Her laugh, reckless, unmirthful, echoed along its hoarse trail. "Sunshine!" she cried. "Bab, I like this better! It puts in one's soul a sense of strength, ambition to overcome obstacles, to rise above foolish grieving. That's what I want."

She clung to a sapling, bending with its sway, closing her eyes, drinking in deep drafts of the invigorating air, whose frosty breath stung her cheeks

"Come!" rang her voice. "Come on, old Boreas! Swing me! Pelt me! Help

There was a wildness in her supplication, a beseeching note. Edwina Surrey, throwing hersell to nature's rough embrace, had much to forget. A shout-that of a panting man and alarmingly near-caused the girl to turn
