THE MARKETS.

The grain market is at a standstill, very little being done in the export line. The prospect for this year's crop is exceedingly bright, a large crop being expected.

The grocery market is very quiet, sugar still being sold at former quotations, and buying is very heavy. Wholesalers are worried about the rise in California prices, but in this city they remain relatively stable.

General Goods, W. Elder will arrive late this evening from San Francisco and a large supply of goods is expected. Palatine, contrary to report, arrived at Saturday's quotation. It is said that the arrival of the ever noted arrival of bananas arrived this morning and has been distributed among the dealers. Quotations are the same.

Butter showed a decided weakness to-day, but is still remaining at former prices, but a drop of half a cent was made on store.

Eggs are very weak at 1¢. Some of the dealers selling a few at 10¢. By tomorrow they will be at 12¢. The price of middlings is now at 12¢ per ton.

Poultry is very weak, the market having lost a lot of holdovers from last week in stock.

OREGON CITY, March 31.—At the meeting of the City Council, to be held Wednesday night, the members of the Lambs Club & Oregon Railway Company running freight trains in the city will receive special attention. About six weeks ago Judge McBride handed down a decision in the case of the Lambs Club, authorizing the company to run freight cars on Main street, was invalid, for the reason that the ordinance was passed according to the requirements of the law, but the court held that the suit a temporary injunction was granted restraining the city from interfering with the running of freight or other cars, and it is now claimed that the decision virtually dissolved the injunction.

Under the franchise on which the company is now running its cars in the city, it is only permitted to run passenger cars and one express car. The company still continues to run freight trains.
