LABOR DAY PROGRAM

Will Consist of a Parade, Speaking and Athletic Sports.

Labor Day committees will be very busy for the next three weeks. While the parade is to be one of the main features of the celebration, it is not to. be the only event by any means. Public speakers of national renoun will be engaged to deliver addresses, and many other attractions are being provided for. Arrangements are being made for athletic sports of various kinds. The program is not yet made up, but it is very probable that there will be several interesting tug-of-war contests. Among these there will probably be one between the members of the Building Trades Council and the Water Front Federation. The barbers have also challenged the butchers for a tug-of-war engagement. Another similar contest wift be held between the Allied Printing Trades and the Iron Trades Council. The hod carriers are also in receipt of a challenge from the young lady bookbinders to engage in the same kind of an encounter. The athletic contests will probably be pulled off in Multnomah field, on which the committee has secured an option. Regular meetings will now be held on every Wednesday and Sunday evenings to prepare fully for the occasion.

S. P. SUNDAY EXCURSION.

Thee Southern Pacific will give a special excursion to Newport on Sunday next, August 10, but not from Portland. Trains will run to Yaquina Bay over the tracks of the Corvallis & Eastern, without change of cars arriving there at 11 o'clock and returning at 7 p. m. The lifesaving crew will give an exhibition drill, shooting the lifeline over an imaginary ship in distress on the ocean, and go through the entire course of rescuing the crew and passengers.

IRRIGATION

Discussed By the Local Board of Trade.

PERMANENT EXHIBIT

Planned for the Union Station Where Oregon Products May Be Seen.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade for the purpose of discussing the question of a permanent exhibit was held last night in the Chamber of Commerce building. The meeting was poorly attended because of the hot weather.

Secretary Moore was instructed to prepare a list of names of prominent citizens who will be appointed as a supervising committee for the exhibit and decide on manager. This committee will also be on hand in October and November to meet the homeseekers who come to Portand on the excursions.

Secretary Moore requests outside districts to send in printed matter describing their places, so that they may assist in directing the people, who may read a lescription of the different districts in Oregon for themselves.

When Mr. Maxwell, the executive chairnan of the National Irrigation Association, will arrive here, arrangements will be made by the Board of Trade for a monster meeting when there will be a discussion of the irrigation problem in Oregon and a plan of action will be decided upon as to how Oregon can receive part of the $6,000,000 appropriated by Congress for the reclamation of arid

SHORT ROUTE TO TIDEWATER

Inland Empire Grain May Come to Portland via the Short Pasco-Wallula Route.

The indications now are that the grain crop of all that broad section of Oregon and Washington known and designated as the "Inland Empire." may come to apart, which left plenty of space to ex- than to scale and descend the precipitous Cascade mountains en route from Pasco, on the Northern Pacific, to Puget Sound. The "harmony of interests" announced by the associated management of the three transcontinental railroads terminating on this coast may mean much more for this city than is generally supposed. It is well known that the rail route from Wallula to Portland is on a gentle descent all the way, while from Pasco, only a few miles from Wallula on the Northern Pacific, there are many grades to climb and descend reached. That stretch of road from Cleelum over the Cascades to the Western water level requires specially constructed locomotives of tremendous capacity and weight, and even with these gigantic moguls but small trains can be handled. On the other hand, put in motion a car of wheat at Pasco, routed via Wallula for Portland, and the momentum of its starting would land it at Portland wharves.

The recent conference of railroad man agers with the grain growers of Washington, at Davenport, resulted in freight reductions which will save to the farmers about three quarters of a million dellars. It is also likely to result in the rallroads adopting the sensible, plan of carrying the farm products of the region afforded to tidewater at the lowest possible expense to themselves, hence it is believed that the Pasco-Wallula-Portland route will drain all that broad area of productive soil that includes ninetenths of the grain belt of Eastern Oregon, Washington and a small section of Idaho.

Portland's prospects are growing brighter all the time. The splendid city builded here already is standing upon the border of a growth unparalleled in its existence.

OIL WILL BE CHEAP

Drummers Are Here Trying to Secure Oil Contracts.

Many of the steamboat companies and business firms of the city are seriously contemplating installing plants for the purpose of using oil as a fuel instead of wood and coal. Representatives of the oil companies have got onto this fact, and are in the city endeavoring to drum up business.

Two of them are from San Francisco. representing the Associated and Union Oil Companies, while the third is a resident of Portland and is looking out for the interests of the Standard Oil Company. As a result of the competition the chances are very favorable that oil fuel will be cheap. The first two companies mentioned are looking up business tocations here, and inquiring into transportation facilities.

The Standard has the best of its competitors, as it already has business quarters here and possesses its own means of transportation. It has three big tank steamers already in operation on the Gen. Hundreds of persons have stopped to admire the beautiful cup which may be seen in the window of A Feldenheimer, the jeweler, corner of Third and Washington streets. This, cup has been procured by The Journal for the express purpose of giving it as a present to the most popular Elk in Oregon or Washingten and it is left to the people to say who this particular Elk is.

In each issue of The Journal will be found a blank ballot which is to be cut out, and the name of the person for whom t is wished to vote, filled in. These ballots should then be plainly addressed to the Contest Editor, care of The Oregon Daily Journal.

To avoid the trouble of cutting out the coupons and in order that an unlimited number of votes may be cast, prepaid subscriptions will be credited in the ballot as follows: One month, 60 coupons three months, 180 coupons; six months 560 coupons; 12 months, 720 coupons. This is a splendid opportunity for all Journal readers to return a favor to some Elk friend by collecting as many votes for hifn as is possible.

It will be noticed that each ballot is limited to about two days, the date of limitation being on the ballot, and wiff be void unless polled before that date.

MT. HOOD IN CITY LIMITS.

In response to an invitation recently extended to the citizens of Portland by Walter Reed, the pioneer optician of the Northwest, a host of delighted visttors have called at his optical institute in the Oregonian building, to survey the amazingly large field of view seen through one of his marvelous prism field glasses.

Distant objects are not only magnified many times by the high power lenses employed but they are brought into such close touch that the observer is enabled to study their minutest phases. As on enthusiast remarked: "The Prism Field Glass effects a regular New York consolidation and brings Mt. Hood within the limits of Greater Portland."

In addition to this wonderful instru ment Walter Reed carries in stock at his optical headquarters, 133 Sixth street, other tourist and surveyor's field glasses dealings with the leading European manufacturers and direct importation is able to meet his patron's requirements at prices 25 per cent lower than obtain

STATE FAIR NOTES

The pretaium list of the Oregon State Fair is now out and being distributed among the farmers and breeders throughout the state. It carries $10,000 in cash premiums on livestock and agricultural day was as busy as though vacations products. Every farmer and breeder in the state is invited to bring something to the State Fair this year and help swell the big exhibit that is already promised. The Southern Pacific Company hauls all exhibits to and from the fair free of charge, which enables everyone to send something to help the good cause along. To those who wish to take their families and spend a week at the fair, they will find one of the finest camp grounds on the Coast, absolutely free. Any information regarding the fair will be gladly given by writing the Secretary at Portland, Oregon. If you have not received premium list, write for one at once. John Sparks, of Reno, Nev., will not show at the California State Fair this year, preferring to show at the Oregon State Fair instead. He has one of the finest herds of Hereford cattle in the United States and will exhibit 20 head at the fair this fall. A visit to the livestock exhibit at the State Fair will be worth many times the price of admission. No state in the Union will have a better livestock show, and every farmer should make an effort to see the biggest show ever held this side of the Rocky Mountains.

One of the attractions at the State Fair this year will be the Missouri Giantess, standing 8 feet 4 inches in her stocking feet. She is direct from Missouri and will have to be shown! Don't fall to see her.

The Oregon State Fair this year promises to be the grandest industrial exposition and livestock show ever held on the Cogst. The fair has been good the past two years, but it will be better this year.

Horses from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, British Columbia, California, Utah, Colorado, Montana and Canada are entered to race at the State Fair this fall -and it will be the greatest racing event on the circuit

PROMINENT PORTLAND DENTIST Returns From Family Reunion at Montreal.

Dr. Joseph Hickey is again in the city, found on the Pacific coast outside of having recently returned from an eight San Francisco, and through his extensive | weeks' trip to his old home near Montreal The occasion of the visit East was a grand family reunion at which eight brothers and two sisters of the family came together at the old homestead a few miles south of Montreal to live over again in fancy for a short space of time, childhood days. The reunion was a grand success. Those tender home sentiments that are so apt to be dulled by contact with the work-a-day world, were renewed, congratulations exchanged, tales long since forgotten were retold and heartily enjoyed. Dr. Hickey returns much refreshed for his vacation. and when seen at his dental parlors to-
