

LOCKED OUTSIDE

"All Union Miners Are Barred."

MINERS SENT AWAY

That Was True at Scranton, But Thousands Are Taken Elsewhere.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Locked gates and a sign which reads, "No union men wanted," greeted 250 strikers who applied for work at the People's Coal Company colliery this morning. These men had formerly been employed there and the feeling is very bitter toward Manager Crawford, who is the author of the statement. Some of these miners' dinner pails were filled with the last morsels of food to be found in their homes and they have wives and little ones, who will go supperless to bed tonight unless aid is given them from another source.

REFUSED ADMISSION.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Oct. 23.—When the striking miners reported for work in the Panther Creek Valley this morning they were met by armed deputies who warned them away from the works. When the men asked why this course was being pursued they were told by the operators that the latter did not propose to let Mitchell dictate when they should open their mines. They anticipated, they said, petty strikes and troubles later on and did not intend to recognize that Mitchell had power over them. "When we are ready to open our mines men will be hired, and not until then," is the statement they make.

PLENTY OF WORK.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 23.—One hundred and fifteen thousand men reported for work this morning, and much the larger percentage received immediate employment. Some of the managers took only such men as could be used today, as many of the shafts are not yet ready for the resumption of active mining. The loss occasioned by the cessation of labor has been great and in many places a full week will be required to repair damages.

PREPARATION WORK.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 23.—The day before the official resumption of work in the coal fields was filled to the brim with preparation for the bringing up of coal. Despite the fact that thousands of men reported for work under the special dispensation granted to those who were needed to prepare the mines and coal roads for active mining, some of the mines at an early hour this morning were still unfit to be worked. In these only those who could be used to advantage were sent, but places were found for many more in order that the starving might be fed and those who were in actual need cared for. Those in charge of the work in many sections are showing their generosity along this line and it is being warmly appreciated by the strikers.

CHICAGO TAKES HAND.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Within a few hours every member of the International Association of Stationery Engineers and Firemen will have been ordered by National Executive Committee to handle a single pound of anthracite coal until every member of the organization affected by the strike in the anthracite region is reinstated in his former position on the same basis with other members of the recent striking force. Unless this matter is adjusted at once it will seriously cripple all manufacturing and gas plants.

FIRST ACCIDENT.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Oct. 23.—During the work of reopening the shaft of the Alaska this morning an explosion of gas occurred and seriously injured Robert Mochen and Aaron Dreher. The men were blown out of the tunnel. Five others are still imprisoned behind the debris.

GENERAL WORK.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—With the exception of the People's Colliery incident there was a general resumption of work here today.

TWO-THIRDS OPENED.

SHAMOKIN, Oct. 23.—Two-thirds of the collieries of this district were opened this morning. But few engineers or firemen were taken on again.

DELAY AT HAZELTON.

HAZELTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Only a few collieries here have resumed. The operators demanded agreements not to interfere with non-union men and to abide by the arbitration decision. This was refused. There is great dissatisfaction. There will be many mass meetings tonight.

USE CARBONADO

Coal From Washington Goes to San Francisco.

(Journal Special Service.)
TACOMA, Oct. 22.—The Southern Pacific has ordered the re-opening of the Carbonado coal mines 20 miles from Tacoma. Work will be commenced in November. Twenty five thousand tons of locomotive coal will be shipped monthly to San Francisco. It is understood oil is not proving satisfactory on the passenger locomotives, which will again use coal. Prior to ten months ago, the railroad had used Carbonado coal for 22 years.

STORY DENIED HERE.

A prominent local official of the Southern Pacific states that there is nothing in the above dispatch, as the oil burning engines have proven entirely satisfactory, and are much better than the coal engines. "The Oregon division will substitute oil engines for the coal ones within the next two months," said Division Superintendent Fields.

SWAYNE IS SAFE

Mullah Did Not Molest Retreat.

PEACE IS NOT YET

Troops From India Are Still Needed to Quell the Somaliland Revolt.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The Foreign Office today received a dispatch from General Manning, who was sent to relieve Swayne. The communication was dated Berbera, Somaliland, and says that Swayne has reached Boletole in safety. His force was not attacked during the retreat. In his present quarters he is well protected and the situation is satisfactory. The dispatch, however, does not say to cancel the order to send Punjail troops from India to aid in quelling the mutiny.

NEED STRONG FORCE.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—It is believed here that a whole brigade of troops will be required to put the mad Mullah and his followers out of the way of harm doing.

REVOLT IS OVER.

San Domingan Rebels Have Been Routed.

SAN DOMINGO, Oct. 22.—The revolution was ended here today by the defeat of the insurgent army after a battle of several hours' duration, with heavy losses on each side. General Navarro, leader of the revolutionary forces, has been captured and is now a prisoner in the hands of the Government forces. This, it is believed, clears the entire island of rebels, and a peace has been or will be restored within a short time. The defeat was a crushing one and there is small possibility of the rebels recovering.

SPAIN REPRESENTED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—At the temporary White House this morning President Roosevelt received the new Spanish Minister, Don Emilio de Oleda. Secretary Hay introduced the officials and the usual speeches were exchanged.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Five years in prison is the sentence that must be served out by Lawrence Clerk, who was this morning found guilty of defrauding the Carnegie Steel Company of $25,000.

CLOUGH RECALLED.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 23.—Vice-President Clough of the Northern Securities company was recalled to the witness stand in the merger suit today and gave routine evidence.

ENEMIES OF STATE

Opponents of Irrigation so Described.

A COLOSSAL MATTER

Congressman Says Oregon Must Reclaim Her Deserts Before Becoming Great.

"There are approximately 5,000,000 acres of arid land in Oregon, worth, say, 50 cents an acre, or a total of $2,500,000. If this land were irrigated, it would be worth at least $20 an acre, or a total of $100,000,000. The question of irrigation is by far the most important question in Oregon today. It is a matter, an issue which is greater than any man, greater than any party. It is a movement that can add tens of millions of dollars to the assessable property values of this state, and I tell you that Greater Portland will follow in the wake of a development of the country tributary to it, and will come in no other way."

This uncompromising declaration was made to a Journal representative by Congressman J. H. Williamson this morning. Mr. Williamson is in the city partly on business connected with the State Irrigation Association, before a meeting of which he is to deliver an address October 18. "There are many people," said Mr. Williamson, "who have not realized the magnitude of this subject, and there are, moreover, many powerful interests which are more or less openly arrayed against it. To convey my meaning more clearly: Many private irrigation companies have applied to the Interior Department to take up arid land under the Carey law. These companies obtain the land at a nominal price, and propose, after bringing water on it, to sell it to settlers at a figure which will return an enormous profit, but which will return an enormous profit, nevertheless. These corporations are naturally opposed to the Government undertaking the work of reclaiming the arid lands for the benefit of the Nation, toward which the Irrigation Association will lend all its energies."

NO VESTED RIGHTS.

"Under the Carey law, applications have been filed for some 500,000 acres of Oregon lands. The Government has so far granted a single one of these applications, so there are no vested rights which can be interfered with, many requests may never be granted, but the association will proceed to investigate everything pertaining to irrigation in Oregon and its status under the Carey law, with a view of finding out just where we are on the whole subject. "There should be no opposition to this irrigation movement. There can be no successful opposition, and it comes with good grace for any man to attempt to hinder it when it is considered that upon the principles of irrigation depends very largely the future development of this state."

ONE PLAIN EXAMPLE.

"Near my home I know a man who bought 20 acres of land for $25. It was arid then, and worthless; today it produces 2500 worth of alfalfa annually. Multiply it by the millions of acres in Eastern Oregon which can be irrigated and brought under irrigation and you have what can be made out of the state. Water is the key to wealth, the government is willing to bring that water, and a man who for private gain will stand in the way of a movement of this colossal importance is an enemy of the state and nothing else. "What this state and city must especially guard against is the danger of becoming a community of middlemen as opposed to producers. We cannot become a great manufacturing state or jobbing center unless we are first surrounded by the primal productive industries. Irrigation will bring settlers for the south and east of Oregon. The settlers will bring agriculture, stock raising and the whole thing, and will improve the country so that only agricultural communities possess."

UNFOUNDED STORY.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—It is announced here today that the story which gained circulation yesterday that the engagement of Miss Alice Roosevelt was soon to be announced is wholly without foundation.

GIRL IS MISSING

Many People Think She Was Murdered.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE

May Have Been Lured to Her Doom in the Thick Woods by a Human Fiend.

Viola Coltena has mysteriously disappeared. Tuesday morning she left her home at Mansfield for the South Mount Tabor School and never returned. The road leads along the edge of the thick woods and a several paths lead through the timber, making short cuts. The last cut-off is through a flat which is partially cleared a short distance from the school house. August and Fred Biedenstien, two school boys of Tabasco, on their way to the Catholic School at Montavilla, noticed the girl walking through this wood to the school at 8:40 a. m. Jake Fontella, another boy, saw the girl pass his home a few moments before the Biedenstien boys came along. The girl did not show up at school that day, although when last seen she was within a block of the building, going in that direction. A rumor is current that a couple of boys who reside at Montavilla claim that they saw the girl in a side road going from the school, shortly after 9 o'clock. Another story is that a boy named Percy Snyder, claims to have seen the girl at 4:30 in the afternoon on the way from school.

STORY AT HER HOME.

When the home was visited this morning, it was found that Victor Coltena, the father, was out searching for the girl and the mother was in Portland to enlist the services of some friends in the search. An elder sister gave out the information that Viola had left for school Tuesday morning, she was in the best of spirits and had no trouble of any kind. The father had been employed in a brick yard all season. There had been no previous marriage of either of the parents, which would give grounds for abduction of the child. When she left home she was clothed in a blue dress which reached to the knees, wore a red Tam O'Shanter cap, carried an open wicker lunch basket, and had a small umbrella with a blue handle. The girl was described as follows: Age, 13; weight, 85 pounds; height, four feet eight inches; eyes dark; heavy black hair tied in a braid behind and combed up in a pompadour in front; walked erect.

THE RIGID SEARCH.

Principal Laws of the Mount Tabor School, stated that the girl had not been at the school this week. That she came there Monday, but had some difficulty in opening the door and went back home. This she gave as her excuse for not attending. A peculiar thing is that the manner of entering the building is through the basement, which she had formerly done. Tuesday she did not appear at the school. Late that evening her parents made inquiries about her. That night the woods in the locality were searched by a crowd of people of the neighborhood. Yesterday Mr. Laws took 20 of his pupils and systematically beat several sections of the woods through which she had passed. Not the slightest sign was discovered. Further search will be made today after school. Mr. Laws stated that there are several deep wells in the locality, which should be searched.

AT THE CATHOLIC SCHOOL.

Inquiry was made at the Catholic School, where the girl had attended up to several weeks ago. The Sister there was greatly grieved and could throw no light on the matter. She stated that the girl was very retiring and obedient.

OSCAR BLAMED

LONDON, Oct. 23.—There is bitter complaint here over the decision of King Oscar, of Sweden and Norway, placing the blame of the Samoan affair on the United States and exonerating Germany. Ample evidence is afforded that blood is thick on the hands of the king in the morning papers. However, it is believed that the decision of the King of Sweden must have been prompted by some strong motive and that a great deal more light will be thrown upon the matter later, when the full facts and complete text of the decision are made known.

HARMONY ASSURED

Sam White on Democratic Success.

GEER IS ENTITLED

To Support by Republicans as 'People's Choice for Senator.'

Captain Sam White, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, who led the fight for the election of George E. Chamberlain as Governor, has been at the Portland Hotel for a couple of days, having been in Salem, appearing before the Supreme Court in some appeal cases. Mr. White turned aside from legal matters long enough to talk politics to The Journal. He talked in his usual straight-from-the-shoulder style, saying: "Pacific Coast Democrats are favorable to commercial expansion. And, being of that mind, we believe that there must be an alternative of the tariff conditions so that ships that carry our products to other countries need not come to our shores in ballast, on account of practically prohibitive tariff export duties. And, while Democracy insists upon tariff revision, it does not insist upon drastic measures, but rather sensible, conservative, rational changes, consistent with the same methods that a business man would adopt with his own affairs. DEMOCRATS COMING TOGETHER. "There are good evidences that the Democrats of the nation are getting together, and will be well united by the time the next presidential election occurs. This harmony will be enhanced if we cease quarrelling over Mr. Bryan and Mr. Cleveland, and remember that the party is larger than any one candidate or set of candidates. We must first determine the manner in which we are to go before the country, and then select the candidates. Our platform first, and then candidates, that is the correct program for the Democracy. And chances for Democratic success are becoming more brilliant every day."

SOME STATE POLITICS.

Mr. White is disposed to nod the Republicans to account as to their sincerity in passing the Mays law, providing for the nomination of candidates for the United States Senate to be voted for by popular election. He said: "The Mays law was passed by a Republican Legislature; it was passed professedly for the purpose of proving the devotion of that party to the principle of electing Senators by popular vote. Having passed such a law, Mr. Geer took advantage of its provisions, invited all other candidates for the United States Senate to contest with him at the polls, and we see the result. He won by an immense vote, and he is entitled to election in so far as Republicans are concerned. Of course, Democrats will vote for C. E. S. Wood, their nominee, but Republicans cannot get away from the moral obligation to support the man who received the endorsement of their voters at the polls. It is apparent they are preparing to elect some other man than the one whom the Republican voters indicated as their most desirable candidate. I submit that this is reprehensible and should be rebuked by the people of the state. It is simply a gross violation of the will of the people plainly expressed."

DEMOCRACY CONSERVATIVE.

"The Democracy, I contend, is the real conservative party of the nation. It stands for preservation of principles that were uttered as fundamental to our Government and for the Constitution, and against visionary changes and emancipation. It is the party that just now appeals to business men as safe and worthy of trust. Its prospects are brightening day by day, and there will be good chances for success when the next national election occurs. "Both from the national and state point of view, I am pleased with the outlook. Oregon Republicans are knitting each other, and are endeavoring to thwart the will of the people as to their Senatorial election. Nationally we are getting together. So that, all in all, there is every reason to believe that the Democracy will emerge as the victor in the coming year."

CHOOSE ANCHORAGE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—According to announcement of plans which has been made here the collars Brutus and Lebanon will leave Hampton Roads on the 1st of the coming month to meet the Atlantic squadron off the Island of Cuba. They will be under escort of the cruiser Olympia, Admiral Dewey's famous flagship. With this fleet will go officers charged with locating a safe anchorage for the large squadron, which is soon to assemble there for the winter maneuvers. These latter will be similar to those undertaken off the north coast earlier in the year.

MOB DISPERSED.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Martial law has been declared in Dunkirk and there are serious disturbances. A number of strikers have been killed and wounded. Following an order to disperse, which was not obeyed, the cavalry charged the mob. The latter was entrenched behind a barricade, but was driven away. The strikers fired the ways by means of barrels of oil and offered those who operated to extinguish the flames as much resistance as possible.

AUSTRIANS EXCITED.

VIENNA, Oct. 23.—Trouble came near being fistic in its nature in the Austrian Reichstag yesterday. Germans got mad because of an incendiary address and one of their party rose and shouted, "You are blackguards!" at the other side of the chamber. ODELL AND HILL— BORROW CURRENT

Portland Power From White River.

Consolidation of Companies Makes Pool of Immense Electrical Output.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—That the Odell-Hill political feud is a bitter one was given ample proof last night when Governor Odell spoke at length before a large audience at Syracuse. In the most scathing terms Hill was referred to and denounced. At Tammany Hall the other side of the question was aired in an address by Hill. He charged Odell and his administration with waging a fight upon the charitable institutions of the state for both political and mercenary motives.

HANNA TALKS.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 23.—Hanna, Foraker and Beveridge spoke in the Music Hall last evening, and the former rode rough shod over Tom Johnson, of Cleveland. He alleged that Johnson's equal taxation scheme meant for the other man to pay the taxes and the home-rule proposition was originated for the purpose of placing him, Johnson, on a pedestal for worship. The Senator was both sarcastic and humorous.

HANNA IN INDIANA.

EVANSVILLE, Oct. 23.—The Indiana tour of Senator Mark Hanna began here this morning. From a special train at Tiffin he addressed 5,000 people, urging the election of Republican Congressmen.

TO KILL SULTAN

Attempt on Royal Life Is Foiled.

GUARDS TOOK HAND

Would-Be Assassin Was Disguised as an Inmate of the Turkish Palace.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 23.—Great excitement was caused here this morning when a Bulgarian, disguised as one of the officials of the Turkish Palace, attempted the assassination of the Sultan. The man was overpowered by the guards before he could inflict damage upon the royal person. He is believed to have been sent from an organized band. Rumors of a threatened attempt on the Sultan's life have been circulated here for some time and the guards about the Palace have been doubled for the last week. STILL A SURPRISE. However much an attack may have been expected, the nature in which the one today made its appearance was a surprise. It was not from a Bulgarian, but from a Turk, that danger was feared. It is possible, however, that the man may have been sent by a Turkish society.

BORROW CURRENT

Portland Power From White River.

Consolidation of Companies Makes Pool of Immense Electrical Output.

TACOMA, Oct. 23.—The White River Power Company, organized by the West-Inghouse Company, has been merged with the Snoqualmie Falls Power Company, forming a new corporation with $2,000,000 capital. A million and a half is to be expended in developing 12,000 horse power from White River and Lake Tapps, near Tacoma. This plant will supply Tacoma and Portland, while the Snoqualmie power will be utilized for the northern part of this state. Transmission into Oregon will be started immediately.

AN OLD SCHEME.

The White River Power Company controls the water power rights on the White River, together with Lake Tapps and extensive holdings of real estate necessary for the enterprise. The White River power has never been developed, but now that it has been taken up, the same is assured immediately. White River has its origin in the five glaciers upon the north and west sides of Mount Rainier and has the largest summer flow of any of the rivers tributary to Puget Sound. The White River and Lake Tapps development and the Snoqualmie tract together comprise in their possibilities about four-fifths of the total water power, commercially available in the Northwest, and the policy of the Snoqualmie Falls and White River Power Company will be aggressive in promoting large and small industries of every description in the cities to which it extends its transmission lines. The company will be able to supply all the demands for power in the Northwest for the next 20 years.
