The first school of its kind-one to enable women to earn their living in a specialized field has just been started here. New York has already had various courses of instruction for the fair sex ranging from those which through culinary education and an initiation into the mysteries of bables, radiators, furnaces and finance were calculated to enable a woman to make a model wife for mere, man, MRS. F. WOOLLEY to those which through higher courses of learning aimed to enable her to supplant him in the commercial field. The new course, however, which is being carried on at one of the citys high schools aims only to make woman proficient in her own fieldparticularly as a saleswoman. The course, which lasts nine months, is largely made up of laboratory work, F. that is practical instruction in the art of selling anything from pins to pianos.
