Thomas Wickers, a tradesman of Eastbourne, Eng., has just astonished the medical world. Some time ago he made a curious attempt at suicids by driving four nails into his head with a lammer. They, penetrated the brain to the i extent of three inches and were drawn with great difficulty. To NOTICE the amazement of the doctors Wickers has completely recovered from his self-inflicted injuries and is able to attend to his business as usual. The doctors pronounce the case unparalleled.
