OCEAN, BAR,
BAY, DOCK AND RIVER

The French bark Bossuet, now in port, and just from Newcastle, with a cargo of coal for Hind, Rolfe & Company, of Portland, will be docked at the Elmre bunkers today, weather permitting, to discharge 1000 tons of anthracite for G. W. Sanborn. She will be the first ship to engage the new hoists and apparatus there, and there is much interest afoot to see how it will all work. The Brown McCabe Company, Captain Ritchie, will attend to the unloading.

The fine San Francisco tug Hercules arrived down the river yesterday with oil barge No. 91 on her hawsers and will depart for the Bay City when the present gale subsides. Captain Dan Thompson of the Hercules, and one of the oldest and ablest tug masters on the Pacific Coast, was in the city all day yesterday, meeting and greeting a host of old-time mariner friends, and others who have known and appreciated him for long years.

The steamer Lurline was down on schedule time last evening, despite the gale that prevailed in her very teeth for the last 30 miles of her voyage from Portland, and went back at 7 o'clock, with plenty of business. She took with her, as passengers, "Jim" Wallace, A. G. Starr, Miss H. E. Detz, Senator and Mrs. J. G. Megler and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McFarland Day Clerk Harold Bayne's mother is dying at Portland and he has been relieved for a trip or two.

The steamer Homer is due in from San Francisco at any old hour now.

The steamer Nome City, from Portland to San Francisco, with lumber and passengers, was due down from the metropolis last night, on her way out. She will probably be bound-in, instead of being bound out, for a few hours, at least.

Interesting Picture.
"The Call of the Wild", a moving picture which undoubtedly originated from Robert Edson's successful "Strongheart," is being shown at the Grand theatre the first part of this week. The picture tells a story of a young Indian who gained fame as a hero in a college football game.

He comes in contact with a distinguished army officer who introduces the young buck to his daughter. The Indian falls in love with the young lady and asks her to become his wife; she refuses, he then becomes desperate and responds to the "call of the wild" where he rejoins his own kind, and seeks to forget his sorrow with over-indulgence in firewater. In this he is not successful and while in a fit of passion he induces his followers under his command to kidnap the girl. His plan carries out but just as he secures his prize, the girl recalls his college life where he had made such an excellent record and good name for himself. She pleads with him and finally induces him to allow her to return to her father's home.

The picture is intensely interesting and exciting throughout and is probably one of the best seen in this city for some time. Tonight will be the last opportunity to witness "The Call of the Wild" and it is well worth the time of anyone to pay the Grand a visit. The balance of the program is also above the ordinary.

A FEW CITY EMPLOYEES BECOME BRASH

THOUGH PUBLIC SERVANTS, THEY SIMPLY CAN'T KEEP OUT OF POLITICS.

The pernicious activity of a few of the men employed by the city in one department or another in the local campaign has been the cause of remark for the past several weeks.

Just why certain men in the fire and police departments, for direct example, should put themselves to the front in fighting Mr. Elmore and the other Republican candidates will of course, not be plain except to those who are familiar with certain political and other conditions.

The good men of these departments seem to know enough to act as such public servants ought, but others seem to think that their chances for continuation in office depend upon the election of the Democrat or Citizens' ticket. Of course it is known that they have evidently thought they were going all this so quietly that it would never reach the ears of the Republicans. Yet it has been the talk of the town.

One prominent official has whispered the "sympathy" racket wherever he could.

Probably if some of these men would only take a casual glance at the Huntley corrupt practice act they might have a fit instanter.

Besides even good, substantial business men when elected to office. But if these few men remain reasonably and decently inconspicuous in their political leanings they certainly will have no reason to fear Mr. Elmore or others of his administration, in case of their election.

ACCEPTS CAPTAINCY OF SECOND COMPANY

GUSTAF A. HEMPLE, CHOICE OF ORGANIZERS—TO TAKE OVER LEAD LATER.

The pleasant intelligence reached this office yesterday that Gustaf A. Hemple, the well known young attorney, of this city, has accepted the captaincy of the Second Company, Coast Artillery, about to be organized in Astoria. This gives sharp encouragement to the work of organization and will be the means of expediting the work by those to whom it is a matter of serious interest. There is as yet no organization, but he is the choice of those making the effort to perfect it.

Mr. Hemple is an excellent leader in such a premise and will make an admirable officer for the new military establishment. He has seen service in Cuba and Porto Rico during the reconstruction period following the Cuban troubles, and has also had considerable experience in military work at Chicago; his term of service in this behalf aggregating four and one-half years. He will give earnest and intelligent attention to the trust when it shall reach him and will do his utmost to make the company a credit to the State and the corps to which it belongs.

Mr. Hemple desires it to be understood that he is in possession of the necessary blank applications for membership, which any young man may have by calling at this office in the Odd Fellows' block.

CITY PRINTING WILL BE LET AGAIN

ORDINANCE TO BE INTRODUCED AT NEXT MEETING CALLING FOR BIDS.

At the next meeting of the common council an ordinance will be introduced calling for bids for the city printing for a term of two or three years.

The present city printing contract was originally granted to C. J. Curtis, who in turn assigned it. The terms are 40-20—that is, 40 cents for the first insertion of an inch of non-panels type, or its equivalent, and 20 cents for every subsequent insertion. The other general printing required by the city is done at certain stipulated rates, and like the present 40-20 rate may be deemed a fairly low rate for such public printing. Usually a 30-15 rate for city printing is deemed a low rate. Some cities on the Pacific Coast are now paying as much as 80-40, while 60-30 is not uncommon.

SECOND PERILOUS FALL WITHIN 24 HOURS

MR. MCFARLANE STEPS FROM A. & C. TRESTLE IN DARK-NESS LAST EVENING.

The Lurline dock and its neighboring slips and trestles are becoming unpleasantly famous for the accidents there of late, the second case of narrow escape from drowning falling from there in the past 24 hours. Last evening, just as darkness closed down, a man by the name of W. H. McFarlane, who had just come across from the north-shore accompanied by his wife, and prepared for a journey to Portland, via the steamer Lurline, was crossing the A. & C. trestle directly to the eastward of the Lurline warehouse gangway, when the Portland-bound express came up from Seaside, and in the dim light surrounding him, McFarlane, to escape the train, stepped off on one side of the trestling, thinking to find footing on the dock alongside, and plunged down into the river along with a heavy suitcase he was carrying.

He gave a sharp cry as he went down, and instantly there were scores of men on the spot to aid him back to safety. He was hauled up alright, but the suitcase was a total loss, or is to this hour, at any rate, though it may be found later.

Mr. McFarlane was taken to the Lurline office and made as comfortable as possible until the steamer arrived when he went on board and retired in warm garments and a warm berth. The incident accentuates the necessity for the erection of railings about the open spaces thereabout by the A. & C. Company, for the sake of avoiding disaster and cost in the future.

NEW TO-DAY
NAME MEANS SOMETHING.

When A. E. Petersen built and named the "Modern" barber shop, he meant that it should stand for what it was called. No patron has missed a single feature of the modern tonorial parlor at that house; and every new device in the way of perfect comfort and service is constantly added as it develops. The latest is an expert bootblack, the best in the business; a qualification that makes his employment really modern.
