

The silence which the nine presidential candidates maintain while both big parties flay the sad eyed Mongolian alive, is one of the most touching incidents of modern politics.

The positions of the United States troops on the battle-field of Gettysburg are being located by Colonel Batchelder. The ground is to be purchased and monuments erected by the government.

After walking fifty miles an eloping couple reached Boise City and were married. The bride admitted she felt a little tired and footsore, but didn't care, as she was in for getting all the romance out of the affair even if her pa does object to the marriage.

A young lady in Ohio died with joy upon receiving a proposition of marriage. The eastern young man must pop the question with a gun, or the eastern young lady must be very unaccustomed to proposals. Here in the woolly but affectionate west no fatalities attend this tender episode. The only fatality ever attending a case of that kind comes when the young man goes away and fails to propose.

At Rio Grande City, Texas, armed Mexicans have held the citizens in terror for some days past. It appears that the United States revenue officer, Mr. Victor Selree, in a fight, killed a Mexican by the name of Garza, and this has caused the Spanish blood to effervesce, and the slimy sons of Mexico to come pouring over the border seeking revenge.

A Boston preacher who persisted in exhorting the people on the Common without a permit has just been released from jail where his friends say he was sent by the authorities for "preaching the gospel." He is now a "martyr" and draws like a circus as the only American now living who served out a sentence in an American bastille for expounding Christianity without price. He is the first, but should not be made the last "martyr" of those cranks who go about preaching in the street and making a farce of religion.

The sugar trust, to force prices up by limiting the production of sugar, has closed several refineries and thrown several thousand men out of employment just in the cold edge of winter. Mr. Blaine insists that trusts are private affairs, and that the president and people have no right to prevent them making the people pay an artificial price for necessities and at the same time turning labor out to starve and freeze. Down with trusts! Mr. Blaine favors and upholds them, but at the same time he remembered Mr. Blaine is himself down to rise no more to the position in his party that once marked his career.

A new turn has been given to the discussion of the question of the relations between the United States and Canada by a speech delivered in the senate by senator Sherman a short time since. That senator introduced a resolution instructing the committee on foreign relations to inquire into the state of relations of the United States with Great Britain and the Dominion of Canada, and to report at the next session such measures as are expedient to promote friendly commercial and political intercourse between those countries and the United States. No greater good, he said, could be accomplished than by a wise and peaceful policy to unite Canada and the United States under one common government, the consummation of which he thought would ultimately be brought about.

Three times did George Wilson of Schenectady lead the coy Annie Walton to the altar of marriage and three times did she gig back on him and declare that she was too nervous. A fourth trial was made the other day, and by feeding the gentle Annie gumdrops and distracting her mind she managed to slip along through the ceremony and become Mrs. Wilson. It must be awful to be so coy.

At Gergal Huelva, Spain, last week two young men quarreled over a love affair and then agreed to fight a duel to the death. The conditions were that the right foot of one should be tied to the left foot of the other, and that the men should stab alternately until one should die. The affair was carried out in the presence of seconds, with brutal ferocity. Each received seven wounds before one expired still tied to the leg of the other, who was carried away dying. Spain now has two fools less. None but fools would go to war over a love affair, when there are so many women in the world.
