

TOOK HIS WIFE'S MONEY AND WENT

A Bride of Two Weeks Charges Husband With Embezzlement.

At 25 Fifth street, Clara Silverman mourns the loss of $700 and a husband. She has only a penny to her name.

After a brief honeymoon of two weeks she is deserted, and left among strangers with a 1-cent piece.

Prior to coming to Portland, a week ago, Clara Silverman conducted a small merchant tailoring establishment on Fourth street in San Francisco, which had been left her on the death of her first husband.

The widow was industrious and economical and had a small bank account and a business that paid fair profits.

Three weeks ago she met a tailor named Silverman who without delay began a successful campaign for the widow's hand and purse and has secured both.

After a courtship of one week the couple were married, and selling out the business, started for St. Louis on a wedding trip.

On reaching Portland, Silverman proposed that they buy out a business here and postpone the Eastern trip. This was satisfactory to the bride. Arrangements were made to buy a tailor shop on Fourth street for $300.

This money Mrs. Silverman gave to her husband to close up the bargain. He suggested at the time that for safety it would be wise to deposit the balance of her money in the bank. To this she agreed and handed over to him $400 more.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning Silverman kissed his wife good-bye, and stated he was going to visit a dentist, and would return at 12 o'clock for lunch and then they would go out and transact the business on hand.

This was the last seen of him by his wife. She waited until 3 o'clock and becoming suspicious, concluded she had been robbed and deserted and reported to the police.

This morning she swore out a warrant for her husband's arrest which has not yet been served as the whereabouts of the man are unknown.

He is described as being a Russian Jew of considerable intelligence, who served for a number of years in the Czar's army. His age is given as 28 years. He is smooth faced and dark complexioned. In height he is six foot and very slim.

Mrs. Silverman, when interviewed, stated: "I met Silverman three weeks ago. He appeared to be honest, and stated he did not care for my money, but loved me. In a week I married him. He induced me to sell out and take a wedding trip. I had $1,000 in all. During our marriage career of two weeks he spent nearly $400 of my money for clothes and jewelry. The remaining $700 he took with him. He left me with a 1-cent piece. Am among strangers and will have to get money from my relatives in St. Louis. Am willing to lose the money but desire to see Silverman caught and punished."

At the meeting of the directors of the Elks' carnival last evening, it was proposed to erect a special building for Oregon products, and plans for this structure will be prepared immediately. This will afford Easterners who visit the carnival an opportunity to examine the fruits, grains, etc., that are produced in the State of Oregon.

George Gardner was the lowest bidder for the contract to erect the Manufacturers' building and the contract was awarded to him. He will commence work on the structure in a few days.

T. J. Alsip, of Albany, writes that he has collected over 6000 circulars entitled, "A Message from the Clouds," and will return them to headquarters. Mr. Alsip is the second person to report that he has found a number of the circulars which were taken up to a great height and released from a balloon.

All Elks are requested to come to headquarters and get one of the beautiful four-color lithographed posters just received by the committee. These posters are emblematic of the Elks and it is desired that each Elks will place one of these posters in a window of his home.

The many friends of Miss Harriet Sprague will regret to learn that she has withdrawn from the contest for Carnival Queen. A number of votes have been cast for her already, but owing to an unforeseen change in her plans she was obliged to resign.

Articles of incorporation have been filed of the Eastern & Western Lumber Combine with a capital stock of $1,000,000 by W. B. Ayer, M. F. Henderson, Philip Buehner, F. H. Ransom and W. A. Dempsey.

W. B. Ayer, president of the Western Lumber Company, states: "The Eastern & Western Lumber Company is the successor of the former Western Lumber Company and the Eastern Lumber Company which have now been consolidated. As the owners of the two old companies were practically the same, the consolidation has been made for the greater convenience in the transaction of business of the two companies now made into one."

The Western Lumber Company erected an extensive sawmill in North Portland in 1885, and three or four years later the Eastern Lumber Company was formed by the gentlemen who controlled the Western Company, and put up a plant of about the same size near by.

An Eastern gentleman, whose name Major Williams could not recall today, has purchased the beautiful Waverly tract lying east of East Twenty-sixth street, south of Clinton street, north of Powell street and west of Richmond, and will spend $100,000 in improving and beautifying his property. He will grade and pave all the streets of the 100 acres, construct asphalt sidewalks and in a six-foot space between the sidewalks and pavements will have a grass plot with shade trees at the usual distance apart. None of the property will be sold until all these improvements are completed, and then only with a building restriction clause in every deed.

The Waverly tract lies so high above the city that it commands a view of the entire metropolis, as well as the Willamette and Columbia rivers, and the city of Vancouver, Wash. The rise to this elevation is so gentle that it is scarcely perceptible when riding on the cars. There is no more beautiful spot in Oregon.

A. D. Charlton, Assistant General Passenger Agent of the Northern Pacific, has returned from a trip to Long Beach, where he was taking an outing with his family.

R. L. Ford, better known among his railroad friends as "Bob," was married in Spokane a few days ago to Mrs. Josephine Warren, of that place. Mr. Ford, who was formerly with the Rio Grande Railway Company, and is now contracting freight agent for the Southern Pacific, is well known in Portland. Mrs. Ford was a prominent young widow from an influential family in Spokane. Immediately after the marriage ceremonies Mr. and Mrs. Ford left for Haden Lake to visit Mrs. Finch at her summer home.

Fred Thompson, agent for some time has been General Agent in the Passenger Department of the Rio Grande system, has resigned his position to accept a position at San Francisco as general western freight and passenger agent of the entire Pacific Coast. No one has been appointed in his place as yet.

General Agent Mansfield, of the Rio Grande System, Portland Or., went to Colorado Springs with a delegation of the Woodmen of the World and Women of Woodcraft to attend a gathering of these orders at that place. He is expected to be home again by Sunday.

J. C. Eden, Traffic Manager from Seattle, is in the city to confer with the O. R. & N. Co. and the P. R. R. Co. for the purpose of fixing a new basis of grain rates. In the conference the O. R. & N. Co. is represented by General Freight Agent R. B. Miller, and the P. R. R. Co. by Rate Clerk P. G. Donaldson. The committee is in session today, and it is expected that important changes will be made in the rates.

General Agent Sheldon, of the Burlington Route, is on a business trip to Puget Sound points, and expects to be gone about a week.

There are pawn shops for honor, too, though nobody ever gets much on it.

CUP CONTEST

Two Popular Elks Entered by Their Portland Friends.

Costly Loving Cup Will Be Awarded by The Journal.

B. B. RICH, CIGAR DEALER.
E. E. MERGER, ATTORNEY.

These are the names entered so far for The Journal prize.

The contest for The Journal loving cup is open for all members of the Elks in Oregon and Washington, and as there are many popular Elks in these two states it is assured that a large number of contestants will be entered. B. B. Rich's friends have sent in a batch of votes for him, and E. E. Merger, a popular young lawyer of Portland, was the first to receive a portion of the many votes that will be cast.

The coupons must be cut out from The Journal and the name of the person you wish to vote for filled in the blank space. The Elks voted for must be in good standing, and the one receiving the most votes will be awarded the cup, which is valued at $125. All coupons should be plainly addressed to the Contest Editor, care of the Oregon Daily Journal.

To save the trouble of cutting out the coupons prepaid subscriptions will be credited in the ballot as follows: One month, six coupons; three months, 180 coupons; six months, 360 coupons; 12 months, 720 coupons.

Those who intend to vote for a friend should commence early, as some votes are being held back and will come in a bunch later on.

The handsome cup is well worth working for, and now is a good time for all Journal readers to favor their particular friends, by turning in all the votes they can for him. In the window of A. L. Feldenhimer, the jeweler, corner of Third and Washington streets, may be seen this beautiful cup which some popular Elks in Oregon or Washington is sure to win.

SOLDIERS EN ROUTE.

The Union Depot was the scene of bustle early this morning when 278 soldiers from Alaska camped there on their way to San Francisco and the Philippines.

The troops were supposed to arrive at 9 o'clock last night, but owing to some delay arrived at 4 o'clock this morning. Captain L. H. Knapp, quartermaster of the Third Regiment, O. N. G., was at the armory ready to receive the guests with a good solid breakfast, but was spared the trouble, as the troops did not leave the depot until they left for San Francisco at 9 o'clock this morning. Troops F and G of the First United States Cavalry, passed through here Tuesday night on their way to San Francisco. These troops are under the command of Major Woodward and came from Yellowstone Park, where they had done police duty. Most of the had seen service in the Philippines and Cuba.

SHOT HIMSELF.

J. L. McLean, 35 years old, accidentally shot himself in Columbia County yesterday while trying a kill a rabbit. He attempted to fire the gun off from the wagon in which he had been driving with his young son and in some way some of the shot entered his left leg. The boy procured help from a nearby house and the injured man was brought to this city and taken to St. Vincent's hospital. His condition is deemed serious.

SHORT TALKS ON AMERICA'S HIGHEST GRADE PIANOS.

The Decker

The piano that from the year of its establishment, nearly half a century ago, up to the present moment, has stood as a monument for reliability.

The piano that after the severest possible tests, as to durability, tone and touch, was selected by the famous New England Conservatory of Music in preference to all others.

The piano that in delicacy and elasticity of touch, in evenness of scale and in purely musical tone quality is excelled by no other high grade piano on the market.

This piano, of course, like the Chickering, Kimball, Weber, Vose, Hobart N. Cable and other high-grade instruments, is sold exclusively on the Pacific Coast by Eilers Piano House, 351 Washington St., opposite Cordray's Theatre.

THE JOURNAL

Published daily, in the afternoon, in PORTLAND, OR.
AN OREGON PAPER FOR OREGON PEOPLE
A NEWSPAPER
Eight to Sixteen Pages, at the following rates by MAIL.

The Journal Newspaper.

The Journal property has been purchased and has passed under the control of the undersigned, and the paper will be conducted on lines of greatest benefit to Portland, to Oregon and to the great Northwest, and in many ways conducted differently, as to men, measures and methods, to those of its contemporaries which follow narrow grooves of newspaper habit.

The Journal in head and heart will stand for the people, be truly democratic and free from political entanglements and machinations, believing in the principles that promise the greatest good to the greatest number—to ALL MEN, regardless of race, creed or previous condition of servitude.

Exuberant assurances are cheap and empty. I wish to make none. Performance is better than promise; action more fruitful than words. The columns of The Journal from day to day will better reflect the spirit behind the paper. It shall be a FAIR newspaper and not a dull and selfish sheet. In short, a honest, sincere attempt will be made to build up and maintain a newspaper property in Portland that will be a credit to "Where Ralls the Oregon" country and the multitude of people who are interested in its development and advancement.

Portland capital largely is behind The Journal, and the fund is ample for all purposes. Coupled with energy and enthusiasm, the work of making a paper, devoted to Portland's best interests, is begun. The support of the freedom-loving, intelligent, generous people of Oregon is invited and will be duly appreciated by still greater endeavor and achievement on the part of The Journal, which hopes ever to become stronger in equipment, stronger in purpose, stronger in news resources, and stronger in good deeds.

LABOR DAY

Big Preparations for the Celebration.

BIG TIME TO BE HAD

Business Men Will Close Their Stores in Honor of the Event.

The committee having the Labor day celebration in charge met last night and reported having made considerable progress during the last few days.

A committee is visiting all the business places in the city and requesting them to sign an agreement that they will remain closed all day during the celebration. The men met with encouragement every place they went, and succeeded in securing a long list of signatures. They operated yesterday in the district from Third street to the steel bridge, and the agreement was signed by all the big department stores, clothing and dry goods houses, as well as by nearly all the professional offices of the small establishments. Among those who promised to close were two Chinese merchants.

The committee is working in another portion of the city this afternoon, and will continue its efforts until every business district is visited. The work so far has been attended with entire success, and it is safe to announce that the business houses will all be closed and their employees will be given an opportunity to observe the day, which is now a legalized holiday in nearly every state in the Union. Local union labor men believe that by next year it will be unnecessary to request the stores to close their doors in Portland on this day. It has become such a universal custom in the other states they believe that they will close as a matter of course without any solicitation.

Knew His Letters.

George Stickney, who lives in Lancaster, N. H., is well known in Lewiston. He has a boy who is coming along like a three-year-old trotter under training. Mr. Stickney asked the superintendent of schools when it would be advisable to teach the lad that two and two made a good time, but advised Mr. Stickney to teach the lad that two and two made four and how the letters of the alphabet run before he let him out.

A short time afterward the superintendent met the boy and asked him if he knew his letters.

"Sure," said the boy.
"Well, sir, what is the first letter?"
"A," was the answer.
"Correct," said the superintendent.
"Now, what comes after A?"
"All the rest of the push," said the boy.—Lewiston Journal.

Mob Law in England.

An extraordinary scene occurred on Leekhampton Hill, overlooking Cheltenham, late on Tuesday night. For some time past there have been demonstrations and disturbances on account of the company which owns the quarries on the hill having fenced in certain portions and built a house thereon for its foreman, thus interfering with the right claimed by the people to roam at will over every part of the hill. Incensed by the inactivity of the District Council, to

FAME'S PATHWAY.

Chauncey Dewey's son "Buster" intends to study for the medical profession and his father has been consulting some famous French doctors about the matter. The young man will probably be given a private laboratory in the Pasteur institute, Paris.

Admiral Joutet says that when he first went to sea as a cadet he attempted some conversation with the executive officer who received him when he went on board. The officer, one of the strictest disciplinarians in the service, met his advances in this mild fashion: "Silence, sir. Who gave you permission to speak? Let me hear only six words from you, sir, while you are on this ship: Port, Starboard, yes, sir, and no, sir."

It has been noticed that no mention is made of King Edward's illness in the Court Circular. This is a relic of medieval custom of concealing from the public for political reasons any reference to the king's health. The secrecy that surrounds the court is a custom handed down from generations when the sovereign and the royal family were not so secure in the affections of the people as they are at the present time.

In a couple of weeks Sir Liang Chen Tung, the new Chinese minister, will reach Washington with Prince Chen, head of the commission sent to Berlin by the Chinese government to expiate the murder of Baron Ketteler, the German minister who was killed by Boxers in Peking two years ago. Sir Liang is a Yale graduate and at one time was official interpreter to the Chinese embassy in Washington. His accomplishments as a diplomat have been attested on numerous occasions. Prince Chen and suite will visit several places in this country before sailing from Vancouver for his home.

Gen. Thomas M. Anderson, who lately lay on the retired list, has a small opinion of Admiral Dewey, dating from a time shortly after the battle of Manila. When Anderson arrived there he was anxious to do something, so he visited Dewey and proposed to take the town. The admiral dissented, suggesting mildly that the events of May 1 gave him some distinction as well as authority. General Anderson, who is given to plainness of speech, rejoined bluntly: "Hell! All you did was to smash a few pewter ships." Ever since then the two men have been anything but friends. This story is related by an officer of the Second Oregon regiment, which was in Manila at the time under Anderson's command.

Taking Sport Too Seriously.

One of the evils of the day is thoroughness as applied to sports and recreations. There is no game, however difficult or however simple, but is hedged about by difficulties which actually turn pleasure into pain. Time was when a game at whist, for example, was a genuine diversion; now it has become so scientific that it is distinctly hard work to play a good game. So as to bicycling, golf, ping-pong—everything, in a word. We have got to into the habit of taking our pleasures seriously; that those pleasures are no longer recreations, or at least not the recreations they might be were perfection not so persistently insisted upon. In these days no sooner is a game invented or imported from other lands than somebody has to go to work to make its playing a science, and in order to this end a newspaper or magazine devoted to that particular game is indispensable and inevitable. So that the drain upon the mental faculties produced by the playing of the game is rendered more drastic by the reading one has to do to keep up with the times. Oh, for a game that cannot be made scientific, that will forever escape a literary organ, and which will always and forever be just good fun and nothing more.—Boston Transcript.

Ireland's Women.

In 1898 the women of Ireland obtained every form of suffrage except that for members of Parliament, and were made eligible for the county and borough councils and for poor law guardians, a responsible office. The first year $5 women were elected guardians, and a number to the councils, several being made chairmen. They have voted in large numbers, and the testimony as to the excellent effects of their vote in local politics is unimpeachable. The Irish Women's Suffrage and Local Government Association has just held a meeting in the Mansion house at Dublin to consider action at the approaching election.

A great many eminent women were present, and it was resolved not to rest until women had been placed on every board that dealt with women and children and women inspectors put into every such institution.
