A magic lantern show was given on Saturday by Masters Lester Schell and Ford Sharpley, aged 11 and 12 respectively, at 56 Elliott, for the benefit of the Babies' Home, and netted that institution $11.50, which amount will support one baby one month.

The Welsh services at the Seamen's Institute last night were well attended. Songs from the British ships John Cooke and Morven sang hymns in the Welsh language, which were greatly appreciated by the Welsh residents who were present.

The scarcity of fresh Oregon eggs still continues and prices have been going up by leaps and bounds. Most of the grocers in the city are now charging 35 cents a dozen for guaranteed hen fruit and it is likely that prices will go as high as 50 cents before very long. The grocers in San Francisco and the Sound cities are already charging 40 cents a dozen.

The School of Domestic Science gave its first lesson to 15 pupils last Saturday. The pupils were led through the mysteries of building a fire, making coffee, etc., and an expression of pleasure was seen on their faces as they were shown the various details. Many prominent grocery and market men have expressed themselves in favor of this school.

H. W. McKeown, a sawmill employee residing at Troutdale, is lying at St. Vincent's hospital with a fractured leg and a badly wrenched back. It seems that as a large log was being started for the inclined runway of the mill, it slid suddenly, threw McKeown to the ground and rolled clear over him. How the man escaped with his life is a mystery.

A small boy dragging a big dead rat by a 12-foot string caused some consternation yesterday to the feminine passers-by on Morrison street, near Seventh. The boy walked along merrily whistling "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and arranged the string so that it was not readily seen. When the rat was brought to the notice of a woman passer-by there was a shriek, a jump, a gathering of skirts and an expression about "that naughty boy."

Another blow at the coal trust will be dealt within a few days by the Western Clay Manufacturing Company, which will begin to burn fuel oil under two of their furnaces. An immense storage tank has been constructed which is so completely impregnable that there seems to be no possible way in which the 800 barrels of saw petroleum which will be contained in the tank, can catch fire. The tank is built entirely of concrete and iron, its walls are two feet thick and the whole thing is buried in the ground four feet below the surface.

CHURCH IS DEDICATED

Mizpah Presbyterian Congregation
Rejoices.

NOT ONE DOLLAR OF DEBT

Building Is Completed After Two Year's Labor.

After two years of self-sacrificing work the members of the Mizpah Presbyterian church at Powell and East Thirteenth streets, were rewarded yesterday when their building was formally consecrated to the service of God. The building is 30x50 and has a seating capacity of about 700. Its cost was slightly in excess of $6000 and this sum has been entirely paid up. The church stands without one dollar of debt and on this unusual showing the congregation is to be congratulated, especially as they contributed over half of this amount in cash themselves, the balance being provided by the Church Extension Societies.

A large assemblage was present at the dedicatory services yesterday in the church, which was artistically decorated for the occasion. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Jerome McGlade, and among other ministers on the platform were the Rev. C. E. Chino, E. P. Hill, W. S. Gilbert, J. Day, H. McCallum and W. T. Wardle. The services were continuous throughout the day.

PASTOR'S SERMON.
Mr. McGlade's subject was "The Home of God." He said:

"God dwells in those homes built for and dedicated to His worship. In the Jewish temple God's presence was everywhere, and in this material age it is well to remember that though God is everywhere, He dwells in a more real way in His churches. Not every place is holy, nor does every bush burn with fire. God's house is particularly a sacred place. Reverence is one sin of the age. Let us teach our children that holiness becometh God's house forever. Art has her mission in the building of a church and we must not think that any place will go for God."

The building committee of the church is: Rev. Jerome McGlade, chairman; Penumbra Kelly, S. P. Mackey, J. E. Martin, Edward Poppleton, Robert Kirkham, L. B. Brooks, F. A. Blank, H. J. Wilson.

FOR PAGAN LANDS

Japanese Educationalists Spraks of Growth of Christianity.

Addresses delivered at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon by R. U. Sasamori, dean of the Methodist college at Nagasaki, Japan, and C. V. Hibberd, a student interpreter, held the close attention of a large audience, which included many of the local Japanese colony. A solo was rendered by Miss Jean Shupp, musical director of the Grace Methodist church, in her usual faultless style.

Dr. Sasamori dwelt on the long course of study which the Japanese rising generation is obliged to complete before being graduated from the public schools of learning.

"Leaving the high school at the age of 12," said the speaker, "the Japanese student enters the gymnasium, an institution on the German plan which is not paralleled exactly in America. At 20 the student enters college and after a three years' course therein he finishes his education by two years of study in the university. He thus attains the age of 22 before finally graduating."

The percentage of Christians in Japan was very small, said the doctor, being only about one-tenth of 1 per cent, but the religion is making steady progress and numbers among its converts some of the most prominent men in Japan.

The need of a Y. M. C. A. building in Nagasaki was then referred to by General Secretary H. W. Stone and Keno Hutchinson, who stated that the Portland association had agreed to raise $200 toward this end. A handsome collection was taken up.

WORK AT SINGAPORE.

Rev. W. G. Shellabear, of Singapore, who has for many years worked in the missionary fields of the Straits Settlements, addressed a crowded house at the Taylor Street Methodist church last evening. The occasion was the finale to the tenth annual session of the Columbia branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and Mr. Shellabear spoke largely of the many women missionaries in the Orient.

"The first woman missionary in Singapore," said the reverend orator, "was Miss Blackmore. She founded the girls' school, which is now the largest one in Singapore, and of which Miss Lilly, a recent visitor to Portland, has been principal for five years. The work of the missionary society has not been confined to Singapore, but we have a fine school in the neighboring city of Penang, which the government, improved by our facilities, has turned over to us."

BACKSLIDING CONDEMNED.

If any backslider attended the meetings of the Salvation Army, presided over by Colonel George French yesterday, the chances are that he feels either penitent or insulted. The Salvationist spoke plainly of those sinners who after a temporary sojourn in the camp of righteousness, forsake the narrow path and turn once more to the broad road that leads to destruction. Biblical quotations in multitudinous array were hurled at the trembling backslider.

"Listen to the words of Holy Writ," thundered the revivalist. "Nevertheless I have something against thee because thou hast left thy first love." The church of Ephesus had labored and not fainted, but the Lord had something against them. They had backslidden in heart."

Two meetings will be held tonight at the Barracks: The officers' demonstration, followed by a half night of prayer, commencing at 10:30. Coffee and doughnuts will be served between the services.

WOODMEN TO OREGON CITY

Portland Log Rollers Will Go on a Visit Tomorrow Night.

A monster excursion to Oregon City is scheduled for tomorrow night by the Portland Woodmen of the World camps. The excursion is in the form of a neighborhood visit to the Oregon City boys and a whopping good time is predicted. The members of the Portland camps will meet at First and Alder streets tomorrow evening and will leave at 8:30 o'clock. William Reid, Council Commander of Portland Union Degree Camp and director general of the coming log-rolling, will have charge of the excursion.

The Woodmen of the World are very strong in Portland, as well as in Oregon City, and it was thought by some of the leading members that an expression of neighborhood esteem on Portland's part would not be amiss at this season of the year. It is expected that very few members will miss the pleasure of going on this trip, as they can become better acquainted with each other and with the Oregon City boys. There are ten camps in Portland, who have a total membership of about 2000, so that there is no doubt but that Oregon City will be overrun with Portland people tomorrow night. The Portland camps are as follows: Webster, Multnomah, Portland, Aluma, Prospect, George Washington, Prosperity, Sunnyside, Montaville and Mount Faber.

NOW A CONDUCTOR

Rev. G. A. Taggart Leaves Pulpit
for Street Car.

The members of the Mississippi-Avenue Congregational Church were disagreeably surprised when their pastor, Rev. George A. Taggart, resigned his charge in the church, but they were even more surprised when the announcement came that he had selected the position as a conductor on the Mount Tabor branch of the City & Suburban Company for his life's work.

Rev. Taggart's resignation was accepted with many regrets by his former congregation and they unanimously vote him success in his new field of operations. Mr. Taggart says that he left the pulpit for the purpose of being more out of doors on account of the condition of his health. In his new occupation he says that he will have an opportunity to study the world much better. As a car conductor he will meet all classes of people and he says that if he should again cure to enter the pulpit that he will be well supplied with material for sermons.

SALOON LICENSE REFUSED.

The old saloon location at 15 Fifth street is under the watchful eye of the license committee. When it was under the proprietorship of Messrs. Lane & Cavanaugh it became the rendezvous for criminals and disreputable people and the license was revoked by the authorities. Soon after the place was purchased by William Voltz and after expending considerable money in refitting it he applied for a license. In the meantime the license committee became convinced that Voltz was acting for the former proprietors and the committee refused to grant him a license. Just now Voltz is wondering where he is to get his money back, and what will be done with the place in the future time only can tell.
