

EXCITING MEETING

Strongest Labor Organization In America Will Be in Session.

(Journal Special Service.)
WHEELING, W. Va., April 12.—During the coming week Wheeling will entertain the annual convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, one of the largest and most influential labor organizations in America.

There are several things which promise to give unusual importance to the proceedings of the coming convention.

The convention will open Tuesday, and according to reports, there will be some opposition to the admission of delegates from some of the new lodges, owing to the fact that the scale rates are not being paid in the mills where they were formed.

If the lodges organized in the East are given representation, it is said they will be admitted in violation of the constitution, and this will result in the continuation of the present administration.

The rival organization to the Amalgamated Association, recently formed at Chicago, Milwaukee and other points under the name of the Steel Workers' Association of America, will probably receive some attention.

Notwithstanding the declarations of friendship made by the new organization, it is the general belief that its success will not be to the detriment of the interests of the Amalgamated Association.

From the present outlook it is regarded as unlikely that any demand will be made for a change in the base and card rates in the bar-iron scale. Unless the manufacturers should ask for lower rates, which thus far has not been in any manner intimated, this means that little difficulty will be experienced in reaching an agreement.

While there are some lodges that have suggested a demand for an increase, it is believed that they form a small minority.

The present base is $5 on a one-cent card, remaining at that base until it reaches 1.50, when it advances 25 cents the ten for holding. The present wage rate is $7.50 a ton.

PRESIDENT PALMA

Will Be Entertained At Dinner in New York Tonight.

(Journal Special Service.)
NEW YORK, April 12.—The local Cuban colony has arranged for a dinner to President-elect Palma at the Union Square hotel tonight.

The affair will be in the nature of a farewell demonstration, as General Palma has definitely fixed April 15 as the date for his departure for Cuba.

It has been the aim of the committee in charge of the dinner to bring together all the political elements of Cuba, and their efforts have been successful.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER

(Journal Special Service.)
NEW YORK, April 12.—The summer girl is out—in all her glory and a veritable fairy she is with her clinging gowns of linen and mull embellished with fluttering frills of lace.

Undoubtedly the summer of nineteen and two will be a white season. From the dainty pelon which affords the comfort of the bodice to the exquisite gown which graces the evening reception white will be the predominating color scheme, depending upon the many trims of the year for its variety and upon lace, ribbons and strappings of silk for its trimming.

Necessarily the race for white dresses demands many novelties in lingerie, and in order to supply this demand a number of new designs have been placed upon the market. Some are imported, others are of domestic production, all are equally pretty and admirably fulfill the purpose for which they are intended.

A dainty bit of lingerie which is not exactly new, but which has remained for the present season to bring into special favor, is the short skirt or japon haire, as its French designers call it, combined with a corset cover of heavier material and so "boned" that it can be worn by women who disdain corsets.

Unless one is unusually stout, this article is excellent for summer use and accommodates itself so well to the growing fat for physical culture discarding of corsets that it is daily becoming more endeared to the feminine heart.

Another undergarment with a double purpose is the affata petticoat made of white silk. It is built upon the lines of a dress skirt—fitted around the hips with plaits, tucks or gathers, as desired—and trimmed so beautifully that it may be used as both an underskirt and a dress lining. Upon a design that is particularly effective are three graduated ruffles of white wash silk hemstitched and trimmed with frills of narrow white lace, which may be unbuttoned from the skirt and mounded whenever it becomes necessary to do so. Such a skirt worn under a frock of white silk mull serves the purpose of an elaborate trimmed petticoat, which is quite necessary and obviates the need of an extra lining, also an important item, since slenderness is so essential to a fashionable appearance this summer.

A frock that is notable principally for its elegant simplicity is developed in sheerest white mull. The skirt is cut in seven gores and shirred about the hips in as many rows of shirring. Around the foot a finish is effected by a trimming of seven narrow bands of white satin put straight around the gores, the top one being formed into a good-sized lover's knot at the center of the front.

The bodice is shirred at the waist and neck at the back. At the front a bolero effect in lace, exhibiting a row of shirring of the gull is formed and opens over a vest of plaited mull trimmed with myriad rows of plaited bands of lace.

The sleeves reach only to the elbow, where they are completed with a full of lace, under which is a double full of accordion plaited chiffon.

A touch of color seen in some of the white dresses designed for summer wear is obtained through one of the new French laces. The lace is in white, blue, green, with a dotted pattern in different colored threads, and a hemmed border in pale color, which is most effective on white linen or green lawn.

Some of the prettiest gowns now on view at the fashionable shops of Gotham are in silky white linen. The skirt of one bears a wadded insertion of the lace just described, being treated in the same mode. The collar is of fine worked lawn, edged with the darned lace. Empire patterns in lace are taking the lead, and very dainty schemes of them are, such as half-oval wreaths of laurel leaves, having an inner festoon of flowers tied with ribbon bows.

The woman who is fortunate enough to be able to do her own sewing has an advantage this year in one way despite the expensive trend of the modes. Many of the prettiest frocks come all embroidered, trimmed and cut out so that all that is necessary is to put them together and fit to the figure.

As a rule the styles of trimming require so much skill that they are seldom a success if attempted at home, except by someone who has some experience in the matter, and it is better to make a sacrifice and purchase one already decorated and economize on something else.

Something very smart for outdoor wear has just come over from France in the form of an Empire sacque carried off in chiffon and lace. This wrap hangs in straight folds or plaits, perfectly loose, back or front, to half way between the waist and the knees. It is finished off with a lace collar of a fichu with long ends around the top, and has either double puffed or a floating sleeve. Both of these sleeves are extremely graceful and enjoy equal favor among well-dressed women.

Quite the most mysterious wrap of the season, however, is the Du Barry cache poussette or dust coat. It is made of pongee or other light silk and hangs loosely about the figure from collar to hem. At the waist it is belted with a silk cord, which are finished at the ends with thick, full tassels.

The sleeves of these Du Barry coats are most perplexing things. They are long and so full that they simulate the appearance of a cape and are gathered around the wrists something after the fashion of Turkish trousers.

The style is original and quite fashionable at the present moment, but it is necessarily doomed to an early death, for the reason that the wrap is not dressy enough to serve the purpose of an all-around coat and so much material is required in the making that few women are willing to indulge in a luxury whose fate is as yet not fully decided.

Fichus of white net, chiffon, mull and very thin silks are used to a great extent, but they are quite short. Those of ribbon dotted in white are either arranged in a loose sailor knot or else are brought around the neck in a Louis quatorze bow in front. For neckwear nothing can exceed the trim little bands of embroidery or plain hemstitched linen worn on the collar. The latter style has been with us many seasons, but at present there are no indications of its waning popularity.

Advance summer styles show much that is new in trimmings, as well as materials, but the main thing to be remembered is that generous dashes of white are necessary to absolute chic, and the more the better. From here lead to her feet the summer girl of nineteen and two will be immaculate in her makeup!

It was announced that the local unions will contribute liberally toward defraying the expenses of the convention.

The Teamsters' Union requested that the name of the Board of Education be stricken from the black list, which had been placed there for purchasing fuel of unfair dealers. The request was not granted.

The organization committee reported that at a mass meeting held in Oregon City 300 of those who signed the roll petitioning for a Federal Union.

Word was received from the Carpenters' Union at Dawson City advising all skilled laborers to remain away from there. A non-partisan meeting will be held in Union Hall tomorrow afternoon, and will be addressed by Elwood Pomeroy of New York for "Direct Legislation."

ASK FOR AN ADVANCE.

The team drivers have addressed the following letter to their employers asking for an increase in their wages:

"Dear Sirs: We, your employees, ask of you a raise in wages of 25 cents per day for 10 hours' work, and 25 cents per hour for overtime; and time and a half for Sunday work. The reason for our request is that nearly all labor is getting a higher rate of wages than was paid two years ago and shorter hours. Rent and living is higher than at that time, and we believe that we are entitled to more pay for we have to work longer hours and on our work, the hardest kind and deserve better pay."

We do not want you to think that we are imposing upon you, but under the present circumstances we feel justified in asking this favor.

This rate to take effect May 1, 1902.

LABOR NOTES.

While no contracts are being made by the packers with the beliners or trappers for fish at any specified price, everyone interested appears to think that there will be no controversy over prices and the season will open at the figures fixed by the Fishermen's Union at its meeting on Monday evening at Astoria. The prices are 6 cents for large fish and 5 cents for smaller ones.

From the way the labor organizations are coming to the front in La Grande it is an assured fact that they are here to stay and accomplish whatever they consider for the best interest of the working class of people, says the La Grande News.

The Operative Plasterers International Union had a very successful meeting last night, initiating five new members and receiving several applications for membership. There was a good attendance, and all manifested a deep interest in the proceedings. The union is in a flourishing condition.

Everybody likes the Peacock flour because it is the best.

NEGLECTED GRAVES

Soldiers Bodies Dug up in Streets at The Dalles.

(Journal Special Service.)
THE DALLES, April 12.—Recently John Pender bought some lots in this city, which include the grounds upon which the soldiers were buried in the early '90s, with the understanding that he was to remove the bodies to the city cemetery. On his ground are 15 graves and a number are right in the street. Thursday he began the removal of the bodies, and among them was the body of one Leonard, who died at Miller's Bridge, on the Deschutes, under suspicious circumstances, and his wife was tried and acquitted in this city for his murder. The skull of one soldier exhumed had a bullet hole through the center of it, showing that he died facing the foe. There seems to be little sentiment expressed concerning these soldiers whose graves were so sadly neglected, and it does seem fitting that they be decently re-interred in the city cemetery.

THE DALLES.

(Journal Special Service.)
THE DALLES, April 12.—John Cooper of this city, received word from Washington yesterday informing him that he had successfully passed his examination taken in San Francisco for a lieutenant in the regular army, and that he would be commissioned as such at the earliest date possible. Young Cooper enlisted with Company E, Second Oregon Regiment, when but 15 years of age, and served with them during their engagement in the Philippines. He is now serving in the capacity of first lieutenant of Company D of this city.

The Democrats of Wasco County will open headquarters in The Dalles next week. County Chairman F. A. Seufert will be in charge and a vigorous campaign will be waged. Among the chief orators from this county who will herald the cause of Democracy in the coming campaign will be Judge A. S. Bennett, J. H. Cradefield, and Earl Sanders, who is a candidate for the Legislature.

Attorneys Bennett and Binnett received word today that at a session of the Superior Court held in Walla Walla, S. W. McDonald, whom they represent, had been awarded $10,000 as damages for injury sustained while acting in the capacity of conductor on the W. & C. railway.

There were 120 original homestead entries filed in the United States land office at this city during the month of March. This is the largest number filed during any one month in the history of the present administration.

Twin sons were born April 11 to Mr. and Mrs. M. Brice of this city. In their family of six children, all have been born twins. Two years ago twin boys came into their family, and five years later twin girls. It seems to be a case of double twinning, alternating sons and daughters.

William R. Gray died Friday morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. John Gavin, of cancer of the intestines. The deceased was 52 years of age and leaves a family of four children, Mrs. Matthew Oik of Dell, Malheur County; Mrs. Wales, Broadhouse, Ill.; Mrs. John Gavin, of this city, and Louis Gray, of St. Louis, Mo. The funeral will take place from the home of Mrs. John Gavin on Union street, Sunday afternoon.

TAX OF FOREIGNERS IN JAPAN

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Japanese government has agreed to submit to arbitration the question raised by the powers as to the exemption of their citizens living in Japan from taxation on their homes. The United States government is not a party to this arbitration directly, but the Japanese government has given its assurance that our citizens living in Japan shall have the benefit of any decision reached by the arbitration, while for our part we have consented to be bound by that decision.

Under the extra-territorial system, which prevailed until recently in Japan, resident foreigners were exempt from taxation on real estate held by them, not in fee simple, but under lease. When Japan adopted a new code and enjoyed full treaty relations, she confirmed in these treaties the ancient rights of foreigners. In this confirmation, in the form of treaties, the Japanese used the equivalent to the words "real estate" in the Japanese sense, meaning, they claim, nothing more than the land, while the powers using the term in the common law sense, held that it meant the land and the house thereupon. Under its construction, the Japanese government sought to tax for municipal improvements the houses on foreign holdings.

The powers have resisted this tax; the United States government has directed
