Labor Leaders Talk on the Miners' Case.

DON'T LIKE JACKSON

Virginia Judge's Decision Is Discussed and Harshly Criticized.

In regard to the decision of United States District Judge Jackson at Parkersburg, W. Va., yesterday whereby various miners and their sympathizers were given time in jail for their alleged action in inducing men to quit who were taking the places of strikers several of the local labor leaders expressed decided opinions.

G. Y. Harry said: "It is an outrageous decision. It outrages the independence of every citizen and places a ban upon the right of free speech. He undertakes to uphold the inviolable right of the courts to restrain and enjoin at their will. He assumes that a union of employees, who lay down their work, is a conspiracy. While claiming he does not suppress the right of free speech he issues an order for the arrest of Secretary W. B. Wilson because of public speeches made in Clarksburg and Fort Monroe. Great is the dignity and consistency of the court. He belongs to the early part of the last century when workmen were jailed for cutting their employment. A few judges like this one, and the whole of our people will have an honest contempt for such courts."

H. G. Kundret, editor of the Labor Press, said: "It is purely an arbitrary decision from a biased judge and a biased court."

H. G. Greene, treasurer of the Building Trades Council, said: "It is only another blow at the workmen. They will put up with more suffering, hardships and insults than any other class of people on earth. Some day they will be driven to the furthest extremity of desperation and will refuse to submit longer to despotic rule. The sooner they take the injunction law up to the supreme court and test its legality the better it will be for them. It should be fought to a conclusion without delay. If workmen are not to be wholly deprived of their liberty. The signs of the times point to a radical form of imperialism. Money is the god that all the rulers seem to worship, and the poor laborer is the devil who receives nothing but kicks and cuffs."

O. N. Pierce, business agent of the Carpenters' Union, said: "The workmen are strong enough to put a labor ticket in the field, and elect men to office who are honest enough to see that justice is done to all parties. Such men as Judge Jackson should never be allowed to get into office, and they never would if workmen were alert to their own interests. At the polling booths they have an opportunity to assert their rights, and they should make it a point not to fall to do so."

SHIELD'S PARK.

Beginning tomorrow night, Shields' Park will present a cracker-jack of a program for the coming week. The great barrel-jumping Demoretello will be the leading feature. Thompson in new illustrated songs and O'Leary and Fay in a new act, fill out the most entertaining bill. The newly erected elevated seats will be ready for this evening. There were three amateurs last night and they all made hits.

The guests of honor were Miss Madeleine and Rene Walsh, of San Francisco, who are visiting relatives in Portland. The most pleasing feature of the evening was the "fan dance" given by Miss Madeleine Walsh, accompanied by Mrs. Potter, pianist. A chorus by all the guests ended a very pleasant evening.

Business men who have not liquidated their industrial licenses will soon be awaited upon by a gentlemanly officer, who will interrogate them on a thing or two. Later he may invite some of the delinquents to his smiling retreat above the city park, there to be entertained by the affable Mr. Hogue, Judge of the municipal court. But this is not to guarantee that the officer will pay the cost of the entertainment. In fact, he won't.

THE TARIFF AND THE TRUSTS

Will Form the Question to Be Fought Out in the Coming National Campaign.

JAMES G. DARDEN
Democratic Candidate for Congress From the 9th Illinois District.

James G. Darden, Democratic nominee for Congress from the Ninth district in Chicago, now in his former home, Portland, gives the following succinct statement of the coming campaign issues as he views them:

gives them opportunities as well as certain privileges to combine their wealth, and dictate the price of the different commodities in this country, which is detrimental to the people of this country.

city was condemned. A letter from the Shipwrights' and Caulkers' Union drew attention to the matter. It stated that the tender for the new dredge had been awarded to a Seattle firm, and that it is very probable that the contract for building the drydock would also go to an outside firm. The communication further stated that the union is opposed to such practice and asked that the Federated Trades Council take some action on the matter. The subject was thoroughly discussed, and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions condemning the letting of contracts to outside firms.

parcel. F. J. O'Donnell, who is the press agent, was dreaming away in an upper berth, and in the berth below was the car manager, H. C. Hedges. A sudden jolt, a smell of smoke, and Mr. O'Donnell descended from the top shelf. Hedges was up and reported the car on fire. In a few moments the car was cleared of its occupants who were somewhat scantily attired. Overalls on train, and undershirts, decollete, made up their costumes. On their arrival here the clothing stores did a roaring trade. The expense account of the manager was sufficiently long to meet all requirements.

The committee was composed of G. Y. Harry, A. W. Jones and Ira Taylor. Then the subject of making preparations for the celebration of Labor Day was taken up. A big demonstration is being planned for, and full committees were appointed to look after the arrangement of the various events of the day. Arrangements were also completed for the mass meeting to be held here August 4, when Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, James O'Connell and Max Morris, third and fourth vice-presidents respectively of the same organizations, will be present and address the public on labor issues of the day.

Watches, jewelry and 40 suits of clothing represent the loss to the men who occupied the car. All the advertising matter and the big boiler used for paste were lost. As may readily be imagined, the event was not wanting in its comical aspects. To dance about half-dressed in the chill air of the early morning is almost tragic to the one who has to do the high-kicking, however droll it may appear to those who merely look on. The burning of the car will only have the effect of inconveniencing Buffalo Bill's advance guard of advertising men, but will not materially delay their operations.
