A CITIZEN'S TICKET

The sentiment in favor of the formation of a non-partisan Citizen's ticket of City and County officers, to be voted for at the June election, has largely expanded since yesterday morning. As the situation now stands there is no doubt that such a ticket will be named.

The factors of this ticket, and its personnel, however, are still matters of speculation. It is now known to the public that at the late primaries twenty-seven votes, properly distributed in certain precincts, would have resulted in a victory for the Regular Republicans, and the instance of one-half of the party being shut out of the councils of the party, that is in the minority by such a small margin, say they do not feel like being disfranchised, and that they are willing to co-operate in a Citizen's movement.

The statement is made that a large part of the labor element will join this movement.

Its success, of course, depends largely on what the Democrats will do.

At this juncture, no leading Democrat is willing to be quoted, but it is understood that the more conservative of the leaders are in favor of the Democratic County Convention, at its meeting next state convention, electing a new County and City Central Committee, and then adjourning, sine die, leaving the nominations for city and county offices to go by default.

Democrats say there must be no fusion, as 'the word is a "bogie man" to many of the Unaffiliated. But they want to win, and believe there is small chance for this on a straight ticket. They think the Citizen's movement should best be left to take care of itself, and that those who lead the movement will place on the ticket a fair proportion of good Democrats.

Those who appear to be leaders in the movement favor naming the best men to be found, regardless of party affiliations. They say the slogan of the movement will be "Down with ring rule and one man power."

CHARGE UNFAIRNESS

The Prohibition City and County convention will meet at A. O. U. W. Hall tomorrow afternoon and nominate a full ticket. An evening session will be held at 7:30.

The call issued by E. O. Miller says: "As you have no doubt noticed in the Voice, when the polls closed at the Presidential election, we had met the requirements of the Australian ballot law, and were a recognized political party, having polled the necessary 3 per cent, and were entitled to make our nominations under exactly the same conditions required of the Republican and Democratic parties. The last Legislature changed the per cent to 5, and we must now have 10 voters at the convention in order to entitle our city and county nominees to a place on the official ballot at the coming June election. As you know, our State and Congressional nominees are already in the field.

"This unwarranted and unjust change in the ballot law should arouse every Prohibitionist to be more faithful in the attendance of his State, district and county convention. Will you not personally show your disapproval of the act of the recent Legislature, and help to make our county convention a splendid success? Make it your business to urge every voter who intends to vote our ticket in June to attend.

"It seems to me that each one of us should vow, 'God helping me, I will go to work at once to win at least one more vote for the party, and help to roll up a vote next June that will cause rum servant parties hereafter to respect the right of a Prohibitionist to have a chance to vote his convictions,' for the new law was aimed at our party alone, and shows that the old parties are commencing to feel our vote in State and county elections, and are trying to head us off."

TODAY'S WEATHER.

It is unseasonably cool west of the Rocky Mountains, and sharp frosts occurred generally this morning in the North Pacific States. Temperatures east of the Rocky Mountains are above the normal, and the rains of the last few days in the middle West have been succeeded by fair weather. Fair weather also prevails in the Pacific Coast States. The indications are for clear weather with slowly rising temperatures in this district Saturday.

The bar is rough with a light east wind. The weather is cloudy.

Killing of Carlson at Castle Rock Justifiable.

Attorney H. N. Percy has returned from a business trip to Castle Rock. He said this morning in regard to the sudden death of Victor Carlson at that place: "This Victor Carlson was from up on the Turtle River, about 15 miles from Castle Rock. He and E. D. McKay were not on good terms. They had worked together in the St. Helena mining district. Whatever enmity, as nearly as I can make out, there was between the two was on the part of Carlson, who bore a grudge against McKay.

"Carlson happened in at Castle Rock when McKay was there. The latter was not looking for any trouble and kept in hiding for a day or two. Finally, on Tuesday evening, the two met. McKay tried to keep away from him and warned him to let him alone. Carlson persisted in following him up and struck at him. McKay struck back, his fist landing on Carlson's forehead. He went down in a total collapse. He revived a little a few hours after, but again became unconscious and finally died.

"The coroner's jury decided that McKay had only struck the blow in self-defense. A curious thing about the matter developed on the autopsy. It was found that a small clot of blood had coagulated on the brain at the point of contact with McKay's fist. It is very unusual, I believe, for a blow struck on the forehead with a fist to result fatally. It must have ruptured a blood vessel at that point."
