If You Are Sick

With Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Blood Purifiers, Kidney Disease, Constipation, Female Troubles, Fever and Ague, Hoopiness, Partial Paralysis, or Nervous Prostration, use Paine's Celery Compound and be cured. In each of these the cause is mental or physical overwork, anxiety, exposure or malaria, the effect of which is to weaken the nervous system, resulting in one of these diseases. Remove the cause with that great Nerve Tonic, and the result will disappear.

Paine's Celery Compound

Jas. L. Bower, Springfield, Mass., writes: "Paine's Celery Compound cannot be excelled as a Nerve Tonic. In my case a single bottle brought a great change. My nervousness entirely disappeared, and with it the resulting affection of the stomach, heart and liver, and the whole tone of the system was wonderfully invigorated. I tell my friends, if sick as I have been, Paine's Celery Compound."

Will Cure You!

THE BIG REVIVAL.

Mr. Moody Preaches to Those Who Cannot Find The Savior.

MIRACLE OF THE BLIND BEGGAR.

GAR.

The Evangelist's Description of the

Rich Publican Who Gave Half

His Goods to the Poor.

San Francisco, Alta.

The rain was responsible for the falling off in the attendance at the Pavilion last night, and Mr. Moody preached to the smallest audience he has had since the beginning of the revival meetings. The usual large number of clergymen occupied seats on the platform, among whom were Revs. C. B. Pitblado, Carrington, Adams, Smith, McFarland, Kincaid, Dickson, Schofield, Rowell, Wykoff, Griffith, Stewart, Culver, Gibson and Alexander. After the choir had sung "There Shall Be Showers of Blessing" and "God Is Calling Yet," Mr. Stebbins played his own accompaniment to a hymn, the first verse of which ran as follows:

I was once away from the Savior

As distant as a sinner could be.

And I wouldn't if Christ the Savior

Could save a sinner like me.

"Yes, he can," said Mr. Moody abruptly, when Mr. Stebbins had finished. "That's just what he came to this earth. Listen to this text. You'll find in St. Luke xix, 10: 'For the son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost.' Now, when the Prince of Wales came over on a visit to this country some years ago there was a tremendous commotion to know what he came for. Some said it was to study the Republic; others thought it might mean war, and there were all sorts of rumors and conjectures, but the Prince went back without telling any one what he came for. Now, we know what Christ came here for. He proved it before he offered himself up a sacrifice for you and for me. Christ had one hundred and fifty-six different titles, but he chose to call himself by the lowliest of them all—the son of man. There are a great many people before me to-night who will tell you they have sought the Lord but couldn't find Him. Those are just the kind of people I want to see in the after meeting. Come on, you friends that can't find the Lord, and let me get hold of your hand! The spirit of God will come you in a thousand different ways if you're only ready to receive Him. Why, I remember being told of a young man who was leading a dissipated life in Brooklyn, New York. He came home to his room one night, and looking up he caught sight of his mother's picture hanging on the wall. Her sad eyes followed him all around the room. Whichever way he turned, those eyes were looking at him. He couldn't stand it! He got up and turned the picture face to the wall. Do you know what that was?" shouted the evangelist as he stamped on the platform. "That was the spirit of God moving that young man's heart. Oh, He'll come to all of you if you only give him half a chance."

"I'm going to let my imagination loose now for a little while. You know the story of the blind beggar sitting by the wayside. A friend comes up to him and asks him if he wants his sight restored. 'Of course I do,' says the beggar. 'That's a foolish question to ask.' 'Well, all you've got to do is to go down to Jericho. There's a prophet there called Jesus. He's been healing the sick and making the blind to see. Just you go there if you want to get your sight back.' But don't he charge anything?" asks the beggar. 'I suppose I'd have to get some influential people to back me.' 'It won't cost you anything, and you don't need any friends.' 'Just then Jesus comes up the road, surrounded by His disciples. 'Who is that?' shouts the blind man; 'who is that?' And the disciples rebuke him, and the crowd would have pushed him to one side, but he's not going to lose this great chance of having his sight restored, and he shoves his way through the crowd and cries, 'Oh, thou son of David, have mercy on me.' And Jesus commanded that he be brought near to Him. And when they had brought him, He spat on the ground and anointed the blind man's eyes with clay, and immediately his eyes were opened. And what did Jesus say to him? 'Receive thy sight; thy faith has saved thee.' Yes, his faith had saved him, as it will save you to-night, my friends, if you will only have it.

"Well, the beggar started down the road, and he thought to himself, 'I guess I'll go home and see my wife.' That was perfectly natural, for he had been born blind, and he wanted to see what kind of a looking wife he had. So, as he was going on his way, a rich publican named Zaccheus came up to him and said: 'Hello! Why, how is this, I thought you were blind?' So I was, but a prophet named Jesus anointed my eyes with clay, and now I see as well as any man."

"Where is this prophet? I'd like to see him," said Zaccheus, who was a little man.

"There was such a crowd around the Savior that Zaccheus couldn't get anywhere near Him, so he ran up the road a bit and climbed up a sycamore tree. Jesus came up to the place and stopped. Then He called out, 'Zaccheus, come down. I must abide in thy house to-day.' Zaccheus probably thought to himself, 'how in the world did He know my name?' He didn't stop to think that Jesus had invited Himself to his house, but he came right down and took Him to his house and received him joyfully. Then Zaccheus told the Lord that he would give half his goods to the poor. Wasn't that a sign he was converted? Let one of your rich men in San Francisco give half his wealth to the poor
