AN ADDRESS ON CHINA

Consul Miller Will Speak Before Board of Trade.

GROWTH OF TRADE IN SIBERIA

Those Who Cannot Attend May Send Inquiries by Mail.

The Board of Trade will hold a meeting for the business men of Portland in the early part of September, at which Henry B. Miller, United States Consul to China, will deliver an address.
 Mr. Miller is prepared to give out a great deal of information about the growth of trade in China and Siberia. At the request of the Board of Trade he has promised to give a complete answer to any question submitted to him in connection with the building up of trade with China and Siberia, more particularly in regard to transportation matters and the establishment of a direct line of steamships to Northern China and Siberia. Specific information will be given as to, any particular article that may be inquired about, as to its adaptability to trade; also how to acquire a portion of the large business now being developed in that country.
 It is the desire of the Board that all inquiries should be presented not later than September 1, so that they may be forwarded to Mr. Miller in order that he may give full answer before September 12. As Mr. Miller returns to his consulate about November 1 it will be of importance that all the manufacturers, jobbers and brokers take this matter up and give it their attention.
 Mr. Miller has made a careful study of all articles now in use and being imported into China, and will be able to give minute descriptions of new goods should be prepared for use and shipment.

COMMERCIAL WAR ON

Commission Men, Jobbers and the Growers in a Mixup.

A local commission man is in receipt of a letter from San Francisco stating that a three-cornered fight is on there among the commission merchants, jobbers and growers. The former is charging 10 per cent commission for selling all new potatoes and fruit, and will not handle them for any less. The growers objected to the high rate and began to dispose of their products to the jobbers.
 The commission men were displeased with the turn of affairs and formed a combine, after which a boycott was established against the jobbers, to remain in force as long as they persisted in buying direct from the grower.
 The jobbers were then bought to terms, but they instituted a suit against the combine to recover $115,000, the amount representing damages which were sustained by reason of the boycott.
 The producer, or grower, was without a market unless he would permit the combine to retain its 10 per cent on commission. This he emphatically refused to do and began peddling his products around the city and the wharves, taking for them whatever price he could get. The fight is still on, and promises to be more complicated if a settlement is not soon reached.

CHAMBERLAIN ON CARNIVALS

The Governor-Elect Explains the Action of Elks Supreme Lodge.

At the recent annual convention of the Elks, which was held in Salt Lake City, a resolution was passed that will go away with carnivals after January 1, 1903.
 George E. Chamberlain, Governor-elect, who was a delegate to the convention, says that the only reason assigned for introducing such a resolution is that the frequency of having carnivals lends the idea that the main object of the organization is financial gain, rather than purely a fraternal organization. When the resolution was brought before the house and explained, it was received with favor, and was passed by a large majority, with little opposition.
 Carnivals are of comparatively recent date, it being little more than two years since the first one was given, and in nearly every instance they have been a financial success. Aside from being a success in money matters, they have been a great feature in advertising the order and have helped very materially in building up the lodges.
 At the convention every state in the Union was represented, and about 15,000 Elks went to Salt Lake City, 800 of which number were delegates from the numerous lodges.
 There are now more than 800 lodges in the United States, one in Honolulu and another being organized at Manila. A representative from the Manila lodge endeavored to attend the convention, but his train was delayed and he did not arrive until a few hours after adjournment.
 The annual convention will be held in Baltimore next year, and probably at Portland in 1905.

ESTELLA TO RETURN

Arrested in Butte for Jumping Her Bail Bond.

A telegram was received yesterday by Chief of Police McLaughlin, from the authorities at Butte, that Estella Williams is being held there.
 The woman is a bad negro, who is under indictment here, for helping to rob a man on Sixth and Taylor streets, several months ago. Her paramour, a man named Tyler, who assisted in the crime, is in the county jail.
 The victim of the robbery, which was a bold affair, was a steamboatman. He was held up by Tyler, who placed a razor-cut on his throat, and threatened to do some cutting if any outcry was made.
 The woman then went through his pockets and secured about $50.
 After her arrest she secured bail of $100, with a second hand dealer named Berger, and a colored saloonman named Thornton as sureties. Estella disappeared some time ago.
 The police sent notice to the various departments in the country to take up the woman if she came their way. This morning's telegram was the first inkling received of her whereabouts.
 The District Attorney is preparing the requisition papers, and one of the local officers will be dispatched to bring the offender back.
