

LOOK FOR THE LITTLE TRADING CHECKS

SEE THE LAUE-DAVIS DRUG Company on the check. You need goods in this line. It will pay your car fare, if nothing else. Every cent saved is a cent made.

J. N. BRISTOL, THE MORRISON street grocer, uses the check. Save up 10 cents worth of these and see how it works. Like getting money from home.

THE JOURNAL HAS INTRODUCED A NEW IDEA IN ITS ADVERTISING COLUMNS

It is something which will profit both the reader and the merchant using them. The idea consists of a check, mostly of the value of One Cent. These are put in the body of the advertisements and when cut out and presented to the firm using them will be the same as the coin when accompanied by additional money. That is to say if you cut out a check and present it to the store, together with 9 cents, it will buy 10 cents worth of merchandise. Supposing you are trading at a grocery store and at the end of the month you desire to settle. Keep your checks for the month. If the advertisement is run every day there will be 26 of them. This is the same as 26 cents and it will pay that much of your bills. They will save money for you. It will make advertising more attractive and give it a greater value to the ordinary reader. This is what it is for. Build up the value of advertising. It is to teach the public that it pays to read advertising, particularly The Journal Kind.

COL. WATTERSON REALLY WARM Castigates President in Southern Fashion.

(Journal Special Service.)
WASHINGTON, March 25.—The biennial banquet of the Virginia Democratic Association was held in the banquet room of the Metropolitan hotel in this city last night, and afforded many speakers of national fame an opportunity to air their political views and express their political sentiments. There were expansionists and anti-expansionists in the throng that attended the feast, among whom was Hon. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. The speaker, after pronouncing his own and the Democratic party's love for the government and governmental institutions, said his party would resign that government from the hands of the trusts and restore it to the hands of those to whom it belonged—the people of the United States. He alleged that the "Republican party is a syndicate party—arbitrary in its motives, the slanting dollar its trade-mark."
Referring to President Roosevelt, the speaker said: "Once again in the White House we have the man on horseback. Affecting the simplicity of the cowboy, he conceals beneath the self-confidence and queer manners of the broncho-buster the sentiments and ambitions, if not the talents of a Dims. To him a little thing like treating an Admiral of the Navy, wearing the laurel leaves of imperishable renown, as if he were a baby in arms, now he is dandied and now he is spanked. It is surely an undignified affair begun and ended during moments between breakfast and luncheon. To him the reprimanding of the Lieutenant-General of the Army, grown gray in fighting the battles of his country, becomes an amusing horse play meant to relax his muscles, and illustrate his high mightiness while warning lesser officers of the Army to obey orders and say nothing."
But turn from the White House to the Capitol, and look at the Republicans in Congress. The trail of the trademark is over them all. Old High Tariff dances the can-can in the House, while Old Ship Bimble does the regular cakewalk in the Senate. Everything for the syndicates; nothing for the people; and not content with the arbitrary power in the White House and their mercenary power in Congress, the leaders of this party of Federalism and false pretension would rip open Pandora's box to fling thence the black, practical flag of negro domination—the equally disreputable and bloody

ODD FELLOWS' HOME.

The Odd Fellows of the State are laboring hard to prepare an effective program for the dedication, April 2, of their new home at Kenilworth.
A committee has been appointed, and Robert Andrews, of Orient Lodge, is chairman, and W. A. Clark, of Portland Lodge, is treasurer.
The new home is situated just south of the suburb of Kenilworth, and has an acre of ground.
It is proposed by the Odd Fellows to make this institution a haven where big and indigent members of the order can find a home and resting place when necessity calls them there.
The home is under the management of County Judge Ryan, of Clackamas county, who is looking after the proper sitting up of the structure.
Odd Fellows throughout the State are preparing to witness the dedication of their new home, and it is expected that the number of those coming will be very large.

RATES FOR DELEGATES.

Chairman Steel and Secretary Dunaway, of the Republican State Central Committee, have secured from the Southern Pacific Railroad and the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, a round trip rate of one and one-third fares for the delegates and other visitors to the Republican State convention, which will be held in this city April 1. The rate will be in force one day before and one day after the convention.

HER JAPANESE LOVER.

(Journal Special Service.)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 25.—After speeding from Denver to wed pretty Nora Price, residing at Oxford, E. J. Schallert found his intended in a hospital at the point of death, suffering from a gunshot wound inflicted by a jealous rival. During the past few months Charles Yamaschiff has paid her attentions, each day showing the depth of his affection. Learning of the expected visit of his rival, he fired the shot that sent a bullet crashing through her body. The girl wants to live, but the doctors say the wound is fatal. Yamaschiff has departed, with no trace of his whereabouts.

BOOMING THE FAIR.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition movement has two strong advocates in the editors of the Republican, Rawlins, Wyo., and the Daily Leader at Cheyenne. George W. Ferry, editor of the Republican, who was here in 1892, at the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association, is enthusiastic in getting that organization to endorse the fair. Colonel Stock, of the Daily Leader, has been enthusiastic in the matter for several years.

STABLEMEN.

Organize and Make Several Demands.

Employers Have Balked—Up to Hostlers.

And now comes the Stablemen's Union, recently organized, in this city, and hurls a big bunch of demands at the broad sides of their employers' livery barns with a loud "whang."
The stable owners and hack proprietors have formed a defensive confederation and flung back at the bellowing hostlers a budget of replies and counter demands, with a promptness and fire not unlike the longitudinal recoil of an abused mule. The employers have balked, individually and collectively.
This condition of affairs was manifest last night when the stablemen's answer to the union men's demands was returned to the senders all shot to pieces. Some of the provisions are mutually agreed upon, but the more vital ones, such as increase of pay, and the employment of union men are the obstacles in the way. April 1 is the time limit set, but the union has agreed to April 15. Meanwhile both sides are sleeping on their arms.
On the part of the stable owners there is manifest no small degree of pugnacity. It would seem to a man up in a hay mow that if he doesn't like it, he knows what he can do. Following are the demands of the union, as set forth in the communication of President Joseph Bonnier:
"Hours of labor shall be from 5 a. m. to 5 p. m., with the privilege to change off when so desired, to shorten the day."
"Wages shall be $60 per month, minimum, payable monthly."
"A strike shall not exceed sixteen days of stock."
"All new men employed shall be members of the union, or make application for membership within ten days after employment."
"This contract shall include all men employed on stock and floor."
"There shall be nothing binding on the part of employer to keep in service men who prove themselves incompetent or neglect their duty."
"The above contract shall be in force April 1, 1902, until March 1, 1903."
And here is the reply:
Mr. Joseph Bonnier, President Stablemen's Union:
"Dear Sir: The organization of stable owners, in conference, have unanimously agreed upon the following concessions, which we submit to you by sections:
First Section—We will agree to the hours of labor asked for seven months of the year, providing you will agree to the remaining five summer months to extend the time one hour, to 5 p. m.; provided further, that you will agree among yourselves in each stable that one man shall remain thirty minutes longer when necessary; and, regarding changing off—that must be subject to agreement with the proprietor. There is no reason to suppose that the proprietor will be unreasonable in allowing a man to lay off, provided he can arrange his work satisfactorily with his fellow workmen."
Second Section—We will concede to this increase in wages on condition that the men are to give the proprietors ten days' notice before quitting, and will also agree to pay a fine of $5 if drunk when on duty, or when off duty, providing it disables them from reporting the next day and properly attending to their work; and, further agreeing that, if they desire a lay off for a day or two, they will provide a suitable substitute."
Third Section—We will limit the string to an average of eighteen head, but no more to exceed twenty head. We say this because it sometimes occurs that a stable can accommodate a certain number of head that may necessitate one man taking one or two extra horses, and yet there would not be enough extra horses to warrant the employment of another hostler."
Fourth Section—We will agree to give the union men the preference, and will let our employees understand that we have no objection to their belonging to the union, but we do not consider it just to compel men to belong to a union against their desire, neither do we wish to be compelled to employ union men when we can get better non-union men at the same price. The acceptance of this section would limit the number of men we have to choose from; and we feel that it is your business to persuade the men to join your union, and not insist upon our compelling them to do so.

"Fifth Section—It is not clear to us in this section, what you mean by men 'on the floor.'"
Sixth Section—This, of course, is reasonable and satisfactory.
Seventh Section—We ask that this date be advanced fifteen days, as we shall be obliged to increase our charges for boarders, in order to reimburse us for this additional increase of wages, and want time in which to notify our customers. You must understand that this increase of pay will be a heavy burden to us, unless we can get some additional receipts from boarders, as we are now getting the same price as we were when feed was only about one-half what it is now, and when rents were less and labor lower, and those of us in the hack business cannot increase our charges for hack hire, as that is regulated by city ordinance."
"If these terms are not satisfactory to you, and we think we have given good reasons for each one, we suggest that we meet some of your officers in conference."

CRIMINAL RECORD.

The Rice murder trial is drawing to a close. Arguments of counsel are being made.
George Irons, accused of being the leader of a gang of western postoffice robbers, after a 13-months' chase has been caught and taken to Wichita, Kansas for trial. Three of his confederates have confessed.
Bill Siegel, colored, was lynched near Troy, Va., for attempted outrage upon a little white girl.
The trial of Emil A. Myerburg, ex-councilman, accused of having accepted bribes in connection with the St. Louis suburban railway franchise, has begun.
Clinton Dotson, accused of conspiring to kill his father, will be hanged at Deer Lodge, Mont., April 4. James McArthur, his co-conspirator, who did the killing, was hanged last September.
Charles Shepherd, a barber, shot his wife and himself at Red Key, Indiana. Both will die.
Preferred stock Catsup, Delicate flavor.

A LIVING "GHOST"

BUTTE, Mont., March 25.—Henry Mansfield, an inmate of the county jail, believes he is a ghost and the county authorities believe he is crazy. To decide who is right there will be an investigation into the mental condition of Mr. Mansfield as soon as the sheriff can secure the necessary witnesses.
And the witnesses will not be hard to get, for the man who is possessed of the notion that he is a wandering wraith has been industrious in his attempt to frighten everyone whose path he has crossed after dark. He is an old man with a long white beard and when he raises his hands aloft and invokes forward with a sliding motion he looks enough like the orthodox apparition to fill the bill to a dot.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

At a meeting of the Board of Education last night, notice was received that the rental of the room adjoining the Albina school house, which is now used for school purposes, will be increased from $10 to $25 a month. As no nearby rooms can be obtained, Director Warren suggested the idea of building a portable school house. The board favored this plan, and it was referred to Director Williams for investigation.
An 8-year-old boy named Smith had played "hooky" and had signed his mother's name to an excuse for absence. The forgery was discovered and the boy was suspended from the Thompson school. The parents of the boy appealed from the decision of the principal, and the boy was reinstated.
Superintendent Rigler was instructed to close the night schools Friday.
Preferred Stock Tomatoes, Solid pack—equal in quality to consumers.

ABOUT HOPS.

Buyers Securing Contracts for Next Season's Crop.

J. Pincus, Bolo, H. L. Hart, North Yakima, and B. O. Schucking, of this city, hop buyers, were seen at the Belvedere Hotel today. Very little is said to be doing in the hop market now. Most of last year's crop has been disposed of. About 400 bales remain in the hands of Oregon growers and the dealers have not over 4,000 bales. The ruling price is 12 to 14 cents.
There is considerable activity in making contracts for next year's crop. Twenty thousand bales have been reported as signed for at figures ranging from 11 1/2 to 12 1/2. One lot went for 12c.
Hopmen are looking forward to a big yield next season. The railroad companies have just completed their estimate of the quantity raised in this state the past year as being 74,000 bales. This output is considered low. With the increased acreage and more favorable conditions this season the estimate is placed at from 85,000 to 90,000 bales.

In the Yakima country, Eastern Washington, only 22 bales are left of the old crop, and 3500 are said to be contracted for. The total yield in that section last year was 12,500 bales.

SEWER BURST.

The sewer on Hood street, in front of the soap factory, burst Sunday, and the thoroughfare for a considerable distance was made practically impassable. The break was caused by the action of a fall through which the sewer passed.
The sewer on East Burnside street was recently choked for a distance of 100 feet, and was cleaned out at considerable cost. The Northrup Street sewer was also recently choked.

ALBANY.

Whitney's Fight for State Printer—A Chair Factory.

ALBANY, Ore., March 25.—Company G. O. N. G., went by boat to Independence Sunday to attend the funeral of Claude Dickey, son of I. C. Dickey.
Special Postoffice Agent Clements is here going over the proposed rural free delivery routes. He will probably establish four new routes, making five out of Albany. Examination for carriers will be held Wednesday.
Work on the Veal chair factory is being pushed as rapidly as the weather will permit. Workmen are grading for a switch from the S. P. Railroad and laying the foundations for three large buildings.
The political situation is quiet since the Republican primaries on Friday. The main contest in the county convention of Wednesday will be over the delegates to the state convention. J. R. Whitney expects to win a delegation that will fight to the last to secure his nomination for State Printer. Considerable Gent sentiment is being expressed.

BOERS MAY COME TO OREGON

William Reid of this city is engaged in looking up information in regard to the opportunities which Oregon offers to the Boer colonists. From information given Secretary Hay by the United States Consul at Bombay, it seems that the Boer prisoners now confined in Ahmednagar expect to receive their liberty soon. As they do not care to return to their former homes, they are looking to the Pacific Coast. Some are without money and are consequently interested in public lands and the like, while others are men of means who desire to purchase land for cultivation.

LUCKY TROUT FISHERS.

A party of local fishermen who couldn't wait for the open season of trout fishing on April 1, went out for salmon trout on the Columbia above Vancouver. The statute does not extend the protecting eggs over this kind of fish. Two detachments were in line who cast their lines successfully. Seventeen fine trout rewarded the efforts of Oscar Schmitt, who stands at the head of fishermen. Nearly all managed to get a few fish.
Incidental to the outing, the fishermen saw great flocks of sea gulls, which were following up a school of small swimming up stream toward the Sandy. There were so many smelt that along the banks of the river at one point, where the water is shallow, thousands were floating dead.
