A number of civizens of Grant couny who have hitherto strongly opposed the removal of the troops now express their willingness that Fort Harney should be abandoned, saying that now the Indians are gone they see no ne cessity for maintaining & garrison, and will be glad to h we the Indian and Military Reservation thrown open to settlemer t.

In view of these facts, and taking into consideration the cost of maintaining a garrison at Fort Harney, and the necessity that exists for building new n4-n8 stables; and making other repairs in the near future if the post is to be maintained, I reccommend that Fort Harney be abandoned and the Military Reservation throwa open to settle-
