

EX-SENATOR CARMACK IS SHOT DOWN AT NASHVILLE, TENN.

Has Exciting Street Duel With Robin Cooper.

POLITICS THE CAUSE

Two Shots are Fired by the Assassin and One by the Senator.

CARMACK DIES INSTANTLY

The Former Senator, Editor of the "Tennessean," Had Been Writing Campaign Editorials About Colonel D. B. Cooper and Son Kills Him.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 9.—Former Senator Edward Carmack, editor of the "Tennessean," was shot and killed late this afternoon on Seventh avenue by Robin Cooper, son of Colonel Duncan B. Cooper. Carmack was going north on Seventh avenue and Colonel Cooper and his son were approaching Seventh avenue on Union street. Soon after they came in sight of one another the shooting began, Robin Cooper, it is said, firing two shots and Senator Carmack one. Colonel Cooper, it is said, drew his pistol but did not fire. Carmack fell to the ground, dying instantly.

It is understood the trouble was one of the results of the recent Democratic gubernatorial primary election in which Carmack was defeated. Carmack since becoming editor of the "Tennessean" in caustic criticism of what he called the Democratic machine, printed several editorials about Colonel Cooper within the last two days. It is asserted that Colonel Cooper notified Carmack that these editorials must cease. Another editorial referring to the Colonel appeared this morning and this is supposed to be the immediate cause of the tragedy. Young Cooper is in the hospital. Colonel Cooper is held at police headquarters. He has made no statement. Robin Cooper is an attorney 27 years of age and single.

The body of Carmack was prepared for burial and taken to the home of Frank Lander, general manager of the Tennessean to be taken to Columbia, his former home tomorrow.

The combatants evidently were close together when the firing was begun but the question is who fired the first shot in the controversy. Mrs. Charles H. Eastman of this city and J. M. Eastman of New York were near by when the tragedy occurred.

VICIOUS ASSAULT ON POSTMASTER

Edward Morgan, Postmaster of New York, Shot by Eric Mackey, Who Then Kills Himself.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Postmaster Edward W. Morgan, of this city, was shot down in the street as he was leaving his house in 146th street for the postoffice this morning by Eric H. Mackey, a stenographer employed by a down-town law firm, who then shot and killed himself. The single bullet which struck Mr. Morgan entered at the right side of the abdomen and passed out at the left side without penetrating the curled. Mr. Eastman's hearing is imperfect and he declared he knew little of the affair. Mrs. Eastman said:

"We were walking down Seventh avenue in the direction of Church street had just passed the entrance to the Polk flats. Mr. Carmack came up the street toward us smiling as he recognized me. He was some steps away and there were few people on the street. Mr. Eastman and I were near the edge of the sidewalk and Mr. Carmack passed between us and the entrance. He raised his hat as we spoke. He had his right hand up and about to make a remark when somebody said (it was the older voice): 'We've got you all right,' or something to that effect. I can't say positively what the exact words were. It never occurred to me that it was anything more than a friend speaking. Mr. Carmack raised his eyes instantly put on his hat and his hand back when the voice said: 'You coward; you are hiding behind a woman are you?' 'Senator Carmack jumped out so as to get clear of me, and I ran into a gateway. I saw that Mr. Carmack had a pistol. I turned and said, 'For (Continued on page 6)

BANK WRECKER MORSE IN HOPEFUL MOOD

MAKES APPLICATION FOR RELEASE ON BAIL AND JOES WITH AN OFFICIAL.

BAIL DECISION IS RESERVED

Large Crowds Gather to See Morse Transferred to the Federal Building Where Application For Bail Was Heard.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Charles W. Morse, who was rated two years ago as worth more than $20,000,000, swore under oath today that he had not enough money or securities left to pay his debts. The revelation was made in connection with his application for release on bail. Decision on the application was reserved.

Center street, in the vicinity of the Tombs prison, was packed today with people waiting the expected transfer of Charles W. Morse, who last week was sentenced to 15 years in prison, to the Federal building, where his counsel made an effort to obtain his release on bail. When an electric cab containing Mrs. Morse and her two step-sons came down toward the Tombs it was only with the greatest difficulty that a passage-way was cleared for it. As Morse was re-entering his cell, met the Deputy Warden of the prison: "I think I shall leave this apartment pretty quick," said he, as he stood in the grated door, "and I don't think I'll come back. I want to thank you for the consideration you have shown me here, but I'd just as soon be out."

EFFECT OF NO RACES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Should there be no racing in this state next year, the jockey club may draw the 40-odd stallions, now on farms throughout this state and return them to their owners for private use. The jockey club lent the stallions to the farmers of the country with the anticipation that this would encourage breeding of better light harness and draught horses, than those on the market.

IMPORTANT DECISION IN SCHOOL CASE

STATES MAY PREVENT CO-EDUCATION OF WHITE AND BLACK RACES.

RENDERED BY HIGHEST COURT

United States Supreme Court Settles Case of Berea College vs. State of Kentucky Upholding Circuit Court and Court of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—In deciding the case of Berea College vs. State of Kentucky, favorably to the State, the Supreme Court of the United States today held that the States of the Union may constitutionally legislate to prevent co-education of the white and black races. The case was instituted to test the validity of the State law of 1904 prohibiting white and black children attending the same schools. The higher State court held that the races were naturally antagonistic and that forced a separation of the children of the white and black races that is in line with the preservation of peace. In its opinion the supreme court affirmed the findings in both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals.

RESULTS IN THE PRIMARIES

Much Confusion Evident In the Voting.

ELMORE IS NOMINATED

Kearney for Street Superintendent and Carruthers for Police Commissioner.

CANVAS OF THE VOTES TODAY

Smith Nominated by the Democrats While Anderson and Dealey Are Nominated on Both Tickets as is Also C. J. Curtis in Second Ward.

At midnight last night all those who had been figuring on the primary had gone home, and no one knew just how the election stood with exactness. The returns show a mass of undigested figures, but out of it all a few facts stand forth prominently.

Mr. Elmore received the nomination for the Mayoralty on the Republican ticket by a very large vote. Mr. Smith received the nomination on the Democrat ticket by what appears to be a small vote.

The vote is somewhat mixed up on the informal returns gathered last night, for the reason that quite a few Democrats voted for Mr. Elmore as the candidate on the Democrat ticket, and also for the additional reason that in one or more of the precincts the judges apparently "bunched" the votes for Mr. Elmore, counting together in one total the votes he received on both the Republican and Democrat tickets.

It appeared last night from a survey of the figures that Mr. Kearney receives the nomination for street superintendent and Mr. Wenjar receives the same nomination on the Democrat ticket.

Out of 1169 voters registered for the primaries, only about 180 were registered as Democrats, while practically all of the remainder were registered as Republicans, only a few registering as Independents. The Independents could not vote yesterday. Hence it was inevitable that the real Democrat vote of yesterday could not exceed this 180 votes.

One of the surprising things lies in the fact that quite a few Democrats kept voting on the Republican ticket. The vote for the candidates for the Mayoralty will illustrate how the voting went. On the Republican ticket Mr. Elmore received about 412 votes, and on the Republican ticket Mr. Smith received about 85 votes.

On the Democrat ticket Mr. Elmore also received votes, though Mr. Smith received more than he, always remembering that the entire Democrat ticket was comparatively small. It was not possible to get the Democrat figures accurately last night.

For the street superintendency the contest was keen among the four Republican candidates. Mr. Kearney received about 222 votes; Mr. Loughery received about 121; Mr. Sherman received about 80, and Mr. Steffen received about 120. These figures being taken from the face of the returns.

On the Republican ticket for the police commissioner Mr. Carruthers received 230 votes; Dr. Barr 23, and Mr. Bergman 17, but no one seemed to be able to figure out who got it on the Democrat ticket. The Democrats still kept voting in their candidates as Republicans. There was a secret movement to give it to Bergman, it is said.

The contest for the council in the Second ward shows some interesting figures. On the Republican ticket Curtis won with 91 votes for the 2-year term, with Davies receiving 32 votes. For the 4-year term Schmidt received 110 votes, with no opposition on his own ticket for this term. This leaves Mr. Curtis and Mr. Schmidt the nominees on the Republican ticket.

On the Democrat ticket for the 4-year term Dr. Logan got 17 votes (or less), while Mr. Kaboth got 37 votes, giving the victory to Mr. Kaboth. But for the 2-year term on the Democrat ticket Mr. Curtis got 15 votes, also giving him this nomination. He thus has the nomination for the 2-year term on both tickets.

Olof Anderson and Thos. Dealey, for city auditor and treasurer respectively, having no opposition, were nominated by both parties, many voters writing the names of these candidates on the Republican ticket, the spaces for the offices being left blank on the official ticket of that party.

Today the figures will probably be straightened out.

MONEY IN SQUEALS.

Canned for the Moving Picture Show At Five Cents Per.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—An inventive genius has discovered that there is money in a pig's squeal. That, the late P. D. Armour said, was the only thing that went to waste at the stockyards, and it now has a cash value. Millions of dollars worth of squeals have gone to waste because it was not known what use to make of them. But now that their real value has been discovered, the public will have to pay for squeals just the same as it pays for the hams, the loins and other parts of the American porker.

Last Saturday a man carrying a camera and a machine for making phonograph records, presented himself at the stockyards and asked permission to take some pictures for use in a 5c theater to illustrate a pictorial slide that is to be entitled "A Day at the Stockyards."

"I will first take a set of moving pictures," he said, and then I will get a record for the phonograph."

The man proceeded to can the squeals of hogs hoisted to death in the shackling pens.

SCRIBER RELEASED ON $40,000 BONDS

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES COME TO HIS AID—MAY PAY INDEBTEDNESS.

SAYS HE MAY PLEAD GUILTY

Several Conferences Reported to Have Been Held by Sympathizers With View of Squaring All Pecuniations of the Former Bank Cashier.

PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—J. W. Scriber, formerly cashier who wrecked the Farmers' and Traders' Bank of La Grande, Oregon, was released from custody today in bonds of $40,000 provided by friends and relatives. In connection with his release it was given out on what is regarded reliable authority that several conferences have been held by Scriber's relatives and friends with a view of making good the entire indebtedness of the ex-banker. It is also rumored that he will plead guilty when arraigned.

Scriber's bail on the first count of forgery is $15,000 and $25,000 on the second count on a similar charge, the principal complainant being the United States owing to the fact that the La Grande bank was a national institution.

TERRIFYING EXPERIENCE OF MRS. GENEVIEVE PHIPPS

A NOBLE GIFT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A memorial stained window has been given to Plymouth church, Brooklyn, by Lord Northcliffe, the British newspaper owner, who is now in this country. Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of the church, in making the announcement of the gift, said it was really one to the American people, inasmuch as Lord Northcliffe reminded him (Dr. Hillis) that Americans gave a memorial window to the church at Stratford-on-Avon and were planning to place a tablet in Westminster Abbey in memory of James Russell Lowell. The window will be one of a series representing "The Influence of Puritanism on Democracy and Liberty in America."

INCENDIARY FIRE WAS DEEP LAID PLOT

HOTEL AT WALLACE, IDAHO, DESTROYED AND MAN IS BURNED.

TAMPER WITH WATER SUPPLY

Fire Department is Called Half a Mile Distant and in Few Minutes Hotel Was Aflame—Landlord Had Been Threatened.

WALLACE, Idaho, Nov. 9.—Investigation of the fire which destroyed the Western Hotel early today, resulting in the death of a young man named Curtis, shows evidence of a well laid plot. George Black the proprietor was threatened many times by alleged members of a labor organization and early today the fire department was called to a point half a mile from the hotel on a false alarm. A few minutes later the hotel was in flames. It has been discovered that the water flumes were tampered with to reduce the water supply to a minimum.

HEARTY APPLAUSE GREET'S GOMPERS

There Will Be No Fight in Federation Convention Over His Action During Recent Campaign.

DENVER, Nov. 9.—Hearty applause was given President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor when the twenty-eighth annual convention of that body opened today and also at the close of his report which he read at the afternoon session, and is interpreted to indicate that there will be no effective opposition to his re-election. "The statement that there will be a big fight in the convention in regard to the action of Gompers in the recent campaign will not be fulfilled," said John Mitchell, former president of the United Mineworkers of America, and a delegate to the labor convention. "The action of Gompers was the result of instructions given him by the federation at previous conventions and he will have virtually the entire support of the present convention."

Woman Threatens Her With Dynamite.

DEMANDED $20,000

Rides in Automobile With Black-mailer Who Poses as Magazine Writer.

IS CAPTURED BY DETECTIVES

Woman Enters Automobile And Riding With Mrs. Phipps For 15 Minutes Demands Money and Exhibits Two Sticks of Dynamite.

DENVER, Nov. 9.—After haunting the residence of her intended victim two days and making efforts of every imaginable kind to get into communication with her an unknown woman who threatened Mrs. Genevieve Chandler Phipps, the divorced wife of Lawrence Phipps, the Pittsburgh millionaire, with death unless she was given $20,000, was foiled in her design by clever bank and city detectives.

To avoid the woman Mrs. Phipps went automobiling in the p.m. today. She was proceeding slowly along the park roads when suddenly the woman appeared and jumped into the machine. She assured Mrs. Phipps that she was a magazine writer and talked so entertainingly, that Mrs. Phipps was reassured and they rode together for 15 minutes. Suddenly the woman produced two sticks of dynamite and demanded the payment of $20,000 within an hour or Mrs. Phipps would be destroyed. Mrs. Phipps directed the chauffeur to drive to the bank. The woman insisted that Mrs. Phipps' young daughter be taken along and the machine stopped at school and the daughter was taken in. The party then proceeded to the bank and Mrs. Phipps induced the woman to remain in the machine while she went in to get the money. She told the situation and asked that detectives be sent for. The bank detectives engaged the woman in conversation and when the city detectives arrived they slipped up behind and jumped into the machine. The woman then knew the game was up and threw the dynamite but the upholstered seats prevented an explosion and an awful calamity as the streets were crowded.
