The official vote of the State has been declared by Secretary Erhart, which gives the Garfield electors an average plurality of 658 over those nominated in behalf of Hancock and about 420 over all competition. The greenback lunatics polled 245 votes in the State, of which W. A. Henry headed the list. The highest vote received on our side was 19,975 for Weatherford. That one man in Prineville, who scratched Uncle Jemmy Fulton, must feel somewhat lonely. Exchange.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

In Potosi, Wis., Nov. 6, 1880; Mrs. Martha A. Jackson, wife of C. M. Jackson.

Death has again visited our community and taken from the scenes and associations of this life, one of its most esteemed and useful members—Mrs. Martha A. Jackson.

Martha A. was born in Pike, one of the Mississippi counties of northern Missouri, Oct. 3, 1831. She was the eldest of a family of four sons and five daughters of F. H. and Mary Ann Bonham. In the year 1840 the family came to Wisconsin, and settled in a locality called Hurricane, in the town of Lancaster; Grant county, eight years before this became one of the states of the American Union. The family has since become widely separated, the father at 74 and the mother at 68 years of age, still living in the town of Lancaster, one sister in the town of Potosi, one in Iowa, and one sister and three brothers in far away Oregon. One brother and one sister have gone before her to the eternal home. She was married to Mr. Jackson in 1846 and they settled on a farm he still owns five miles north of this place. She was the mother of eleven children, two sons and nine daughters, two of whom, a son and a daughter, she has followed to the grave. Three daughters are married and are residents of the town; and the other children are members of the home circle. In 1869 her religious feelings became quickened and she made a public profession of faith in Jesus Christ, and joined the Free Baptist church in that neighborhood. Upon coming to reside in the village of Potosi she at once identified herself with the cause here by becoming an important helper among Christian people; and desiring, after a time, a truer and more consistent avowal of her discipleship, she presented herself to the Congregational church and was received into its fellowship Feb. 17, 1880. During the past year she continued to fail in health, and the best medical skill was set at naught by the ravages of an apparently incurable disease. Not many days since she became worse and sank rapidly, expiring last Saturday afternoon, November 6, 1880.—Lancaster Herald.
