NEUTRAL IN POLITICS UNDER ALL CIRCUMSTANCES.

SARAH WINNEMUCCA.

On last Wednesday, Sarah Winne-mucca and her sister, Emma, arrived in this place, escorted by two soldiers. They came from Fort Harney and the two women were wet to the skin, having forded the creeks and travelled all day in a drizzling rain. Sarah is on her way to Yakima to try to induce her people to return to the Malheur Agency, and she informed us that Leg-gius and his band and all of Oits' band, except Pady Caps, Oits, Beads and Charley, will return, they not being allowed to return. The above bands will embrace about 400 people.

From Nevada, she says, Ochoho's band, her father and family and a number of Putes on the Humboldt will return to the Agency; about 300 in all; making a total of 700 Indians on the Reserve. We informed Sarah that it was a dangerous undertaking to have the savages return, as our people were very mad and that the people openly threat that if an Indian is caught off of the Reserve that they will be shot. In fact, some have suggested the idea that about 300 people go down the road and turn the Yakima bands back and not allow them to come here. She said that her people all knew how the whites feel and were afraid to come back unless troops were stationed near them for protection and also to hold the bad Indians in bounds. We suggested to her that it would be a good thing if she would plead with, and urge, Gen. Howard to recommend that a post be established some place in the upper end of this valley. She said that Gen. Howard was a very close friend of hers and that she would use every means to have the Gen. do as we suggested; that McDermitt was a useless post and that Harney should be maintained, or a new post established some place near the Indians. She says that if she succeeds in getting her people back to the Reserve that they want it distinctly understood that no other tribes will be allowed to communicate with them, as they brew trouble.

Sarah also says that the war of 1878 was planned three years before the outbreak, and that Jerry Long knew it. If that was the case it certainly takes a great unjust blame off of Maj. Rinehart. She seems to think that the Government is to blame for the actions of the Indians as they promise and never fulfill their promises. One thing is certain, that is, that if the Indians do return to this county and the troops are removed, trouble is sure to ensue, as the people here are determined to protect themselves, and since Gen. McDowell has said that he sees no use in maintaining a post in a country where 248 white men can be found to sign a petition to have the post retained, they propose to act in conjunction with his remarks and protect themselves, hence trouble will come of it. Sarah had better let "her people" remain in the several localities where they are or be sure that troops are stationed near the Reservation for the prevention of war before "her people" do return. She says she is over 43 years old and that this is her last work for the Government as they have not kept their promises with her, and as soon as she gets through with this job she is going east to lecture.

Providing for our Indians.

The following items in relation to Indian tribes and agencies in the Northwest are taken from Washington correspondence of the Catholic Sentinel:

The salary of the interpreters is fixed at $3,000 a year, but the sum of $4,000 is appropriated for additional payment to interpreters, to be distributed in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior. Seven are authorized for the agencies in Oregon, as follows: Two at Klamath and one each at Grand Rond, Siletz, Umatilla, Warm Springs and Malheur. Six are authorized for the agencies in Washington, to be assigned to such agencies as the Secretary of the Interior may direct.

The following are the appropriations for subsistence and civilization of certain tribes, including pay of employees, namely: Confederated tribes and bands in Middle Oregon, $8,000; D'Wamish (Tualips) and other allied tribes, $11,000; Makahs, $7,000; Quinaielts, $6,000; Skallams, $8,000; Walla Walla, Cayuse and Umatilla tribes, $14,000; Yakima, $22,000, and Indians collected on Malheur Reservation, $15,000. The sum of $5,000, to be expended by the direction of the President in assisting the roving bands of Indians in South-eastern Oregon to move and locate on some proper reservation in Oregon and to assist them in agricultural pursuits thereon, is also appropriated. The following are the general appropriations: Incidental expenses of the service in Oregon, $24,000. This includes an undetermined amount for the support and civilization of the Indians at Grand Rond and Siletz agencies, and incidental expenses of the service in Washington Territory, including an undetermined amount for the support and civilization of the Indians at the Colville and Nesqually agencies, $20,000.

For the past week this vicinity has been visited by either rain or snow almost every day.
