

THE GRANT COUNTY NEWS.

August 27, 1891.

Substitutions of well-known advertised articles seems to be the order of the day. We deem it only justice to our patrons to warn advertisers against this form of piracy.

The recent death of James Russell Lowell is calculated to recall the fact that poets as a rule attain a ripe old age. Lowell was 72.

"Poor old Oregon" is the way this great and favored state is alluded to by an exchange. We can't very well say anything in reply.

There is such a pressing and immediate demand for $2 notes that the treasury department has ordered 1,000,000 of them printed from the Hancock plate.

Hold your grain against all liars, swindlers and thieves if you possibly can. The grain crop in several parts of the world are poorer ones this year.

The young men of today must awaken to the knowledge that to his own exertions more than anything else his success in life is obtained.

The Union Pacific Company has been profuse in promises to fortify their equipment and be fully prepared to move this season's wheat crop.

Politics in this the second congressional district of Oregon are generally beginning to heat up.

There is a considerable difference between the German and French methods of treating the question of grain shortage.

THE HEPPNER WAREHOUSE

Has been enlarged to accommodate the increasing business. The wools of this section which accumulate at Heppner, attract all the leading Western buyers to that point, and make it the best market in which the grower can dispose of his clip.

Last season over 1,000,000 pounds of wool was sold in Heppner at prices which averaged the grower more clear money than was realized by sales of similar wools in other western markets more distant from the manufacturing centers of the East.

Teamsters charges advanced on written orders. Cash advanced on wool in storage.
