LAW IS VALID

Occupation Tax Dodgers Must Pay Up.

DECISION BY SEARS

Mayor Williams Warns All Delinquents That They Will Be Fined.

The occupation tax law is a valid measure. So decided presiding Judge Sears of the Circuit Court this morning.

Some time ago George Lent, an attorney, commenced action against the city seeking to enjoin the corporation from forcing the payment of an occupation tax on the ground that the law is unconstitutional.

MUST NOW PAY UP. The officers stationed at the City Hall were jubilant when they heard of Judge Sears' decision but did not express any particular surprise.

Mayor Williams was probably the happiest of all as he has always been a strong supporter of the occupation tax and has used every expedient to try and see the law rigidly enforced.

THE MAYOR'S WARNING. "Every man or firm who has not paid the occupation tax knows it and further they know that they are liable to arrest and prosecution in the Municipal Court."

"I am satisfied that many have held off from paying this tax until after a test could have been made of the law but they can see now that they have been left without a footing."

NO MORE LENIENCY. "When the prosecutions do commence there will be no dropping of cases but they will be vigorously prosecuted to the end, the end of whom it may."

ANOTHER NEW TRAIN.

"One of the finest trains across the continent left Seattle last night," said A. B. C. Dennison, general western passenger agent of the Great Northern.

The seats of the tourist coaches are upholstered in leather. The sleepers consist of 14 section and a drawing room, and are furnished in mahogany. The upholstery is in green plush.

The cars are illuminated with odorless acetylene gas, which sheds a pure white light.

THEIR FISHING TRIP.

The employees of the Woodard, Clarke & Co.'s establishment are willing to stand something handsome if a more accomplished pair of sports can be produced than Fred Jones and Bob Holt, both in the employ of the company.

Both have had a conviction for some time that there were too many fish in the vicinity of Skamakawa and Saturday last they started out to remedy that state of things.
