To the Public.

The warehouse at McEwenville having been finished, all shippers of freight should notify me whether they want their goods forwarded to the present terminus of the Sumpter Valley R. R. Freight and transfer charges together being twenty-five cents per hundred pounds, distance from this point to the present end of the line being twenty-six miles, it brings the goods nearer home. Please direct all communications and orders here, and everything will have prompt attention.

Baker City, Or., Oct. 24, 1891.

All teamsters must present a written order for goods, or else they are liable to go back empty as positively no goods are delivered upon say so by teamsters.

PAT, having blistered his fingers in trying on a new pair of boots, exclaimed: "I shall never get them on at all until I wear them a day or two."

MR. GRUMP—"I can't see, my dear, what good that border of fur does you around the hem of your skirt." MRS. Grump—"Why, it shows that I can afford it."

"YOUR books haven't any meat in them, Bronson," observed Scaddleberry. "My dear fellow, you should patronize a butcher, not a novelist," returned Bronson.

MR. CITIMAN (who has taken board on a farm)—"Is there a bank anywhere near here?" Farmer Catchum—"No sir. We ain't never had no use for banks in this section. You see, this is the first season any of us has kept summer boarders."

FIFTY love letters a day.—De Snapper—"I once knew a man who used to receive over fifty love letters every blessed day!" Miss Lorgnist—"Dear me! He must have been a regular Don Juan." De Snapper—"Not at all, madam; he was a postman."

THE old Duchess of Gordon used to say to her cronies: "You know, my dear, when I don't know how to spell a word I always draw a line under it, and if it is spelled wrong it passes for a very good joke, and if it is spelled right it doesn't matter."

"PROFESSOR," said a student, in pursuit of knowledge concerning the habits of animals, "why does a cat while eating turn her head first one way and then the other?" "For the reason," replied the professor, "that she cannot turn it both ways at once."

THE guest sat down, but rose hurriedly with an expression of alarm on his face. "I am afraid, madam," he said, "I have sat down on the wrong chair." "It's only Willie's pigeon eggs," replied the lady, pleasantly. "Don't mind it, Mr. Jones. He has plenty more of them."

MERCHANT—"The postal service is in a wretched condition." Friend—"Never noticed it." "Well I have. During last month I sent out one hundred and eighty statements of account, with requests for immediate payment, and so far as I can learn, not more than two of my customers received their letters."
