THE OPENING OF ST. DAVID'S

Congregation Present at Initial Services.

St. David's Episcopal Church was dedicated yesterday morning before a large congregation, many of whom were wellknown workers in the Episcopal Churches of the city. The chancel was effectively decorated, and special music arranged by Prof. Eseman. In opening the services, the rector, Dr. Van Waters, spoke briefly of the people's cause for thankfulness in the completion of the longdelayed edifice. He then introduced Eishop Morris, who delivered the sermon of the morning. His text was taken from the first verse of the 57th Psalm: 'Are your minds set upon righteousness, O you congregation?" Rev. Mr. Powell assisted with the service. Holy communion was administered before the congregation was dismissed.

All Oregon Should Stand Behind Them.

If Convention Is Secured for Portland It Will Mean Much to the State.

Oregon expects every livestock man to

That is the watchword of those are grooming themselves to win the battle that is to be fought out at Kansas City; and if they do win, Portland will be the meeting place of the National Livestock Association in 1904. The plan being followed is to get every man who can blow a horn into line and have him exert his powers in favor of this

"If we win," said a prominent livestock man today, "we will have done more for Oregon's animal industry than all the other men who were ever gathered together in the cause.'

It is not the immediate benefit that uch a convention would be to Portland that these workers have in mind. They gon and of the Pacific Northwest generally and they know, also, that these resources are not properly appreciated in the East and Middle West. The bringing of men who are experts in stock raising into this country, where they could not help but see for themselves the true value of the Oregon ranges, would result in much lasting im-

CAN BE LANDED. Those prominent in the movement are certain, they say, that the next meeting can be secured, provided every one will put his shoulder to the wheel.

"These are the days when rooting counts," said a prominent worker to-ward the desired end. "If we can outroot those who are opposed to us, then we will win. A big advantage in our favor is the fact that we have the best country to talk about. Our range is not all taken and what land there is open is not sky-high in price. That is omething that will help us in our rooting and we want to root to win. larger the delegation, the better the showing and the more certain we are to

Stockmen from all over the state say Portland would reap more benefit than any other one section, although all Oregon would be affected. Portland, they argue, is the real center of all trade connections in the state and stock would have to come here to find a market. NEED PACKING HOUSES.

Large meat packing establishments could find splendid business in this city. Experts have long been of this opinion and one of the hopes of holding the National Livestock Association convention acre is that enterprising firms will see the opening here and take advantage of it in a manner that will be of material value to the city as well as to all those who grow meat for market. In an interview, Livestock Agent Millis, of the O. R. & N. Co., recently stated to The Journal that Portland was the natural center of the whole livestock trade of the Pacific Coast and that only effort was lacking to corral t. The market, although large, he said, was as yet undeveloped. Mr. Millis is one of the prime movers for the liveition here and will most in the fight that will have this victory as its object.

The delegation will leave Portland the ast of the present week.

SAYS SUMPTER IS PROSPEROUS

ing Ahead.

R. C. Pentland, the mining man, has returned from a visit to Sumpter, where he spent a few days. He reports that the big mining camp is on a more solid basis today than ever before. He says: "There is no better indication of Sumpter's prosperity than the fact that nearly all the storekeepers there own their own business buildings. Two or three years ago they leased nearly altogether, be-cause they did not have sufficient funds to do otherwise. When a business man can make enough money in a new town during such a short period as to enable him to invest heavily in improved real estate, the only conclusion that one can arrive at is that the town in which he is located must be a very prosperous one. This is the condition of affairs at Sumpter to my personal knowledge. It shows that the mineral wealth of the district has not been overestimated. That, of course, is the principal resource, and as it is being developed the town is keepng pace with lt.

ANOTHER INSTANCE. "Here is additional evidence that Sumpter is progressing. R. Schwab, a Portland printer, went there about three years ago, and purchased an improved business property for $4,500. At that time the camp was young and booming, and the price was considered rather a steep The former owner had been realising an income of 25 per cent, on the in vestment, but soon after Schwab secured it about 15 per cent, was all that he could He considered this a paying proposition, however, and stayed with it. A few days ago he sold the property for $6,000. This is cited as another in stance showing that the town is forging shead at a rapid pace."

ANOTHER BILL.

The following bill has been drafted by the Portland Federation of Women's Clubs, and will be presented to the Multnomah delegation for ensctment at the session of the Legislature:

"A bill for an act to provide conditions upon which my married person may incur obligations as surety, bondsman or security for any other person. "He it enacted by the people of the State of Oregon: "Section 1. That hereafter no agree ment or liability of any married person in any manner or form as surety, bondsman or security on any bond, undertak-ing, promissory note, draft, bill of exchange or any contract whatever, whe-ther written, printed or parol, shall be valid or effective in law to bind such married person or his or her property in any manner or form for the debt, default, liability, performance or non-performance of any act, payment, condition, coverant or thing by any other person or persons, unless the incurring and creation of such liability as surety, security or bondsman shall first be approved by the busband or wife of said proposed surety or bondsman, and such approval shall only be evidence by writing signed and subscribed by said husband or wife, and either acknowledged as deeds are required to be acknowledged or attested by two witnesses, and not otherwise, and said approval shall be either attached to or indersed upon the instrument creating the obligation or liability, before or at the time the same is executed. But such approval shall not operate to create any Hability against the person or sep-arate property of the husband or wife and ambitious to please.

SLAUGHTER TO CONSOLIDATE

Movement to Combine Commercial Bodies.

Plan by Which Portland Is to Be Represented by an Influential Association.

Considerable discussion is going on mong leading business men of Portland relative to the advisability of having one central commercial organization, which shall be composed of members of the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade and the Manufacturers' Association. The object, it is understood, will be to bring the local commercial organizations in closer bonds for the general good of the City of Portland.

The plan proposed is somewhat as follows: The various Portland commercial organizations are to appoint committees to meet and form a central body, such as in Boston, where about 35 commercial organisations are united into one central body, known as the Associated Board of Trade of Boston. As may readily be seen, such an organization would not be without its influence. While the various associations will remain individual bodies, it is the purpase of the proposed new one to merely be a central body, where all vital matters may be referred and acted upon.

The plan is somewhat on the style of the labor unions, that have a central body in the Federated Trades Assembly. matters of importance that seem too huge to be handled by an individual union referred to the Federated Trades, who have considerable influence, being composed of delegates from every union in Many prominent business men have expressed their desire toward assisting in the organization as suggested, but as yet nothing definite has been undertaken.

LOSING $2,000 YEARLY. In an interview with a Journal reporter this morning. County Clerk Fields stated that if it were possible for him to have room sufficient to group his forces properly that he could save the county at least $2,000 per year.

"I would so arrange the departments," said Clerk Fields, "that there would be perfect system, a saving of a large amount of time and consequently a sav-ing of money. There is a great loss of time in running to and from the vari-ous departments, all of which could be saved to the county under different circumstances as mentioned.

"County business is steadily increasing. From July 1 to January 1, 1901, there was 535 marriage licenses issued, and for the corresponding period of 1902 there were 626 issued. Probate cases filed in the same period compares as follows: 1991, 156 cases; 1902, 160 cases, only a variation of four. Cases filed in the State Circuit Court in the period named were 3,943 in 1961, and 5,641 in 1902."

WUN BUM LUNG.

His Initiation Into the Mysteries of Cake-Making.

Years ago Bret Harte wrote the oft-"For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the Heathen Chinee is peculiar." The experiences of the Smith family with their Chinese servant, as given in the columns of The Journal the other day, exemplifies the truth of this. It suggests to a Portland woman the propriety of her relating an experience she had with her first Chinese servant. Wun Burn Lung (this wasn't his real name, but it will do as well as any other), was engaged as cook. He was young, oily cake, of which the family were particularly fond. His mistress, after putting the flour in the pan and measuring out the proper amount of sugar, ordered Lung to bring her some eggs. He did so, and hovered about his instructress with eager air. The cake required six eggs.

Mrs. Kindlady commenced breaking eggs. Out of an even dozen exactly six were bad. She would break an egg, smell it, and it it was not good, she tossed it into the slop pall. Lung watched the process with bated breath. To him the breaking of ever other egg and casting it into the pall was an important part of the process. After that, every time Lung made this particular kind of the process he vever falled to throw away are cake he never falled to throw away ex-
