of robbers who part of whom are out west at present. We have decided in our meeting, and our commander-in-chief has ordered that we will not rob directly, but send a demand to persons who have money to handle. In this way we can save many human victims, especially those not concerned, and obtain from each according to his means. We demand from you also $600 in gold. Go to the Uniontown church, feel under the left end of the first step and you will find a can marked "right here," place the $600 in gold in it so it will be there on the evening of the 28th of this month, at 10 o'clock. If you do not do this you will soon disappear from the stage. You can not live two months after, no matter where you go, because we have each pledged our lives that all our demands shall be fulfilled, and hundreds have already obeyed us quietly and have escaped from us. Our gang is powerful, it is the strongest of its kind in the world. There is 3000 men in this occupation. Six of us Finns joined last winter, and now we were appointed to the portion that was sent here. I write to you in Finnish so that you will understand better without any help, because it is decidedly dangerous to inform anyone of our doings, that is, if you wish to preserve your life. Therefore do exactly as we direct, without hesitation and you are the luckiest man in the world. If you will not obey us, we will send you to eternity as a warning to others, and we will honor your memory as that of a stubborn man, as we are ourselves, and also our own dead. I have now explained this briefly and think that you understand this correctly, therefore we wish you luck and long life, but first do exactly as we direct.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The Trust Company of American upon which the sensational run precipitated during the financial panic of 1907 has managed its business so successfully that it was enabled to pay of the loan of $25,000,000, which it then effected in its entirety.

STUDY THE FORESTS.

Thirty-nine Young Graduates Have Received Appointments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Thirty-nine young graduates of nine American Forest Schools have lately received appointments as Forest Assistant's in the Forest Service and have been assigned to positions for the present field season. The new appointees are drawn from the various Forest Schools as follows: Yale, 18; Biltmore, 5; University of Minnesota, 4; University of Michigan, 4; Michigan Agricultural College, 3; Harvard, 2; Cornell, 1; University of Iowa, 1, and University of Nebraska, 1. They have secured their appointments as a result of passing the regular Civil Service examination, which is the only avenue to employment as a forester under the Government. In addition to these graduates of Forest Schools, fifteen other candidates passed the examination.

Twenty-two of the new appointees are already at work on various National Forests, taking part in this administration, and seventeen have been assigned to different projects connected with the technical study of silviculture. Forest Assistants are men who have completed their preliminary training for the profession of forestry, as the graduates of a law or medical school have completed theirs, and are ready to enter on practical work. Until they have gained experience in their work, however, their positions are necessarily subordinate. They are at the foot of the ladder and must prove their fitness in order to mount higher. The Government pays them $1,000 a year at the start.

On the National Forests the Forest Assistant often acts as adviser to the Supervisors in charge, who are western men experienced in all practical matters, but usually without school training in the science of forestry. Or they may be assigned to the study of some particular problem which needs to be investigated in the interest of good forest management. As forestry means knowing how to get the most out of any given piece of forest land, it calls for studies and experiments, both scientific and practical, much like those which have to be made in the interest of good farm management, and the Forest Assistant is prepared to do valuable work along this line.

There is a growing interest in the profession of forestry now, and many young men are asking how to get into it and what it promises. Gifford Pinchot, the Government Forester, has lately written on this subject:

"To be a good forester a man should combine something of the naturalist with a good deal of the business man. To know how to use the forest he must be able to study it. He must have, therefore, the power of observation, a fondness for nature, and the ability to penetrate her secrets. But if he is to succeed he must also have good practical judgment and the ability to meet and handle men. He must be resourceful, able to stand by himself, willing to undergo the privations of rough life, and capable of commanding the respect of rough men, who quickly recognize virility and genuineness of character, but will not tolerate pretense of the assumption of superiority. A forester needs a vigorous mind in a vigorous body. He must be of the kind that likes to get things done, and does not give up when things are not going his way. He will have to face difficulties and work out problems far from outside help, relying solely upon himself. He ought to be hard to whip."

"The professional forester cannot hope for big fees and certain pleasant surroundings of life which crown distinguished success in some other professions. The first prizes which are bestowed upon the great lawyer, the eminent physician, are not yet open to him. He must be content without much luxury, he will have to spend a good deal of time out of reach of the ordinary comforts. He must be able and willing to rough it without complaint—to sleep on hard beds, eat homely fare, endure prolonged exertion and get along with plain people. On the other hand, if he is at all fitted for his profession—and a few weeks of actual forest work or good summer-school work will tell him whether he is or not—there is open to him a very rich reward—life in the open, in the midst of beautiful, healthful and congenial surroundings, creative work of unmatched usefulness in any material field, a place of large responsibility and dignity, and with it all a fair living.

If the forester's temperament is scientific he will have the joy of the discoverer and organizer of knowledge in a rich and almost virgin field, while if it be practical he will have the chance of sharing in a national work of prime importance to our people both now and hereafter."

ple both now and hereafter."

MAKES GREAT SWIM.

New York Man Pulls Heavy Row Boats After Him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Dragging two heavy rowboats containing nine people through the water after him, Julius Leek, the doorman of the Delancy Street police station, swam the half mile distance from the Blackwell's Island light to the Cygnet Club, at the foot of East 18th Street, Manhattan in 35 minutes yesterday, among much excitement among his fellow members, the passengers of the boat and a crowd of five hundred spectators in East River park.

The tow rope was tied over his left and under his right shoulder. He swam the English side stroke, pushing ahead, his left shoulder submerged every time he took a stroke with his right arm. Until his tows slowly gathered momentum, their dead weight of almost 2000 pounds pulled him back every time he took a stroke forward and the tow rope wore a red bruise through the shoulder of his jersey long before he got through.

Barrington Hall The Steel Cut Coffee

Is just pure Mocha and Java prepared in a new way. The coffee berry is cut up (not ground) by knives of almost razor sharpness into small uniform particles. Thus it is not crushed, as by the old method of grinding, and the little oil cells remain unbroken. The essential oil (food product) cannot evaporate and is preserved indefinitely. This is one reason why a pound of Barrington Hall will make 15 to 20 cups more of full strength coffee than will any coffee ground the old way; why it excels all other coffee in flavor and why it will keep perfectly until used.

But the main thing about Barrington Hall Coffee is that it can be used without ill effect by those who find ordinary coffee injures them, because the yellow tanning-bearing skin and dust (the only injurious properties of coffee) are removed by the "steel-cut" process. A delicious coffee, not a tasteless substitute.
