VETERAN MARINER VISITS ASTORIA

CAPTAIN FRANK TUTTLE OF REVENUE MARINE SERVICE SPENDS THE DAY HERE

Captain Frank Tuttle, U. S. R. M. (retired), the well known ex-commander of the federal revenue cutter "Perry" which left this port on the 20th of April, 1906, to carry supplies from Portland for the stricken city of San Francisco, and which has not entered this port since, arrived here yesterday morning on the steamship Rose City, a guest of Captain Ferguson. The jolly old mariner came down especially to visit for a day with his cherished old friend, Charles S. Wright, the host of the Occident, and a good time they had all day, until the departure of the evening express for the metropolis. They have been devoted friends for the past 30 years, and the meeting was full of pleasure for them both. Captain Tuttle is now living at Seattle with his daughter.

For the past 46 years this able and conscientious seaman has served his government in the navy and the revenue marine, always with success and credit, and when he laid down the burdens of his profession last year, he was senior officer of his rank in that branch, and his retirement was marked with honors from the department. He went out of the service just three days behind his old friend and ship-mate, Captain Tozier, now dwelling in the East, and with whom, for 30 years, he had been closer than a brother. They had faced many a fierce gale and many a wicked coast together, and in their several ships, and always met with gladness when luck threw them in each others way.

Captain Tuttle has commanded everything that ever sailed the Pacific in the revenue service, and he knows the coasts of this ocean, from the regions of the North Pole to the Isthmus of Panama, as he knows the compass itself. For a man of 65 he is as lively and light-hearted as a boy, but he has a reserve of stern dignity that makes itself felt on the instant he exerts it. He is the same good company he always is in a crowd of people he knows and likes and can "spin a cuffer" with the zest and spirit of a youngster.

His last ship, and the one he has commanded most in the 30 years of his service out here, was the Bear, in which he has penetrated the waters of the far north nearly a score of voyages, reaching Point Barrow, year after year, when all others had tried it and failed time and again.

After a delightful day spent here with a host of old-time friends and in meeting a lot more who were glad to know him, the genial captain took the 6:10 train for Portland and after an over-Sunday stay there, will set a course for the Puget Sound metropolis.

BEEF MAY GO EAST.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 21.—The Republic tomorrow will say that negotiations are pending between Rutledge & Kilpatrick of this city and a syndicate of eastern financial men for acquisition of the entire land and stock holdings of the firm of Miller & Lux of San Francisco. The St. Louis firm has an option on the property. The deal involves more than $20,000,000 and will mean a passing of the greater part of the butcher business of the Pacific slope into the hands of Eastern men who, dispatches from the west assert, are affiliated with the beef trust.

PAPER TRUST GRILLED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A severe arraignment of the so-called paper trust was a feature of today's tariff hearing. After the hearing of arguments mainly for the protective tariff which occupied attention until nearly 5 o'clock, the House committee listened to the testimony of John Norris, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. Norris argued for free trade in pulp and print paper, giving figures to show that the protection afforded paper manufacturers by the present tariff resulted in unreasonable prices.

OREGON JURISDICTION IS DETERMINED

SEVEN ISLANDS AND 14 SANDS NOW BELONG TO THIS STATE.

PORTLAND, November 21.—According to the text of the decision of the United States Supreme Court awarding jurisdiction over Sand Island to Oregon, this state gets five other islands in the Columbia river and more than a dozen fine fishing grounds technically known as "sands." It will also mean additional revenue amounting to several thousands of dollars a year from fishing licenses, mostly from the seiners. The exact amount is entirely conjectural. State Master Fish Warden McAllister, this morning, wouldn't even venture a guess. The increase is likely to run not much below $10,000 a year.

That it meant such a signal victory for this state was not known until printed copies of the decision together with drawings and maps marking new and old channel with the official boundary line between the two states arrived here yesterday. It was then apparent that not only was Sand Island awarded to Oregon, but other important islands for a considerable stretch in the river above Astoria, reaching as far up as Puget Island.

The list of islands and "sands" which are embodied in the decision are the following: Islands—Sand, Walker, Snag, Woody, Tenas, Illihee and Puget; Sands—Desdemona, Kearsarge, Ryan, Miller, Reed, Emyert, Oliver, Kaboth, Johnson, Bauman, Helgerson, Henry Colwell, Taylor, a total of six islands and 14 sands.

Among the islands, of course, Sand Island is regarded as the most important and was the one around which the inter-state boundary dispute centered. At the same time Tenas Illihee, Woody and Puget Islands are of considerable size. Desdemona Sands are the most important of the 14 tracts of this character over which Oregon will hereafter fix fishing and other regulations and exact revenue from the interests fishing from them.

"I haven't had time to figure out just how much more money that will mean in licenses," said Master Fish Warden McAllister today, "but it will be a pretty big sum. From the press dispatches which have been published here summarizing the provisions of the decision it was not brought out very clearly that Oregon gained much more than Sand Island, but in the first paragraph of the text of the opinion which I have just received, the rest of the territory is given in detail."
