Ten carloads of furniture received | On this floor is one of the largest asin one week. This is the record made by Henry Jennings & Sons, of First and Yamhill streets

A reporter for The Journal saw several loads of the furniture as it was unloaded yesterday. Mr. Jennings inwited an inspection of his large store and showed the reporter through the different departments and talked entertainingly of his stock. He said: "Our ambition is to always have the best in our line. Our constant endeavor is toward betterment; to improve the quality, then let the goods speak for themselves. They soon tell the sort of a store they come from. Our offerings, while always low in price, are never cheap. This big consignment of furniture, part of which you saw unloaded, is a comprehensive assortment of medium and high class goods. Every piece is thoroughly well-made and perfectly finished and the display presents the choicest and most tasteful designs direct from the most prominent makers of reliable cabinet work."

"On what do you base the popularity of your house, Mr. Jennings?" asked the reporter.

"Our dealings have placed us far in advance of other dealers, but the best methods on earth would be useless if the goods carried were not up to the standard. The beauty and strength of every article sold by us has added many marks of merit to our reputation for value giving. The most attractive feature is the low price at which anyone can purchase what is needed in the house-furnishing line. That's the secret of our success in a nut shell."

Sec. Shaw Withdraws the Special Bond.

Momentary Cramped Condition Has Been Relieved and the Situation is Altered.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.-That the money market is in a satisfactory condition was declared by Secretary of the Treasury Shaw this morning, when he gave out the announcement that he would accept no more state or municipal bonds as security for government deposits. He regards the monetary emergency that had to be met as past, and thinks it no longer necessary to accept any other than government bonds. This minouncement was made after a consultation with Assistant Socretary Ailes.

Secretary Shaw some time ago permitted the temporary acceptance of state and municipal bonds as security for government deposits. This was for the purpose of relieving the stringent situation in Wall street. Recent shipments of gold and other changes in the money markets have altered conditions.

"There are several things to be considered. First, will they wear well? Second, are they comfortable? Third, are they handsome? We combine all these regulaites in our couches. They are upholstered on the finest steel springs over a canvass cover, the stuffing is moss or hair, or a combination of both, and the coverings are the best products of the factories of this country and Europe. Our guarantee goes with every one."

Next was noticed the library or book cases and on inquiry it was found that a carload of combination library cases consisting of about 30 patterns, in oak, imitation mahogany and solid mahogany had arrived within the week. and were offered at better than the usual at very reasonable prices. They are handsome cases, with plenty of book room and desk in oak. There is one of crotched mahogany and of heavy columns, which is indeed handsome.

The buyers have lost all their oldtime nerve and now are willing to admit that advances in prices are daily expected. At present the choicest hops are being eagerly sought after by dealers who are willing to pay 2012 or perhaps 27 cents a pound for the privilege of buying the entire yield.

The demand has increased so rapidly that growers who were waiting for quotations to go up to 20 cents are now for rises above 30 cents. English hop men are in the market and are eagerly gobbling up this year's sup-ply at fancy figures. Prices in New York are touching the high places-32 to 36 cents a pound being frequently offered. Many sales are reported throughout the states, and hops that were rejected at any price are now selling fast at 25 cents a pound.

It is said by prominent hop men that only about one-fourth of this year's crop was contracted for. The recent decision of a Salem judge that hop contracts were only good as mortgages has thrown dealers in an uproar, and it is not likely that many more contracts will be made.

the railway shares, on all recessions. This feeling is particularly strong among people who get their inspiration from Western merchants and Western railroad men. A member of Armour & is quoted as saying that a hard frost would be followed by a heavy move-ment of corn, and that it would start toward the end of this month or early in December, and that exports of this ce real in 1903 will exceed 300,000 bushels. That the railroads will have more traffic when the new corn begins to move than they can handle is the opinion of the majority of observers in close touch with managers of larger systems. There is no question that this outlook is influenc ing very substantial buying of stock around current prices, notably in Union Pacific, S. P., Mo. Pac., B. & O. and the Eries.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.-The Johrnal of Commerce says: "The foreign exchange market got no further toward the gold export point yesterday, the local money market ruled quiet and such returns of railroad earnings as were made public were quite as favorable as those cently submitted. The outlook for the current week's bank statement, it is true, was decidedly less favorable than early in the week, since the gain by the banks from the Sub-treasury of about $1,500.000 has been extinguished, and for the bank statement week to date banks have made small loss to that institution. At the same time the banks are now carrying so liberal a surplus reserve that but little interest was manifested in the coming exhibit."
