The latest from the Senate Finance committee says that the McKinley tariff bill will be reported to the senate next week. It would be just as well not to bet on it though.

But then, the ways of a jury are past finding out.

Comment has already been made in these columns on Senator Stanford's bill providing for the establishment of a land loan bureau in the Treasury Department, which was to issue notes on the security of unmenmbered agricultural land. Few people probably regarded the project seriously, but the bill went in the regular way to the Finance Committee of the sen ate. That body has promptly rendered an adverse report upon the measure, and it has been indefinitely postponed. Scarcely any one, we presume, looked for any other result. The effect of the bill if macted would be to set up the government in the real estate interest as a competitor with private citizens and corporations, and to seriously raise the question as to where the limits of the government's participation in business would be set.

A - pecularly revolting case of juvenile polygamy has just been brought to the attention of the British government of India, in which an eminent Brahmin, living in Bengal, compelled his six aunts.
eight sisters and four daughters, all to be married together to a boy 9 years of age. The eldest of the eighteen brides was more than 50 years old and the youngest was scarcely 3 months old and was brought to the wedding wrapped in swaddlig clothes and lying in a brass salver. It is affirmed that this case is by no means extraordinary and that hundreds of marriages equally outrageous are occurring every year among the Kulin Brahmins. That a boy of nine years of age should be married to eighteen wives, all in one family, from three months to fifty years fairs for the British empire.

C. W. Davis, a practical Kansas farmer, has written an article in which he gives statistics showing that in five years from 1890 domestic consumption will absorb the entire product of cereals, potatoes and hay; that this country will then cease to be an exporter of food products.
