THE OLDEST TRIMES A clever fighter never neglects any legitimate chance to beat his antagonist. The talking that goes on between two men who are punching each other in the ring is nearly always done for effect. I don't suppose that any man in the business would know what you meant if you talked to him about hypnotism by suggestion, and yet that is just what any clever man will try to do to his opponent—say something that will make him think he is beaten.

PORTLAND TRUST COMPANY OF OREGON.
No. 108 Third Street.
Transacts a general trust, agency and banking business; collections made, savings deposits received, interest-bearing certificates of deposit issued at rates fixed by the terms of the certificate. I have heard hundreds of amusing dialogues in the ring as L as referee, stood close to two fellows who were trying to put each other to sleep with their fists. I can't remember them all, of course, hut some of them I shall never forget. For example, when Jim Jeffries was de-fending the champlonship against Jim Corbett, that night at Coney Island, Cor-bett flew around the big fellow like a nimble deer hound around a big stag, jabbing and worrying him almost as he pleased. Naturally, if he could make Jeff think that he had him at his mercy, that state of mind would help him to victory, so after whirling a left hook on the champion's mouth, Corbett laughed and exclaimed: "Well, Jeff, I taught you all you know out at Carson City, but I kept a few things up my sleeves. I'm going to spring them on ou tonight."

"Well, I have a few tricks that never showed you out there, Jim, but I will show them to you pretty soon."

""Say, Jim." he exclaimed, "I fought you fair, didn't I." "Well, I don't know," answered Corbett, who had not quite come to. "It was a good fight, wasn't it? I guess it's all right. Jeff.

The most effective conversation, judg-ing by results, that I ever heard in the ring, was between Kid McCoy and Peter Maher in their celebrated fight at Con-Vienna is called the birthplace of the trusts. They first saw the light there in ey Island on New Year's Day. The Coy held Maher's arms so that he could not move. Then he looked him in the eye and smiled his malicious, cold, sneering smile, and said:

"Well, you big stiff, I see you are in the newspapers hollering for sympathy because your wife is sick. Well, when I get through with you you will want more sympathy than ever."

As a matter of fact, Peter's wife was terribly sick at that time. When he heard McCoy's words, the Irishman became frantic with resentment and, of course, that helped McCoy beat him.

When the fight was over McCoy went to Peter's corner and shock head. over to Peter's corner and shook hands

Mass Meeting of Brooklyn Residents Is Called.

CAUSED BY SCHOOL QUESTION

Justice Seton Says the Building Is Unsanitary.

The residents of Brookyn Addition do not think that they have adequate school facilities in their section of the city and have called a mass meeting fornext Monday evening at Blank's Hall, on Powell near East Thirteenth street. A number of prominent citizens have signified their intention of attending and delivering addresses. Justice Walde-

There is no doubt that our section of the city is badly in need of added school facilities. A committee appointed from the former Brooklyn Board of Trade called on the school officials about a year ago and demanded that something be done to relieve the congestion in that district.

"The committee had their say, and that is about all that resulted from it. Not the slightest attention was paid to the matter by those in charge, and the meeting which has been called for next Monday is to determine what course to pursue in order to compel the school authorities to do their sworn duty.

BUILDING IS UNSANITARY. "The present Brookyn School building is not a fit place to send children. The structure is unhealthy and should condemned or else repaired at once. More rooms are badly needed to accom-modate the pupils of the district. At present all the overflow pupils have to be taught in outside rooms and stores. This is not right, and the defects should can accomplish it.' The trouble with the school board is not all the residents of Brooklyn are about to protest against. They want po-lice protection, and say that they intend to have it, even if the officers have to be paid by public subscription. The mass meeting for next Monday was partially called for the purpose of protesting against the poor electric light system in vogue in that section. and more lamps are wanted.

GET STOVE FACTORY

New Enterprise Will Soon Be Given Montavilla.

According to William Deveny, secretary of the Montavilla Board of Trade that suburh is likely to have a stove foundry in operation before months have passed. The Portland Sawdust Stove Factory that if they would furnish the company with a site, a large stove factory would be established in the suburb. The ground has been selected and all arrangements for its fransfer to the stove company are about completed.

"This factory proposition," said Mr.
Deveny, "is much larger than was at first submitted to the organization. promoters of the enterprise have found that they will put up a larger factory than they had at first intended. Their stoves have been long enough on the narket to show them to be a success in every particular and there is litle doubt that the new corporation will be a go from the start. It will employ about 40 men when in full operation.

Mr. Deveny points with pride to the many projects that the organization of which he is secretary-treasurer, has ac-complished. "We have started out to land 10 different projects and already eight of them have been carried to a successful termination."

At the next meeting of the board. Wednesday evening at Aylsworth Hall on the Base Line road, the reports of the secretary and treasurer for 1902 will be read. The annexation project will also be thoroughly discussed at this meeting.

er severely injured, and today occupies a cot in a local hospital. Getty was working in the pit when some earth which had become loosened by the heavy rains, started down the incline, burying the lone workman before he could think of escape. His compan-ions noted his plight and at once re-sponded to his cry of alarm. Getty was excavated from the loose earth and Dr. Perry, a neighboring physician, called. No bones were found to be broken, but it was thought advisable to send the infured man to the hospital.
