PORTLAND-TACOMA TODAY.

The Tacoma ball team arrived last night from Seattle and will play with Portland this afternoon. The Tacoma nips has signed a new pitcher in Zimmerman of the Hoboken, N. J. team.

PUGILISTIC NOTES.

Battling Nelson is going to Hot Springs to get treatment for his injured arm. It is found to all right he will meet any one of his size when he returns.

Harry Griffin wants to meet Kid Black or Young Mowatt. This bout would be worth putting on. Griffin says he can do 125, but 128 would suit him much better.

Tommy Dixon, the colored boxer who has been fighting round Boston, is back home, and his manager, Ed White, is willing to back him against anybody at 116 to 120 pounds.

Eddie Connolly, who knocked out Jack Palmer in nine rounds the other evening, had intended to come right home, but has a fat offer to meet Jack Scates and may stay in England awhile longer.

Kid Carter and Tommy Ryan have been matched for Fort Erie, at 155 pounds.

Rube Ferns is sick and will be unable to meet Matty Matthews at Fort Erie on August 11, according to contract.

Artie Simms, of Akron, Ohio, has filed a challenge to meet Billy Gardiner of Lowell. Simms is prepared to try conclusions at 128 pounds.

Tim Kearns of Boston, announces that he has signed articles for a 15-round bout with Eddie Cain of Brooklyn. The match is to go to the club making the best inducement.

Young Corbett says that he was in no wise compensated by the West End A. C. of St. Louis after his mill with Dave Sullivan was called off, although his contract called for $500 in the event of the club failing to hold the combat.

A private battle, with small gloves and to a finish, has been arranged between "Whitey" Lester of Philadelphia and Jack Hamilton of Troy. The mill is slated to be held on August 7 in the vicinity of Troy. The weight is 134 pounds.

Joe Bernstein, the pugilist, intends to emulate Jim Corbett, Terry McGovern, et al, and go on the stage. In conjunction with his trainer, Jimmy Frank, he will appear in a sketch. Joe declares that his new departure will not interfere with his fistie engagements.

The fistie star of Billy Rotchford, the onetime clever fighter from Chicago, has evidently set. On Monday night at Indianapolis, Rotchford engaged in a 10-round mill with Clarence Forbes, also of Chicago, and a brother of Harry Forbes. Young Forbes outpointed and outgouted Rotchford all the way through and easily got the verdict.

The six-round bout between Jack Ryan of Brooklyn and Tommy Cleary of Philadelphia was decided before the Golden Gate A. C., Philadelphia, on Monday night. The "go" was a fast one throughout and both were evenly matched. The decision was a draw.

Word has been received by the officials of the International A. C. of Fort Erie, Canada, to the effect that Rube Ferns, the quondam welterweight champion, will be unable to go on with his contest with Matty Matthews of Brooklyn, which is booked to come off on August 11. Ferns has reported ill.

ELKS DELAY FIGHT.

SALT LAKE, Aug. 5.—The strenuous objections made by the Elks over the pulling off of the Gardner-Root fight here during the session of the Grand Lodge of the order has caused a postponement until August 13.

PREPARING FOR SCRAP.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 5.—A contract has been let for the erection of the arena in which the Corbett-McGovern fight will be pulled off. It will have a seating capacity of 20,000. All arrangements are being made for the big exhibition on August 29, in spite of the report that the fight is to be stopped.

GEORGE DIXON TO RETIRE.

It was reported on good authority yesterday that George Dixon intends to retire from the ring within the next six months. Dixon is in England, having gone there about two weeks ago. He went to the other side with a backer in search of matches with any of the foreign or American featherweights who are now in Europe. On his return, which it is expected will be in the latter part of September, he will go to Cleveland and settle in that city. The Black Bass A. C., an organization of Cleveland, has engaged the former featherweight champion as its boxing instructor, succeeding Harry Lemon, who has been engaged as Joe Gans' sparring partner.

Dixon has had a notable career in the ring. He has been boxing since 1886 and is the hero of nearly 400 bouts. He held the featherweight title for almost 12 years, until it was wrested from him by Terry McGovern about three years ago. In his day Dixon has earned close to $200,000, but he is practically penniless. He has been doing some fighting lately, but his form has deteriorated. He is still exceptionally clever and, in the estimation of good judges of the ring, ought to make a capital instructor.

JOE GODDARD'S RECORD.

Joe Goddard, who was shot during a political squabble at Newark, N. J., Monday, is well known to pugilistic fans. He was born at Pyram, N. S. W., November 25, 1861, and during his career in the ring engaged in 42 battles, among them being contests with the leading heavy weights of this country, including Champeen Jim Jeffries, in which the present champion was returned a winner in four rounds, at Los Angeles, Cal., February 28, 1888.

In his battle in Australia Joe Choynski classes among the best of his opponents. They met twice and each time Goddard disposed of his opponent in four rounds. They afterward met in a six-round contest at Philadelphia, but no decision was rendered. Peter Maher was given his quietus in three and one rounds, respectively, by the Australian, who was a loser in eight rounds when they met the third time.

Goddard stopped Joe Butler at Philadelphia in three rounds and then was defeated by Ed Smith in 18 rounds at New Orleans. Tom Starkey beat him in six rounds at San Francisco. He also met Bob Armstrong, Joe Choynski, Gus athletic Club, and will continue through the week. The attendance is the largest at any tourney ever held in this section and includes crack players from New Orleans, Knoxville, Norfolk, Chattanooga and other cities.

CROOKED TRACK WORK.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 5.—The Judges at the Grand Circuit races unearthed a job in the $5,000 stake for 2:30 pacers, and by prompt action saved innocent speculators who had backed the field for a large sum of money. Severe punishment was meted out to the guilty person. Driver Tom Stuard, and the horse Elder One was suspended for one year.

BOWLERS GO WEST.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Thompson, Brill and Worden, three of the best bowlers Chicago ever produced, are on a Western trip to play a series of match games with some of the best teams to be found in the country. They will go direct to Los Angeles, where they have six engagements; thence to San Francisco, nomas Addition team resulted in a score of 5 to 3 in favor of the Multnomas team. One of the star features of the game was a double play by McKinley and Miller of the John Drews, McKinley fielding a grounder, touching a man out on second, and making a swift pass to first. Next Sunday the John Drews will play the South Portland team at the latter's field.

Attempts to Murder Wife With a Knife.

HE BARELY ESCAPED

William Lockington Then Stabs Himself in the Throat and May Die.

While crazed with drink, William Lockington, a Lower Albina stevedore, made a vicious attempt to murder his wife and commit suicide, at their home 604 Northwick street, last night.

Lockington had been drinking heavily for three days and was in a dangerous mood. He became angered over a trifling dispute with his wife as to the whereabouts of a neighbor, and attacked her with a pocket knife.

The woman ran into the yard and jumped from the stone fence to the sidewalk. He sprang upon her and attempted to slash her throat. She broke away and ran to the house of a near neighbor named Clark, who having heard the scuffle, appeared and hit Lockington on the head with a piece of gas pipe.

The woman then ran across the street to a boarding house where she was overtaken by the enraged husband, who cut her three or four times on the cheek, shoulder and wrist. The wounds inflicted are not serious.

After the attempted murder Lockington walked off the street a short distance and made an attempt at self-destruction by jabbing the knife into his throat. He was taken to St. Vincent's hospital in the patrol wagon. He is in a serious condition and if he recovers will have to answer to the charge of assault with attempt to kill.

Chop-Suey for America's Tables.

It was quite the fad last spring here in New York to have chop suey sent from one or another of the Chinese restaurants as a part of the fashionable dinner menu at many of the club or big hotels, and not infrequently at private houses.

Chop suey, as all the world knows—or ought to know—is reputedly the national dish of China. It has been in marked popular favor here for fully twenty-five centuries. They were eating chop suey in China long before Christ distributed his grapes and fishes among that multitudinous in Palestine. Some persons pretend to believe that it will ere long become a standard food in this country.

There are some sixty Chinese restaurants scattered over the different boroughs of Greater New York, whose chief attraction is this popular composition, and several American restaurants have endeavored to take advantage of its popularity by adding it to their daily bill-of-fare. There is a ridiculous amount of mystery concerning the dish. It is simple, economical, and easily made. The general formula is as follows:

One pound of moderately lean fresh pork, cut into pieces a quarter of an inch thick, a half of an inch wide, and as much long; two chickens livers, chopped up to the size of dice; two chickens gizzards cut into slices the size of a nickel, and each ring plucked with the lines almost meeting in the center. The heat of cooking causes the fibers to shrink, and converts the circle into a many pointed star. A quarter of a pound of celery cut into shivers; a quarter of a pound of canned mushrooms, and a quarter of a pound of green peas, chopped string beans, asparagus tips, bean sprouts, or celery. These are thrown into a frying-pan over a hot fire, covered with a cap of water, four tablespoons of peanut oil, or olive oil, or melted butter, a tablespoonful of chopped onion, half a clove of garlic, grated salt, white pepper and red pepper.

If the fire is hot enough, there will cook in five minutes. The contents of the pan should be stirred to prevent burning, and the moment the water boils out, fresh water should be added in small quantities, to prevent frying. The dish should be served promptly, and is not only palatable, but wholesome and easily digested. In place of pork, mutton can be employed, while chicken liver and gizzard can be replaced by those of turkey. Some Chinese cooks use the Indian soy, which is sweeter. The effect can be imitated by adding a teaspoonful of Worcester'shire sauce and another of Brown sugar or a teaspoonful of molasses. An agreeable modification results from the use of asparagus tips along with the other vegetable ingredients, while the Singapore variety is obtained by stirring in a tablespoonful of curried paste.

In the Chinese restaurants the cost varies from ten to twenty-five cents a plate, the more expensive containing a fair amount of the best imported French mushrooms.

Now the Sphinx Is Crumbling.

Mr. D. C. Longworth, of the Cairo Sphinx, brings the warning that that wondrous marvel of the ancient world, the Egyptian Sphinx, is rapidly decaying. It will not be able long to withstand the altering climate of Egypt, due to the irrigation of recent years.

A few years ago an hour's downfall of rain once a year was a novelty in Egypt. The natives regarded it as some dire message of reproach from the gods. The irrigation and the many trees about the Delta have changed. Fifteen to 18 days' heavy rain falls now every year on the head of the Sphinx. The severe "kham-seem" sandstorm follows and cuts into the soddened limestone of the ancient monument, whitening away all over the surface.—London Daily Mail.

GREAT OUTPOURING

TO HEAR VISITING LABOR LEADERS

The big labor meeting at Cordray's theater last night was one of the most successful events of the kind ever held in Portland. Before 9 o'clock the theater was crowded to the doors.

The audience was a representative one, composed of men and women of all callings and walks in life, from the humble laborer to the professional leader. Society people were also out in numbers. The stage was artistically decorated with the national colors, while large ferns and potted plants gave a most pleasing effect to its general appearance. When the distinguished visitors made their appearance on the platform in company with a number of well known local men the vast audience gave them a most earnest greeting by prolonged applause.

VICE-PRESIDENT MORRIS.

After a selection by the orchestra, G. Y. Harry, president of the State Federation of Labor, who presided at the meeting, made a few appropriate remarks after which he introduced Vice-President Max Morris, who represents the retail clerks. Mr. Morris made a short address in which he told of the advantages of organization and what it had accomplished for those behind the counter whom he believed should be equally as well paid as the hod carrier. He also touched upon child labor and said if the unions do not work for the suppression of this evil that it would never be wiped out. No church, society or any other organization, excepting labor unions, seem to take any interest in it. He asked all who visit the stores to look always for the union label and demand of the clerks waiting upon them to show their union cards. Mr. Morris was frequently interrupted with loud applause.

MAHON TALKS.

W. D. Mahon, international president of the Amalgamated Association of Street Car Employees, was the next speaker. He spoke with vigor and often grew eloquent as he pictured some unusually striking evil with which the unions have to contend. He said among other things:

"We believe the policy and principles of our organization are respected by every thoughtful civilized man and woman. I will speak of the union labor movement, divested of its theoretical or sympathetic side, for in our business lives we view it from a thoroughly business viewpoint. This is an age in which the world is business, here, there and everywhere.

"Down through all the ramifications of life we find it moved and controlled by organization. This has come to pass in the last century, due to improved machinery. There is no escape from organization. The coffin trust dictates the price of a box in which we shall have final repose. In two years the Bible trust has put up 25 per cent the price of the sacred Word of God."

PRESIDENT GOMPERS' SPEECH.

President Gompers followed. Although the hour was growing late not half a dozen left the hall before he concluded his speech which was not until 11 o'clock. He spoke distinctly and every word was listened to with rapt attention. Those who went to hear Gompers to be instructed and entertained were not disappointed. He is logical and polished, employing the choicest English for the expression of his ideas. Many went home with an entirely different conception of the man from that they had previously entertained. The following are but a few of his paragraphs:

"Can we be expected to be different from our fellows? We have simply learned the lesson that they have taught. We, too, have formed our societies, and have formulated our ethics, and one of the first rules is 'thou shalt not take thy neighbor's job,' and for any one who violates this law we have a pet name of our own that we apply to him.

"The ministers, the lawyers, the doctors, all have their organizations and force their members to live up to them. If a doctor should violate the medical ethics as laid down by the medical society, he is put under a ban by the rest of the profession. The lawyers have a trade union. They do not call it that. They call it a 'bar association' and think that it sounds prettier. They have a system of apprenticeship, the same as we have in all of our trades. They call it 'student life,' and think that that sounds prettier. I care not how logical you may be, if you would go into a court where justice is dispensed and would wish to appear in defense of some one, the Judge, who is the walking delegate of the lawyers' union, would ask you to show your working card. He would not call it that. He would say your diploma, and think that sounded prettier."

"We all love the free Government under which we live, and are bound that it shall be maintained. Who is going to maintain it? The unorganized? Surely not, for they are working for their own interests all alone. An organization is a co-operation to help all concerned. The load falls upon the men and women of the unions, who realize their duty to themselves, to their comrades, to society and to their descendants, and who stand ready to contest every inch of ground that the oppressor seeks to question, and who have consecrated their lives that the Republic of America shall not fall. Upon our shoulders falls the load, and we will struggle for right and justice. We shall demand more, and shall never cease to demand more. When we have obtained that for which we have asked we shall demand more. If we obtain that we shall demand more. Then we shall demand more and more and more, until we have the full fruition of our labor. And I know of no people who are so entitled to ask for more as the people who produce the wealth of the world."

To Make the Bible Popular.

In the proposed action of a newspaper published at Pana, Ill., there is a suggestion to the home mission bodies of this country.

The Pana Journalist proposes to print the Bible as a serial. Why should not the missionary bodies make arrangements to have the same thing done by other newspapers, thus bringing the scriptures to the daily attention of hundreds of thousands of people who have not looked into a Bible since their Sunday school days?

There are some people foolish enough to sneer at the Bible. Such people are the victims of their religious—or non-religious—prejudices. For whatever may be thought of the claims to divine inspiration made for the book no one who reads it can deny that it commands a place among the highest types of English literature.

The English Bible," said Thomas Babington Macaulay, is a book which, if everything else in our language should perish, would alone suffice to show the whole extent of its beauty and power."

The missionary people could do no greater service to literature as well as to religion than by making the Bible a popular rather than an esoteric book. The Pana man has pointed out the way.—Chicago Chronicle.

YACHT CLUB CRUISE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—This was an unusually busy day for the marine reporters stationed about City Island, at the entrance to the Sound. Their steam launch was kept humming all day, slipping after the pretty winged yachts that were bound to the eastward preparatory to gathering off the Pequot house, a picturesque New London harbor, for the annual squadron cruise of the New York Yacht Club, which is to America what the Royal Yacht Squadron is to Great Britain. This year's outing will eclipse anything in the past. The fleet will get under way from the old whaling port to run to Newport, the gathering is the initial and all-important step in the cruise, a meeting on board the flagship this afternoon being an important feature. Following the races for the Astor cups, which are set for Wednesday, there will be squadron runs along the coast as far as Marblehead.

The Oregon Water Power & Railway Company was the purchaser.

LOCAL DELGATE TO THE MINING CONGRESS

A. D. Charlton, the assistant general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific has been appointed by Governor Geer to represent the State of Oregon and also by Mayor Williams to represent the City of Portland at the International Mining Congress to be held at Butte, Mont., September 1 to 5. The selection is a peculiarly happy one, and the interests of Oregon will not suffer in the hands of so competent a man as Mr. Charlton. He is one of 30 delegates who will be present. In speaking of the congress, Mr. Charlton said to The Journal:

"I think the congress will prove an excellent idea. If this gathering should prove as successful as I have every reason to believe, it will do a wonderful degree of good for Oregon in particular and the Pacific Northwest in general. I regard the effort to be put forth as important. It will draw attention and induce immigration to the Pacific Northwest.
