Canaries of Paris. The vender of chickweed in Paris is a well known figure. The sellers are numerous, and their ery is one of the most noteworthy of those that resound in the morning in the streets of the French capital. According to the Bulletin des Halles, there are about a hundred thousand canaries in the capital, and the dally consumption of chickweed is estimated at $2,000. This sum looks large, but it allows only 2 cents for each bird. A Paris contemporary points out that a goodly portion of land between Suresnes and Courbevole is set aside for the cultivation

"Has any one called?" Mrs. Johnson shook her head, and IT'S A GOOD THING TO REFER the stream of neighborhood happenings which suburbanites love to discuss in the bosoms of their families continued to pour forth from her eager tips. But still she did not reveal the source of her information, and the news kept teaking out at intervals throughout dinner.

Untaken and Not Paid For. Andy McTavish was "no feelin' juist weel," so he went to the doctor and stated his complaints,

"What do you drink?" demanded the medleo.

"Whusky." "How much?" "Maybe a bottle a day." "Do you smoke?" "Yes."

"How much?" "Two ounces a day." "Well, you give up whisky and tobacco altogether."

Andy took up his cap and in three steps reached the door. "Andy," called the doctor, "you have not paid for my advice."

"Ah'm no' takin' it," snapped Andy as he shut the door behind him .- Cal gary (Canada) Herald.
