SALEM.

(Journal Special Service.)

SALEM, Sept. 6.—President Coleman, of Willamette University, left last evening for Colfax to attend the Columbia River Conference of the M. E. church in the interest of "Old Willamette." He returned on Tuesday from the Idaho Conference and at the conclusion of the session at Colfax he will make preparations for attending the coming conference at Puget Sound, likewise the Oregon Conference. At all of these meetings President Coleman delivers lectures on the needs of the University, and his work is being felt. Not in many years has the prospects of the school been so hopeful as at present, and much of the credit is accorded without dissent to the efforts of the new president. At the school a force of plumbers, painters, carpenters and students are at work cleaning, renovating and remodeling the old building, and many surprises will await the return of former students and friends as a result of the improvements. School opens on the 15th inst.

Another step has been taken in the progress of the Universal Gold Mining Company, which created in a brief spell some time ago more prospective millionaires in Salem than Klondike ever dreamed of. Two local attorneys, representing the principal stockholders, met and will soon draw up by-laws and supplementary articles of incorporation. The capital stock was placed at $1,000,000, of which all but $15,000 is said to be subscribed. William L. Long, the gentleman who originated a chemical process, which he claims will extract gold in wonderfully paying quantities from the leavings of every other old process, and whose discovery forms the nucleus of the new company, is the principal mover in the enterprise. The stock disposed of sold at 25 cents a share, Mr. Long having transacted most of the business. It is now reported that a plant is to be purchased at a cost of $500 and operated on the tailings of a mine in California.

A BEEF FAMINE.

Germans Are Paying Over 40 Cents Per Pound.

(Journal Special Service.)
BERLIN, Sept. 6.—The price of meat in Germany continues to rise and the town councils and other bodies and the newspapers in every part of the empire are discussing what is called the "meat famine." The butchers' guilds advanced the prices of meat this week from 24 to 5 cents a pound. A good steak costs 44 cents a pound in Berlin. Meats are generally reported statistically 25 per cent higher here now than in 1900. Germany's more rapid advance is attributed to the scarcity of home animals, the exclusion of foreign livestock and the prohibition of canned meats, thus suspending large American imports.

ASTORIA.

(Journal Special Service.)

ASTORIA, Sept. 6.—There seems to be no doubt that the fisherman who lost his life in the breakers at Peacock spit on the morning of Aug. 15 was James Mitchell, a resident of Astoria. The accident occurred early in the morning, and the efforts of the life-saving crew to rescue the man proved unavailing.

Coroner Pohl is today holding an inquest over the body of E. Greenberg, the fisherman who was killed by falling from a yard on the ship St. Nicholas. The accident occurred at 7 o'clock on the evening of Aug. 29 and was due, shipmates assert, to the breaking of a rotten gasnet. The man died at midnight in great agony. To determine the liability of the owners of the ship the inquest has been determined upon.

Charles J. Smith, of Seaside, yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt upon the life of J. P. Merrifield, a member of the Seaside council and a prominent citizen. The men had some trouble over a tenon, Smith retiring to his home. He returned a moment later with a shotgun loaded with buckshot, and placing it against Merrifield's breast was about to shoot, when the intended victim sidestepped and wrested the weapon from Smith's hands. Smith has been in the asylum several times and is believed to be mentally unbalanced. He once tried to kill Senator J. G. Megier, of Brookfield, and was sent to the asylum for it.

A body was found yesterday on the beach at Sand Island by fishermen. It is thought to be that of James Mitchell, the man who was drowned Aug. 15, or of the Finnish lad who was drowned by the steamer Potter. The Potter ran down his fishing boat while coming over from Ilwaco, and the young man lost his life.

BUILDERS ARE BUSY

The Fall Season Opens Up Promisingly.

HOUSES AND SMALL FLATS

In Great Demand—East Side Rapidly Filling Up.

The sprinkling of new houses, that was the feature of the building record, is fast giving way to numerous structures. In many parts of the city new houses are to be seen on the way to completion, and numerous foundations being in. In the central districts the houses are of expensive construction, indicating that they are residences, or houses for higher rentals. Of the latter many are flats that are to be rented at from $30 up, consisting of six or more rooms. There are invariably rented as flats as they are ready for occupancy, many cases having been taken far in advance of completion. In the outer districts the houses are in more numerous, and these are smaller and cheaper, and, as in the inside districts, they are gobbled up as fast as they can be made ready. More are to be seen on the East Side, than elsewhere, but a considerable number are in South Portland. Speaking of the new conditions a prominent dealer in this morning: "Building and realty in Portland open a fall with fine prospects. There are
