BRANDS STORY A MALICIOUS LIE

G. Y. Harry Scores the Evening Edition

Of the Newspaper Trust in Portland--Has No Political Ambitions.

Concerning the story published in a local paper Wednesday evening to the effect that G. Y. Harry, president of the State Federation of Labor, is ambitious to form a new political party to be known as the labor party, on the same lines as the one in existence in California, with himself as leader and political boss, Mr. Harry speaks in scathing terms. He denounces it as a plain and unvarnished perversion from beginning to end, and emanating from a traitor to unionism. He says:

"I was very much surprised upon reading the article last night, as I had no idea that our enemies had reached such straits as to attempt in an underhanded way to discredit the labor movement in our city and state. It is the old tactics, however, with which the most of us are familiar, to undermine and destroy the usefulness of those who are trying to promote the labor movement by endeavoring to create internal dissensions.

"THERE IS NO FRICTION. "The facts are that at no time in the history of the labor movement in the State of Oregon have we had less friction than at present. We are stronger numerically and present a more solid front than ever before for the reason that we have not allowed any semblance of politics to enter into our movement. There is no man in the movement who more strongly opposes small politics, although every boot that arrived from Seattle brought a big cargo. At Valdes and all through the Copper River country development is going on at a tremendous pace. Specimens of gold that I have seen bespeak the wonderful richness of the country.

"RETURNING to the subject of Nome," said Mr. Fenton, "I believe the Solomon Creek district will show startling richness next season. As I said before, Lane will establish a stamp mill there, and I understand that several influential men of Seattle, James Hoge for one, will invade the country. Seattle is all puffed up with expectancy over next year's trade.

"PORTLAND SHOULD HUSTLE. "It will be the great gold field before, and I cannot see why Portland cannot jump in and take at least half. Lower prices can be obtained in Portland than in Seattle, for the reason that this city is so much greater a jobbing town than Seattle. Those people ask exorbitant prices for everything. Why a shipment of produce from one of those Western avenue concerns of Seattle bring prices that are double what they should be.

"I cannot talk too strongly on what I believe to be the great gold field of Alaska, and Alaska's possibilities should be Portland's gain as well as Seattle's."

THE COLUMBIA SAILS TONIGHT

Elder Will Reach Portland Late This Afternoon. The steamer Columbia will sail for San Francisco tonight. The last of her cargo was completed this afternoon. She will be loaded to the gunwale, taking over 500 tons, which consist of grain, paper and potatoes mostly. The Elder arrived at Astoria at 8 o'clock this morning on the return trip. She will reach here this afternoon before the Columbia sails. The Elder has a full cargo of general merchandise. The Chinese steamer Indravelli is still at the O. R. & N. dock, discharging cargo under difficulties, the longest forework being only between showers. The dock is crowded with Oriental goods, but large quantities of them are being loaded on cars for shipment to various Eastern cities. The Indravelli was due to sail today, according to her schedule, but it is now believed that she will not get away before Tuesday. She has a full cargo awaiting her.

Invitations have been received by local railroad and business men to attend the International Law Book Exposition to be held in Chicago November 29 to December 9, 1902. The invitations are signed by J. A. Spaulding, president of the association, who is former railroad man having been connected with the Wagner Sleeping Car Company prior to its absorption by the Pullman Company.

"That in such a rough game outsiders should know better than to intrude upon the field," he said, puzzled. "What do you mean?" he asked. "Why," she answered, "did you just say that some inquisitive person named A. Goal was twice kicked from the field?" And for the life of him he couldn't summon up the necessary courage to explain her misapprehension.

Announcement--owing to the rapid increase in business Miss Fitzgerald has been forced to locate her present quarters in the Lewis building and remove to more commodious and convenient location, 348 Washington street, where she will be better enabled to handle the business of the "Tollie" and "Fragrances." Her new quarters will be the most handsome fitted-up parlors on the Pacific coast, where ladies and gentlemen will receive facial, hair and scalp treatment by artists of the highest order. This will be the purpose of the new and grand Madame Merrill and Dandruff. We positively guarantee that Dandruff will cure the worst case of dandruff in seven days. If it does not do as we say, we will cheerfully refund the money. N. B.--Miss Fitzgerald will occupy her present quarters in the Lewis Building until about December 1st.

WANTS SINGLE STATEHOOD.

VINITA, 17 Nov. 28--Among those interested in the statehood question in Oklahoma and Indian Territory much interest is manifested in the convention of the Five Civilized Tribes in session today at Eufaula. The Five Civilized Tribes are strenuously opposed to the Indian Territory being absorbed by Oklahoma or attached to any other territory. The purpose of the convention is to develop plans for the ultimate admission of the Indian Territory as a state by itself.

MEETING POSTPONED.

The committee on streets and sewers scheduled to meet at 10 o'clock this morning postponed the session until Monday at 10 a. m.

MELLEN SLOW IN ANSWERING

Shows That He Does Not Care for Portland.

Has Been in St. Paul for Several Days Yet Does Not Heed the Manufacturers' Letter

Although President Mellen of the Northern Pacific, has returned to St. Paul and has been there for several days, he has as yet sent no answer to the Manufacturers' Association regarding its query, whether he will accept the Portland Convention. This he cannot very well do, as the Portland merchants and manufacturers will not stand for it. The Manufacturers' Association is determined to probe the matter to the bottom, and if no answer is received by Monday another letter will be sent him.

The Portland merchants are resolved not to be done by Mr. Mellen or any other man, and wish to know the truth. What answer will Mr. Mellen give? Will he acknowledge the statement as his, which he must do, or will he apologize? These are other questions which are tickling the senses of the curious.

The other commercial organizations are postponing action until an answer is received by the Manufacturers' Association. This is not the case with many citizens--they are convinced and are acting accordingly. Many carloads of freight have been sidetracked from the Northern Pacific, and many more will be taken from them when the answer is received.

$2000 FOR THE OREGON EXHIBIT

Lewis and Clark Fair Directors Appropriate That Amount.

A special meeting of the Lewis and Clark Board of Directors is being held this afternoon at the office of the secretary, 246 Washington street. It was unanimously decided to appropriate $2,000 for the establishment of an Oregon exhibit at the Japanese National Exposition. A general discussion of the advantages to be derived from this exhibit was then indulged in.

Articles for display at the exposition are rather slow in coming, and Colonel Dorsch wishes to impress on the minds of those intending to take advantage of this opportunity of getting the Japanese trade that there is not much time to lose. The exposition will open March 1, and close July 31. As it takes over half a month for a steamer to reach Japan from Portland, and that time is consumed in packing and arranging the exhibit, it will be seen that articles which are to be exhibited must be in a very short time, as Colonel Dorsch expects to leave either the middle or the latter part of December.

COURT HOUSE NOTES.

In Judge Frazer's Court today B. P. Johnson is suing M. Nodine et al., to foreclose on a $250 note.

The drydock case will be resumed Thursday next before Judge George, on that day the counsel on each side will make their arguments. It may be two weeks before a decision is rendered in the case.

Before Judge George today, F. E. Beach is suing Lee Stamfer, a painter; C. H. Prescott, trustee, and F. E. King, contractor, to collect for materials used in painting four houses owned by Prescott. Lee Stamfer was under a contract to King. The action to recover is set against the three.

GRAND DOLL ASSEMBLY

TODAY and SATURDAY--All Little Girls and Big Girls, with Their Mothers, Cordially Invited

Here we have dollies from the home of Santa Claus' right-hand man, the man who lives in Germany, the Fatherland of dollies. From him come dollies with lovely curls that seem almost alive with their dimpled faces, sparkling eyes and rosy lips, just ready to speak. There never were so many dollies gotten together all at once in Portland, as you will find when you come to our store. We have taken every pains in getting this great assemblage of dolls together to select such a wonderful variety that every little girl may have just what pleases her most in size and looks. The prices cannot fail to please, either, for they are the lowest at which dolls so fine have ever been offered. These two days, today and tomorrow, have been set aside by us as Children's Day in Dollyland. Come in and see the little beauties while there is such a great variety, for such lovely ones will not be without homes long.

THE DOLLS ARE IN OUR MILLINERY DEPARTMENT, SECOND FLOOR.

None Too Soon to Think About Christmas

Many wise customers are selecting their goods for Christmas now. We advocate this plan, as better attention can be given to your wants now, before the rush, and you have better selections. Any articles selected now will be stored free of charge and delivered when best suited to your ideas.

We have many Odd Pieces of Furniture that would make acceptable Xmas Gifts. New Goods Constantly Arriving.

HYPNOTIZED HOTEL MEN

Commercial Traveler From Chicago Gives Impromptu Entertainment. W. C. Harrington, cashier at the Portland Hotel, munched a large Spanish onion last evening and placidly announced to a gathering of laughing spectators that it was a fine specimen of a Hood River apple. Mr. Harrington had been hypnotized.

Mr. Harrington, a traveling man from Chicago, gave an impromptu entertainment in the hotel parlors after dinner and displayed his thorough knowledge of arms and the art of hypnotism. The victims, subjects, Mr. Siffert emphatically termed them, were selected from among the spectators, and after being duly hypnotized their antics furnished amusement galore.

"Tell me what you think of this apple," said the hypnotist, as he handed Mr. Harrington an onion that was strong enough to walk alone. The cashier bit into it deeply.

"It's a good apple," said he, thoughtfully, and he took another bite before handing it back.

Mr. Siffert then extracted a turkey, six oranges and two of the hotel forks from the pockets of a crockery drummer, who had hitherto borne a good reputation, and Mr. Siffert, manager of the house, rang for the police.

"I never would have believed it," said the manager, "but we have certainly been losing a great deal of cutlery lately."

Back in the parlors Mr. Siffert was continuing his exposures of people who had always been considered honest. Van Orden, the chief clerk, was asked to choose a card from a pack, and within a few moments the conductor had discovered a whole deck of marked cards and a slingshot about the hotel man's person. Mr. Van Orden attempted to explain, but was hypnotized before he had a chance to say much.

Mr. Siffert's only complaint is that he cannot always bring his customers under the influence of his power.

BECOMING AMERICANIZED.
