LOCAL BREVITIES.

See "ad" of the Thanksgiving ball. Wm. McClure advertises in this week's News.

George Biesen is now in the hotel business in Tacoma, Wash.

Mrs. Parrish returned home from Portland Saturday evening.

Clay Todhunter and family are occupying the Metchan residence.

Hickson wants to buy your sheep. See his notice under "New today."

First class goods cheaper than ever before in Canyon City, at Sels Bros.

Let us incorporate a city here; a city that Grant county might be proud of.

Remember the sale of the Gundlach farm next Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m.

John Herburger took sick on the road between here and Baker and was brought to town. He is about well again.

Flour, Graham, Barley, (either ground or whole) Chicken feed, Rye, Middlings, Bran, Shorts, &c, &c, at Gundlach's.

Mrs. Martha Steiner, wife of Jacob Steiner, died at her home near Mt. Vernon last week and was buried on Saturday, Nov. 8th.

An adjourned term of Circuit court will convene one week from next Saturday, if no providential hindrance, Judge Clifford presiding.

Mrs. H. R. Sels and her daughters Misses Ella and Lizzie took their departure last Thursday for a visit among friends in Portland.

An accident happened to the stage from Heppner one day last week, by which postmaster Giff of Long Creek had a foot hurt. The brake gave way and the stage tipped over.

Strangers in town are of necessity compelled to occupy the livery stable on Sunday, or else walk the street all day. A reading room or hotel parlor would command a premium.

Methodist church members will this month vote on the question of whether or not women shall be entitled to seats in the general conference. Certainly, we say, give the ladies seats.

Shall we quarantine against Long Creek? This is a delicate question which the News declines to answer. Only a few evenings ago two of our prominent citizens mixed and came to blows over it.

We are glad that Emmett Cochran did not lose his hand, but sorry that the News was guilty of an error. We gained our information from what we had reason to believe was a reliable source, and gave it as truth.

Jud Haguewood, Frank McBean and Pansy Stansell have returned from a jolly jaunt in Baker. Frank Metchan and Jim Ferrell wanted to attend the variety show a few more nights before they returned home.

A great deal of Strawberry mill flour is being hauled to Burns. If it was roller mill flour the trade in our own and surrounding counties would be immense, and farmers would obtain the highest cash price for their wheat.

Grant county is in a fair way to have a county seat right, having been spared that luxury these many years. We understand that our Long Creek friends are quietly though industriously working to procure an enabling act from the next legislature.

The residence of John Chrisman near Long Creek was burned last Friday night, together with all its contents, including all his provisions for winter. The house was only just completed and moved into. A defective due is supposed to have been the origin of the conflagration.

Gus Wilhelm, a camp tender for Hickson the sheep drover, died at the Cold house and was buried last week. The young man fell sick and died among strangers, but the good people of John Day displayed their usual Christian spirit by giving him every attention in their power, while tender hearts did not forget the floral offerings for the dead.

It is said that a large number of John Carry's sheep that died last winter near his residence were left where they fell, and the June sun made the stench almost unbearable, yet the family lived in it all summer. As a consequence diphtheria or a fatal kindred malady was created and is now doing its deadly work in that section of country.

State Treasurer Metchan and family bid farewell to the scenes that they have been familiar with for so many years, and started for their home in Salem last Thursday. Canyon City and Grant county will miss Phil, but he sought and found higher attainments than serving the people of this county. The state of Oregon needs just such a man in the State House, and we hope to see him governor yet.

The news came that about all Long Creek town was down with diphtheria, and half of them would die. Then some of our people were scared and got up a petition to stop the U. S. mail. Later reports are to the effect that there has not been a fatal case of the disease in the Long Creek valley, hence it cannot be genuine diphtheria. When people disregard all sanitary laws disease is the inevitable result, even in our pure mountain atmosphere.

THE GHOSTLY GLARE.

Lights up the Landscape and Laughs at A Horrible Holocaust.

JOHN GARRISON THE LATEST VICTIM.

The first intimation our people had that anything aside from the usual routine was occurring, or that a tragedy was being enacted where in a human life had gone forth to appease the wrath of the mythical god of fire was when John Long came running down the gulch about 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning and in a hurried speech told night-watcher Todhunter that John Garrison's house was burning and that John had perished in the flames. Mr. Todhunter awakened several, and a small party, including the News man, hurried to the scene of the conflagration, the light of which was vividly reflected in the sky and on the surrounding mountains.

On arriving there the building had fallen and was a mass of fire throughout. Mr. Long and the Chinaman Ah Wong, whose home had been with Mr. Garrison, were busy preventing the fire from consuming the fence and outbuildings. The crowd approached as near as was possible for the heat, and with water deluged that portion of the cellar over which the unfortunate man's bed was known to be, hoping to prevent if possible the utter incineration of the body if it was in that place. Some one, in the meantime, closely observed the portion of the house that had been the kitchen, and their search revealed the hideous skull grinning amid flames and smoke, fire darting in and out among the fleshless ribs of a human body, and the eyes glaring red like a demon's, to all of which the surrounding darkness lent a weird and ghostly fascination.

Water was then applied to that portion of the ruins, and the combustion of the body retarded, but not until the limbs were consumed and nothing left but the charred trunk.

The following diagram shows the plan of the house, location of the beds, and the position of the remains in the back part of the house, which it might be well to say were lying in the same position as indicated, with the feet towards the little window in the end of the kitchen:

a—bedrooms; b—parlor; c—kitchen; d—doors; e—windows; John's bed; Chinaman's bed; +—remains of deceased.

Ah Wong stated—and it was a fact known to others—that Mr. Garrison had been sick the preceding day and night. The Chinaman said that all day he no eat, and all night he no sleep, as he could hear him in his room. Ah Wong could speak pretty fair English, and the story he first told and never deviated from was that the first recollection he had of the affair was of hearing John run and fall down, when he heard him groan a few times. He saw heap of and heap smoke. He called John, John! but received no answer. It is well known that a Chinaman will scarcely touch a corpse of their own countrymen, and then it is not surprising that Ah Wong grabbed his own bedding and got out of there, his hand being burned by fire dropping down from the ceiling. Being unable to return for his boots and some other clothing they were consumed, together with $10.70 in money, but his coat was hanging outside where he had left it the previous evening, and was saved. Nearly dead with fright the poor Chinaman ran down to John Long's cabin which is about half way between Garrison's place and town, and after awakening him said that he thought John was dead, and that the house was burning; that "he lunaway, he fa' down. Me call, he no talker." Mr. Long dressed and hurried up there, and not finding any trace of John, he came to town and gave the alarm, as before stated.

Coroner Dr. Thibodo was notified but he being unable to be on hand Justice Rufison summoned a jury consisting of Ed Sels, W. H. Kelly, D. I. Asbury, Lee Miller, James Conwell and John Sollinger. An inquisition was held, and as foul play was suspected by some Dr. Horsley held an autopsy, but no indication of violence was found on what little of the body he had to examine. There was, however, what appeared at first sight to be a bullet hole over the left shoulder blade. This was found to be nothing more than a very shallow wound, and was accounted for by the body lying upon a nail in the floor, and as the floor burned the nail was heated and burned its way into the flesh, the body being upon its back which prevented the other portions from burning. The coroner's jury heard all the evidence obtainable, and as there was nothing to show the cause of death to have been anything other than suffocation in the burning house, due to accident, the verdict was rendered accordingly.

It is generally supposed that Mr. Garrison being sick, left his lamp burning, and it either exploded or he upset it while rolling about in his troubled sleep. The flames no doubt spread rapidly, and he being rather dull of hearing did not realize what had happened until he felt the heat. Then, being bewildered and almost suffocated he ran, and instead of escaping by the front door he ran into the kitchen; when reaching the window in the west end he fell exhausted upon his back and died without a struggle. Dr. Horsley stated that the absence of blood in the heart indicated death by suffocation.

The theory of murder for the purpose of robbery, even if there had been evidence, is not a plausible one, for John had just purchased his provisions for the winter, and was not supposed to have money in his house.

John Garrison came to Canyon City in early mining days from California. So far as known he has not a living relative on the coast. From all accounts he used to be a rough miner among the rough miners, but it must be said to his credit that several years ago he turned a new leaf and for a number of years held membership in the church. Although being practically destitute of what may be termed "bosom friends," he was nevertheless respected by those who knew him best, and outside of his peculiar nature was a desirable citizen. He was married in July 1884 to Mrs. McIntyre, but the marital relation was not one of happiness.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. E. Luce last Monday, and many of our citizens showed their respect for him who had died without the comforting influence of loved ones near, by attending with marked reverence the administration of the last sad rites.

Keep decaying matter and slops from your dooryard and thus prevent a visitation of diphtheria.

There is room for 5000 more people in this county at once without further development.

There is plenty government land in this county that is suitable for stock-raising and fruit-growing.

Curry county's tax roll, just filed with the secretary of state, shows a total taxable property of $486,290, a decrease of $3,000 from last year.

Chicago is getting right down to business in making ready for the fair. She has just completed the work of licensing 5,001 saloons.

If I were blind, as they say he is, why is it that the feminine portion of humanity devote so much time and trouble to keeping up with the new fashions.

Closer examination of Bill Clark's specimens indicate that the mines will prove a vast source of wealth when placed within marketable distance of the outside world.

Many timber men are again searching through the woods of southern Oregon, locating what is left or purchasing located claims. Next their attention will be turned to Eastern Oregon.

Oregon must be well represented at the World's Fair. A suitable exhibit at Chicago in 1893 will do much to counter act the mischief done by the blockheads in the census bureau this year.

Sometimes a man comes to this country, stays a season and then gets dissatisfied and returns East; but in most cases he is glad to get back again after one or two seasons of Eastern cyclones and crop failures.

A flow of artesian water has been struck on the Richley place, about a mile and a quarter west of Sheridan, in Placer county, Cal., at the depth of fifty-five feet. The well will flow in the neighborhood of 20,000 gallons per day.

An exchange says that a pill has been patented that will keep a man alive a whole week without eating. Now if some one will invent a plaster that will make a suit of clothes last fifty or sixty years, then we newspaper fellows can manage to live to a ripe old age.

How pleasant it is to look forward to busy, booming times—and how tiresome it is to wait for them. But it is better to be buoyed up by hopes of future prosperity than to be left hopeless and desponding by a fear of dull days to come. A man has to live, anyway, and it is more sensible to have cheerful anticipations than to be down-hearted.

Our new "ad." from the enterprising firm of Coffin & McFarland, Heppner, speaks for itself, and it is worth your while to read the same. In order to gain new trade they intend presenting a fine large book, which retails at $4.00 each, to every retail purchaser of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, hats etc., to the amount of $25.00, allowing until Jan. 1st to make out the amount. Give them a trial order, when you send away for goods.

MONUMENT ITEMS.

MONUMENT, Or., Nov. 3, '90. ED NEWS.—As I do not remember of ever seeing a communication from this part of the county in the News I will try and send you a few items just to let the world know there is such a place in existence.

The fall grain has about all been sown in this part of the country.

The winter range is better this year than it has been for several years, and not so much stock.

It was a grand mistake about Emmett Cochran getting his hand cut off, as stated in last week's News.

Stock is generally in good condition, and as there is plenty of hay the stockmen are not worrying about a hard winter.

The better half of the human race failed to turn out very extensively at the dance given at H. Gibson's place last week.

J. H. McHaley and wife are now residing on the old homestead. He will move to Heppner in a short time, where he has a comfortable residence.

The stage station is now at Hadsel's on the north bank of the river. Mr. Hadsel is an enterprising man and is determined to make his place second to none on the road.

Monument, Monumental Monument, all postoffices in this State, are so near alike that mail agents frequently make mistakes. Our mails are misused so much that they are often worn out before they reach us. There is some talk of changing the name of the office and calling it "Windburg." As this is not a windy country I hardly think that would be an appropriate name. Such a name would have a tendency to keep out immigration from other parts of the country. A man who has been torn to pieces several times by cyclones and tornadoes would not think of coming to a place called Windburg. We suppose the name has been suggested on account of the gentle zephyrs that are now blowing the golden leaves from the cottonwoods along the banks of the beautiful John Day. We believe that "Zephyrville" would be much more appropriate.

EX-SHEPHERD

ATTENTION, COMRADES!

All Comrades desiring to perpetuate the existence of Gen'l Hancock Post are requested to come to the front Tuesday, Nov. 25, at the Grange Hall, John Day City.

JOHN SEGERDALL, P. C.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the schools of this county, the county school superintendent thereof will hold a public examination at the Court house in Canyon City, commencing at one o'clock P. M. on Wednesday, Nov. 26th, 1890.

Dated this 7th day of Nov., 1890.

M. N. BONHAM,

County School Supt. of Grant Co., Or.

Mr Sourbeer is the editor of a Kansas prohibition paper.

Go to the Red Front Billiard Hall, Canyon City, for fine wines, liquors and cigars.

The bridge across the Columbia at Vancouver will be 6000 feet long and will cost about $1,000,000.

A lively skirmish with brick bats, clubs and revolvers going on in Coffee county, Georgia between the whites and blacks. About half a dozen persons were killed at last accounts and the fun was spreading.

An exchange had discovered that a poor girl has to be awfully good looking to be pretty, and a rich girl has to be awfully homely to be ugly. It might be added that a poor man has to be awfully smart to be intelligent, and a rich man almost a blockhead to be ignorant.

In common with several other portions of Oregon Grant county has this year suffered more or less from a visitation of typhoid fever. Our citizens should pay close attention to the purity of their drinking water and thoroughness of drainage in future and avert what can be easily avoided in our pure mountain air.

About three miles of wire fence belonging to the L. F. Co., was cut one night this last week. Comment is unnecessary. In fact the English language is not the proper language to use in commenting on a thing of this kind. Some of these days somebody will get caught at this Harney valley cussedness, and then. In the mean time, one feels like enigmating.—Items.

An extensive robbery, which has been carried on for over six months, during which time thousands of dollars worth of gold has been stolen from the American Warch Case Company, Newark, N. J., was brought to light by the arrest of Adolph Newman of Brooklyn. Newman was employed by the company to do its mixing and alloying. He has been for months stealing a large proportion of the gold furnished him and making the alloy for the cases poorer. This fact led to the discovery.

THE ELECTIONS.

The States which held elections last week rolled up a big democratic majority for the next congress.

Illinois has lost her former large republican majority. The congressional delegation from Illinois now stands 14 democrats and 6 republicans.

California as usual went republican.

Minnesota's republican governor managed to pull through.

Iowa is republican.

Returns indicate a democratic majority in congress of considerable more than a hundred, although the exact number can only be approximated before the official count is made.

The happy democrats of Washington City wanted to celebrate their victory by shooting in the usual place near the President's mansion, but it was feared the concession would break the windows, which were old anyhow, so the boys were sent downtown to have their fun.

Some men buy umbrellas, some men achieve them, and some get wet and swear.

T. E. FELL,

Manager Heppner Warehouse, October 26th, 1890.

A gentleman in this city, says the Union Republican in company with another party four years ago invested $4100 in a band of sheep. The first winter was very severe and they lost $25 head, but obtained for their wool clip $1705. The next year they received $1848; the third year $1920 and this year they have just received $2200 for their wool besides marketing $876 worth of mutton sheep. This is a total profit in four years on an investment of $4100 and they still have the sheep with the increase.

The West Shore has made marked improvements in its style and size during the past year, and it is now everywhere recognized as one of the leading illustrated papers of the country. It is prospering so well that a fine building is being erected by the company to meet the demand for increased facilities for transacting business and getting out the paper. It will be in new quarters early in the year, and further improvements will then be made in the paper. This publication is so representative of the growing northwest and so thoroughly identified with the progress of the country that every one ought to take it regularly. Special inducements, interesting to everyone who reads, are offered by West Shore for subscriptions. Apply to the postmaster for important particulars.

A St. Louis doctor has discovered that silver dollars will carry infection. Politicians, however, can justly wrest the glory of this discovery from science.

New York City has had a novel political campaign, in which nearly all the preachers took more or less prominent parts. It may be all right, but some how or other we have never associated religion and politics together.

STRAYED—Three yearling steers, two roans branded 97. One covered with some white on hind legs, with swallow fork and under bit in left and half under crop in right ear. Parties informing me of their whereabouts will be well paid for their trouble. E. O. STANSSELL.

The postmaster's clerk threw out the mail edition of the Leavenworth Kansas Times because it printed a list of Catholic fair raffles. His action is sustained by the postmaster, and the Times has filed suit against Postmaster Ritchie for $10,000 damages, making the claim that no law can forbid an American newspaper printing the news.

Another pot hunter, eager for game, is on record as having taken aim at a moving bush and brought down a man instead of a deer. It is high time that an example was made of this type of a deadly fool. To call the result of such a shot an accident is to smooth over an act of criminal carelessness by the bestowal of a very inappropriate name upon it. Most likely the man who pulled the trigger in this instance is sorry. Perhaps, indeed, he even "weeps" at the result of his aim, as many of his predecessors in this line of marksmanship have done, but it would be well to rate his act as that of a responsible person and vary the punishment of nincompoops of his class by substituting a term in the penitentiary for the regulation "self-reproach" with which they have heretofore been let off.—Oregonian.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings, which cause painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which develops ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors," which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can IT BE CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by its remarkable cures it has established, cures when other remedies have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofula nearly from the time she was two months old, and she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she remains to be a healthy child. J. S. CANTLIE, Naught, N. H. N. B. Be sure to get only Hood's Sarsaparilla.
