TERSE TALKS OF THE TOWN

Fixing Soda Fountain—

The beautiful soda-water stand in the Hoefler store is being repaired. When the fountain was first put in two of the marble slabs used for the counter were found to be cracked and these are now being replaced. Mr. Hoefler takes much pride in keeping his store in beautiful shape.

Os. West In Town—

Hon. Oswald West spent the afternoon here yesterday, coming down to cast his vote for the Presidential candidate he particularly favored (just who that is, is, of course, a matter of conjecture). Os. missed his train out and will forgo an official appointment up in E. O. for today.

Home To Clatsop—

Dr. B. Owen-Adair has returned to her home at Warrenton, from a ten-day visit to friends and kinsmen at Empire City. The doctor took in Judge Taylor's address at Warrenton on Monday evening last and enjoyed the talk immensely. It is suspected that the good doctor is a bit of a "suffragette" and would really like to vote for Taft, but this year it is not essential.

The Day In Astoria—

The national election day passed off with remarkable quietude in this city. There was no excitement to be noted anywhere, but the interest was manifest on all sides. The saloons were practically closed all day long, and the banks and public buildings and offices, save the postoffice, were all fast shut for the day. The normal Republican majority in the city found expression at the polls.

Her Sister Dead—

Word was received in this city yesterday from Mrs. M. J. Fox, that her sister, Mrs. Billings, of Lewiston, Idaho, is dead. Mrs. Fox was notified of her sister's illness about a week ago and at once hastened to her bedside, reaching there several days before her death. Mrs. Billings visited in this city for several weeks this past summer. She was ten or twelve years younger than Mrs. Fox.

One Lorn Democrat—

D. J. Ingalls came into town last night with the vote from Melville precinct, which went 14 for Taft and one for Bryan. "We can't kill that one lorn Democrat off out there," said Mr. Ingalls in response to an inquiry. "His name is Carl Johnson, and he's all right, but I've never been able to convert him. Some day we're hoping that he will come over on the right side and then we will cast a straight vote for the Republican ticket." After Mr. Ingalls heard the report in favor of Taft he said, "Well, I guess I can go him and go to sleep now."

Home From Kentucky—

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Burlingame, with baby Clover, have arrived in this city from a five-week tour in the middle west and westerly-east. They went back to Lexington, Kentucky, to meet kin and friends, and to Cincinnati, to attend the annual convention of Laundrymen of the country, and enjoyed the trip immensely. The convention was a great success, there being 1200 managers and representative men of the business assembled from all parts of the nation. The return trip was made to cover as much ground of interest as possible and they visited Salt Lake City, Denver, Colorado Springs and Manitou. At this latter point they enjoyed the novelty of a snowstorm. All are well and glad to get back.

For R. F. D. Route—

A postal inspector made an investigation of the advisability of establishing a free delivery route out of Warrenton last week, and the people of the community understand that he will make a favorable report on the matter. Warrenton had made application for the free delivery route, and if it be established it will probably be a very welcome aid to the farmers of that district. An application has also been made to establish a postoffice at Morrison, but if the rural route is started it is not probable that the postoffice will be established, but if the route is not established it is expected the postoffice will be. One or the other is required. It is hoped to have the rural route in operation within 60 days. It would run westerly, half way to the Clatsop postoffice.

Put Up Nasty Fight—

About 11 o'clock last night Patrolman Tom Linville, while walking his Astor street beat, was called to one of the joints in the neighborhood to compel some bumptious Hindus to behave themselves. This he did, finding it necessary in the course of the contact to rap one of the turbulent bunch with his club, and the man cursed him roundly and vowed to "cut his entrails out" later, all of which did not disturb the big policeman to any extent. In a little while he found the same crowd in the neighborhood and acting worse than before, and when he ordered them to move on, the leader started to draw something from his hip, when Lin-

CONSIDER SYSTEM OF THE TUITION

BOARD OF EDUCATION WILL FIND OUT COUNTY COURT'S INTENTION IN MATTER.

At the meeting of the board of education last night the question of admitting pupils back into the public schools after they have been afflicted with some contagious disease was considered at some length. Heretofore the rules pertaining to such admission have been very rigid. Dr. Clara Reames, the city health officer, was present at the session by invitation of the board and spoke upon the matter. It was decided to admit such pupils in the future on the certificate of the health officer, instead of having a certain definite and rather lengthy period of probation before entrance is possible.

The question of tuition from the pupils who enter the High School from the county was discussed by the board also. There are now quite a number of such county pupils in the High School and no arrangement has been made in regard to their tuition. Readers of the Astorian will perhaps recall a recent article which explained this matter at some length—a recent law provides that the county court may make some arrangement with the board of education to pay the tuition out of the county taxes. But inasmuch as the county court cannot make a levy of taxes for this purpose until after the first of the new year, it has refused to take any action in the premises. It is understood that the board of education have left the matter open to ascertain what the county court intends to do in the matter; if it gives an assurance that the tuition is to be paid sooner or later the board of education, it is understood, will be content with such an assurance. But if the county court fails to make some arrangement or assurance it is said the board will be compelled to send the bills for such tuition to the parents of the county pupils and then let the pupils' look to the county court for any reimbursement that may be made to them.

ville mashed him over the arm with his club, and then had to put the nippers on him to get him in "marching order." He headed for the city hall with the man, whose companions trailed on behind and at the corner of Tenth and Bond, the fellow struck him a swinging blow on the point of the nose, which for the instant almost staggered the officer, but he soon subdued the drunken scrapper, and landed him behind the bars, from whence he will be taken into court today. Officer Linville says that since he has been in business of manhandling he has never received such a blow that he can recall.

Spoke At Warrenton—

Judge Taylor spoke on the issues of the campaign to an appreciative audience at Warrenton Monday night. All Warrenton turned out to hear, and the address was reported yesterday to have been an excellent one. In the audience were several Democrats and one, according to a Warrenton man who was here yesterday, tried to make himself conspicuous by interpolating foolish questions. Then C. F. Lester, at the close of Judge Taylor's address, arose and said something which will be remembered in Warrenton for a long time. "There is a man in this audience who used to work for me many years ago," said Mr. Lester, "and I paid him $1.30 a day, the standard wages of that time. This man now is earning $4 a day at the same work, and tomorrow he will vote for Bryan." That was all Mr. Lester had to say. It seemed more than enough.
