

A Teaching Story.

A rare example of constancy, courage and devotion combined has just been furnished by a brave young peasant woman, born and bred in a remote hamlet of the Vosges. Marie Hogat, this heroine in humble life, bade adieu to her husband some months since, and saw him start for the great city of Paris in the hope of obtaining employment. But almost upon his arrival in the capital he fell ill, and being without funds, was taken to the Hospital de la Pitie. The news of his illness reached the hamlet where his wife lived in course of time, and the latter, listening only to the pronouncements of her heart, determined to join her sick husband at once. She was utterly destitute. To travel by rail was therefore out of the question, so she started on foot with a baby in her arms, just forty cents in her pocket, and a journey of 309 miles before her. Braving hardships of every description, sleeping by the roadside or in the fields, and living on what scraps of food she could obtain on the way, she passed onward, nothing daunted, for the city where her husband lay sick. She had lost her way several times, her clothing was in rags, her shoes were gone, but her courage remained undiminished, until a few evenings ago, when, footsore and weary, she found herself at Claretin, when she sank down in the street overcome by her sufferings, exhausted from want of food, exclaiming faintly, "Mon Dieu, I can go no further." Mother and child were conveyed to the police station, revived, warmed and tended, after which the poor woman related in a few simple words her touching story, seemingly astonished that those who listened to her should have been moved to express admiration for her conduct. Kindly persons offered the young woman all the assistance and shelter her forlorn position required, but her absorbing thought was to obtain news of the man for whom she had traveled so far. The police commissary undertook to satisfy her on this point, and in a few hours later she learnt that he whom she had walked so many miles to see had expired in the hospital ward twenty-four hours before her arrival. —[London Standard.

"A true artist," said Edmund Burke, "should put a generous deceit on the spectators and effect the noblest designs by easy methods. It is not always so easy to draw the line between deceit that at least are not ungenerous, and such as Mr. Gladstone had in view when, in one of his Midlothian speeches, he called this an age of shams—sham butter, sham silver, sham glory, and sham statesmanship. Is not this an age in which a striving after effect by short cuts and easy methods shows itself on every side of our civilization—in literature, science, commerce and politics, books and shops, in the measures of statesmen as well as in the advertisements of dealers, in the style of writing as well as in the style of architecture?"

A good story is told of the learned and witty Bishop Clark of Rhode Island, who is so widely known as the writer of charming essays for the New York Ledger. It is said that on one occasion a very fashionably "swell" from New York was paying a visit at the Bishop's house in Providence. When the host had escorted his young guest to his bedchamber, the exquisite, mindful of the morrow, and provident that he may make his appearance at breakfast all fresh and neat, said, most naively, "Bishop, I suppose I will put my boots outside my door?" "Oh! by all means, if you wish," said the Bishop. "They will be perfectly safe there; nobody will touch them."

Mr. Ruskin, in reply to a letter addressed to him on the subject of the Lord Rectorship of Glasgow University, says: "What in the devil's name have you to do with either Mr. Disraeli or Mr. Gladstone? You are University students, and have no more to do with politics than with catching. I care no more for Disraeli or Gladstone than for two old bagpipes; but I hate all liberalism as I do Beelzebub."

The first railroad was laid in England in 1825, from Darlington to Stockton. The first railroad in France was laid in 1832, from St. Etienne to Lyons. In 1835, after investigating the subject, M. Thiers ventured to say that "railroads offer some advantages for the transportation of travelers, so far as the use of them is limited to very short lines terminating in great cities like Paris."

The Archbishop of Canterbury's memoir of his wife and son contains two good sayings of Dean Milman. At a Fallium garden-party, an emu was turned into one of the meadows. The cows gave chase, whereupon the Dean exclaimed, "Hello! there goes Colenso and all our bishops after him." The same day, seeing Bishop Wilberforce and the very Low-Church Bishop Villiers driving away together, he enjoined them as they started to go, "See that ye fall not out by the way."

Dr. L— called upon a lady acquaintance the other day and was met at the door by the lady's little girl. He asked her to tell her mamma that Dr. L— had called. The child went up stairs and presently returned. "Did you tell your mamma?" asked the doctor. "Yes," "And what did she say?" "She said, 'Oh, pshaw!'"

THE GREAT FAIR.

The Portland Evening Telegram in its well written notices of the Mechanic's Fair lately closed at that place, has this to say of the well-known house of

NEWBURY, HAWTHORNE & CO. In the extreme west end of machinery hall is the exhibit made by the well-known house of Newbury, Hawthorne & Co. One of the most important parts of their exhibit to farmers is the world renowned Morrison Bros. plows, with both wood and steel beams, riding or walking plows. The wood beams all have double iron standards, bracing well from both bottom and top, in opposite directions. They are securely bolted to the beam, which has double the usual wrought iron support. The shape of the Morrison plow is peculiar to itself, it has a longer and higher point and higher shin than any plow in the American market. The mould-boards are set well forward and extra hardened. Newbury, Hawthorne & Co. are the only firm in Oregon which carry the Bessemer steel beam plow, made by Morrison Brothers. It is twelve pounds lighter than the iron beam and cannot be bent. In a trial of plows lately made by the Linn county council of the Patrons of Husbandry, the Morrison Brothers' plows made the highest number of points and was adopted by the Grange and recommended by them to the Patrons of Linn county. The plows are certainly well constructed and must be durable, light draft and do good work, as all concede who know them, and we see no good reason why farmers should use a chilled plow when they can have a "Morrison," which is stronger and more durable, lighter to handle, 100 pounds lighter draft and does equally good work in any soil. Farmers should see the "Morrison" before purchasing any other. One of the most important things they show is the

FAIRMEN'S FRIEND DRILL. A piece of farm machinery which they have sold for two years in Oregon, and which has given complete satisfaction. One of the great features of the drill is the cone gear for regulating the seeding. With all other drills thus far manufactured, in order to change the amount of seed sown per acre, the machine must be stopped, and the drive wheel and several cog wheels, removed at the cost of considerable time, while with the Farmer's Friend Drill it is instantly changed by a lever, and even without stopping the team if a change is desired during the operation of the drill. The quantity thus regulated is beyond the possibility of a mistake. It has a double loose feed, and has been tested in Europe and America, and pronounced the best drill on earth, receiving the gold medal both in Paris and Philadelphia. Newbury, Hawthorne & Co. have induced the manufacturers to make many important improvements in the drill, among which is the increase in size from twelve to twenty hoes, and the making of both the large wheels do the duty of drive wheels, being double-gear, and driving from both ends. They have also added a feed cone at each end, so as to regulate the seeding from each end. Heavy truss braces with bridgetree have also been added at this firm's suggestion. Notably in the exhibit made by this firm is the

ESTERLY SEEDER AND CULTIVATOR. The king of all seeders in America. It is said to be the most perfect and durable machine in the market. It requires no change of cog-wheels, has an agitator and improved metal drag, has castings also oil tempered teeth. A peculiar and valuable feature of the machine is that it has more scatterers and cylinders than any other, as it has five sets, while other machines use but three or four, and in the large machines the number is increased proportionally, which gives the most even and perfect distributions of the seed. It is the only seeder provided with an India rubber cut-off, which effectually prevents the cracking of grain. At every Fair where the Esterly seeder has been on exhibition it has obtained the highest premium over all others. As with the Farmer's Friend drill the house in Portland had to increase the Esterly to twenty hoes, and added like improvements with the exception of the cones. Both these machines are rigged for two, three or four horses abreast, according to the size of the machines. These improvements have been made necessary in order to meet the demands of the large farmers of Eastern Oregon and Washington, and at their branch house in Walla Walla the firm have had large sales of the machines. Teamsters are much delighted with the improved

WHITEWATER WAGON. Government standard, which is shown at the pavilion by the above firm. It is a fact that it is pronounced by all the best ironed wagon in the market. These wagons have, for a number of years, been used in the service of the United States Government, and have, without failure, stood the climatic tests of every section of this country. They are also used by the British Government in their operations in the northern part of this continent. They have recently been improved especially for this trade, have many improvements never before seen on any wagon, and are the best in the market on the Pacific coast, of which an examination will convince the most skeptical. This firm also carry the renowned Tension bolster, seat and pole springs. The bolster springs will carry from a half to five tons, and will outlast three new wagons. The seat springs are the best in the world, being so flexible that they cannot be put on a cramp or broken, and are adjustable to either wide or narrow track wagons. The pole springs are light, simple, effective and durable. They take the weight from the neck of the team and are adapted to all wagons with drop down poles.

THE WHIPPLE GUIDE. The farmer's friend and friend of his horses. The great equalizer of the age. Universally sought after where known. Relieves the team from all the jerking and shaking caused by rough roads and unevenness of the ground. Saves the team, saves the harness and makes the control of a wagon, drill or threshing machine so easy that a boy can take the place of a man, in driving either. The only place on the Pacific Coast where the Whipple wagon and the above improvements can be had is at Newbury, Hawthorne & Co., who carry a full stock of them. The KEY CITY EXTENSION TOPS For carriages, buggies and light wagons, are shown by the firm. The top is adapted to all uses, and suited to all weather. These tops may be used on a single or double-seated vehicles, and their three or four bowed jointed top may be used either on carriages or farm wagons, and can be changed from one to the other in five minutes. These tops range in price from $15 to $50, being less than one-half the cost of any other tops. The attention of farmer, carriage makers and dealers generally are invited to these desirable articles.

THE CENTENAL FANNING MILL. Both for farm and warehouses, are also exhibited. They are especially adapted to cleaning wheat, oats and barley, clover and timothy, flax, beans and corn meal. The Centennial Fanning Mill is the best constructed, durable and most complete in the world.

MISCELLANEOUS ARTICLES. Newbury, Hawthorne & Co. also show wheelbarrows, railroad and high-way plows and scrapers, Scott's patent four point steel barb fence wire both rod and galvanized, Randall's steel disk rolling harrows, California steel spring tooth harrows. The famous Truax Yankee pattern woodchoppers, axes, sledges and wedges are quite a feature. The famous Washoe picks, handled or unhandled, are also on exhibition, as well as a very superior a tie of hoes, shovels, spades, spading forks, potato hoes, and a full line of wood and steel agricultural hardware.

THE FIRM. No firm in Oregon is better and more favorably known throughout this Northwest coast than Newbury, Hawthorne & Co. They are enterprising and live dealers and no firm stands better with the farmers than they. The men that compose it are among our best citizens and their agents and employees are chosen with due regard to character. Long may they prosper.
