Be Sure

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it. Mrs. ELLA A. GORF, 41 Terrace Street, Boston.

Last season this company handled over 2,000,000 pounds of wool, and in anticipation of an increased amount for the coming season, they will build an addition to the warehouse.

During the season, an experienced wool grader is employed. The warehouse being furnished with a wool compress, buyers are enabled to have their purchases put in condition for direct shipment to eastern mills at a cost much below that which the wool must bear via Portland or San Francisco.

California fruit growers have discovered that fruit can be kept fresh for a long time by packing it in carbonized wheat bran.

An Omaha man, who spent nearly a year in New Orleans and during that time took occasion to investigate the manner in which the drawings of the Louisiana lottery are made, says the whole thing is a swindle.

A Petaluma, (Cal.) merchant found in his papers recently a note on hand given him in January 1860. The face of it called for $200, with three per cent a month interest compounded monthly if not paid. He got a number of sharp accountants to figure up the present value of the note with interest. The result was startling—$8,997,347.60.

Germany has a better disciplined army than France, and better facilities for its mobilization. But France has the larger army, numerically, and more money.

Our greatest citizen, John L. Sullivan, will never sink into obscurity through understating himself. He says: "A great man in any line, acting or fighting, like me or Booth, doesn't tie himself up. He knows his own importance."

The new extradition treaty with Great Britain has gone into effect so "Gone to Canada" will no longer be the epitaph of absconding cashiers and other hoodlum swindlers. Hereafter they will be compelled to find some other harbor of refuge.

Bears have become so numerous in the mountains of Isere, bordering on Savoy, France, that the inhabitants have organized bear drives but these have been so unsuccessful they have almost concluded their only salvation is in advertising for foreign sportsmen.

This is an era of new states. Four states were admitted in a batch last year and now Wyoming and Idaho are practically admitted with a good prospect for New Mexico and Arizona. Utah, Indian Territory, Oklahoma and Alaska will then be all the United States Territory left outside of organized states.

The late Samuel Wilkeson, secretary of the Northern Pacific railway company, was a good example of the young old man. He was 52 years old when chosen secretary of the Northern Pacific, and held the office for twenty years, besides doing much newspaper and other work. In October, at the age of 72, he retired from his secretaryship. It was notable that as soon as he left off active employment his health immediately declined, although there were few of the marks of age in his appearance. It has often been noted that old men who suddenly give up business and retire, age rapidly and die quickly.

So confident are the manufacturers of Dr. Sells' Catarrh Remedy in their ability to cure Catarrh in the Head, no matter how long or how long standing, that they offer in good faith, the above reward for a case which they cannot cure, by means of Catarrh, Headache, obstruction of nose, discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody and putrid; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness, expiration of offensive matter; breath offensive; smell and taste impaired; and general debility. Only a few of these symptoms likely to be present at once. Thousands of cases result in consumption and end in the grave.

By its mild, soothing, antiseptic, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sells' Catarrh Remedy cures the worst cases. Cold in the Head is cured with a few applications. Catarrh of the Head is relieved and cured as if by magic. It removes offensive breath, loss of impairment of the sense of taste, smell, or hearing, watering or weak eyes, and impaired memory, which caused by the violence of Catarrh, so they all frequently are, sold by druggists, at City centers. The search for information which many congressmen have been making of late concerning the efficiency of the U. S. Navy, has led to the discovery that the Chinese have a larger and more formidable navy than we have. This may or it may not be an insignificant discovery. But when we reflect that for several years our relations with China have been rapidly tending to a condition of unfriendliness; that the hostility of the American people to the Chinese immigrant residents has called forth from the imperial government expressions clearly indicating that the will of the two peoples and races is rapidly approaching a point of absolute hatred, we conclude that the wisest thing our government can do is to be prepared and place itself on an equal footing with a great empire whose citizens it has found itself under the necessity of kicking.

Nothing can be more certain than that the character can be sustained and strengthened only by its own energetic action. The will, which is the central force of character, must be trained to habits of decision; otherwise it will be able neither to resist evil nor to follow good. Decision gives the power of standing firmly, when to yield, however slightly, might be only the first step in a down hill course to ruin.

Sir Mossell Mackenzie is hurling words of mingled vitriol, salt and vinegar at the many distinguished doctors of Europe who contend that leprosy is not contagious. Leprosy was stamped out of Europe by recognizing its contagious nature and isolating those afflicted with it, the doctor says. It has now made its appearance again and is spreading alarmingly, simply through non-recognition of its contagion.

There can be such a thing as too much natural gas, although its discovery has led to fortune in some cases. A farmer in Indiana is in trouble over the matter, for gas is escaping all over his farm. A lighted match will start a fire of the escaping gas in hundreds of places on his land, and even the water in his well is forest all by gas. The family are frightened and talk of removing to escape being blown up.

Emperor William, of Germany, eats four meals a day—ham and eggs for breakfast, game and salads for luncheon, soups, fish and roasts for dinner, and hot sausages and beef for supper. He is a very talented man, is the young Emperor. Pretty soon he will be scanning the advertising columns of the newspapers for "sure cure for dyspepsia."

The bashaw of Tangier has become so corpulent that he is unable to walk abroad. He is only five feet two inches in height and must be about the same in breadth, as he weighs over 400 pounds. He has been advised by his thirty-two physicians to fast for a month, but he says he will see them bow-string first.

In amounts ranging from $100,000 to $7,000,000, the immense sum of $44,175,000 has gone to Europe during the last few years with thirty-six American girls as an encumbrance to trade and titles. In the man this dowry of beauty and fortune purchase poor specimens of men.

It was prophesied at a reception of Stanley in Belgium the other day that Africa will some day become what America is today. No doubt, but where will be America?

If men were half as careful about their reputation and honor as they and their friends are to keep all mention of their wrong doing out of the public prints, there would be less rascality in the world and fewer annoyances to the newspapers.

This is a negro brother's explanation of race colors: "Noah's sons war all baven white, but when Ham saw his father lyin' drunk he was so mortified that he turned black. Shem didn't feel so bad an' only turned yellor, and Japhet hadn' no shame at all."

A traveler in Tennessee, noticing a large number of people following a wagon, rode up to an old fellow who sat on a fence and asked the cause of so large a procession. "W'y, they are takin' Sam Bates out ter the graveyard."

"He must have been a very popular man!"

"Well, I should reckon he was."

"Held a high position, I suppose?"

"Stood at the top."

"What was his business?"

"Chopped cod wood fur a livin', I believe."

"What do people in this country pay so much attention to wood-choppers?"

"Look yare, my friend, Sam wuz the handiest man with a fiddle that wuz in this neighborhood. He cud jest natchally make a fiddle cluck like a hen. I don't know how it is whar you come from, but in this here community we don't pay no attention ter whar a man does for a livin', but we measure him for whut he is worth ter society."
