NEILL AND WOODS FIGHT A DRAW

Clever Colored Boxer Sidesteps Friscoite.

Tonight Young Eddie Hanlon Meets Abe Attell in a Prom- ising Bout.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—A large attendance was on hand last night at Hazard's Pavilion when Al Neill of San Francisco and Billy Woods (colored) of Oxnard, Cal., met to decide the question of supremacy in a 20-round contest at 145 pounds. The bout proved a bloody affair and went the limit. Referee Stuart's verdict being "a draw." Woods, who is comparatively a mere tyro at the game, recently defeated "Rough-House" Burns of Cincinnati, and prior to this meeting was comparatively unknown in fist circles. Neill, by reason of his lengthened experience in ring affairs, was favorite in the betting.

Young Pugilist Dies.

SCITUATE, R. I., Jan. 23.—Eugene McCarthy, the "School-boy" boxer of New York, who boxed with Hugh Murphy, also of New York, here the 21st, has passed away, from injuries said to have been inflicted by his head striking the floor during the contest. Murphy has been held on $5,000 bail, and will have a hearing on February 4.

Quaker Fighter Wins.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Jan. 23.—The Savannah Athletic Club had for its main event last night Danny Dougherty of Philadelphia, former bantam champion, and Ike Cohen, of England, who were listed to box 20 rounds at the bantam-weight limit. In the sixth round the Philadelphia landed heavily on the Englishman's jaw, who went down and was counted out.

Attel and Hanlon.

(Journal Special Service.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—The sporting fraternity is displaying keen interest in the contest between Abe Attel, the St. Louis featherweight, and Eddie Hanlon, the Pacific Coast bantamweight champion, which is to be decided before the San Francisco Athletic Club tonight. The articles of agreement call for a 20-round fight at 122 pounds. The two little fighters are counted upon to put up a lively bout. Attel is conceded to be one of the cleverest fighters that the West has ever produced. Hanlon fights on the McGovern style and has a long string of victories to his credit.

Six Round Bout Tonight.

(Journal Special Service.)
BOSTON, Jan. 23.—The Lennox Athletic Club has arranged a good card for its boxing show tonight. The star bout is to be furnished by Tommy Fultz and "Kid" Goodman, who are slated to go six rounds at 118 pounds. The two fighters are old-time rivals in the ring, and are counted upon to put up an interesting contest.

Yale-Harvard Gym Meet.

(Journal Special Service.)
HAVERFORD, Pa., Jan. 23.—The Yale gymnastic team is here for a joint exhibition with the Haverford College team tonight. Tumbling, flying rings, horizontal bar, club swinging, parallel bars and other events will be given. The exhibition is considered to be one of the most important athletic events of the college season, partly on account of its being the first occasion that Yale and Haverford have ever had athletic relations with one another.

Kid Fredericks of Montana and Jack Clifford of Utah are negotiating as to a meeting to decide the lightweight championship of Montana, which is to be held at Havre.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 23.—The initiative steps as to the formation of an amateur athletic league here for the Pacific Northwest are now assuming tangible shape. The organization meeting will be held at Seattle on February 21.

CARRIG BEATEN BY RUFÉ TURNER

Windy City Lightweight Goes Out in Ninety Seconds.

(Journal Special Service.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 23.—A large attendance was on hand last night at the Acme Athletic Club, Oakland, when Jack Carrig of Chicago and Rufe Turner (colored) of Stockton, light weights of well-known reputation, met in a 15-round contest. The contest proved a most unsatisfactory one, a repetition of the Gans-McFadden affair of unenviable notoriety. The Chicagoan failed to do little outside of fancy side stepping and once or twice made a bluff at leading, but failed to land. Turner, however, made short work of his man and ere 30 seconds of the first round had elapsed the colored man crossed the Chicagoan, who went to the floor in a heap and stayed there till counted out. As the sports fled slowly out of the hall many wondered where Carrig had gained his reputation.

Bark Meeting Tonight.

The attention of all interested in the furtherance of a movement on foot to introduce the Bob White and California Valley quail into the State of Oregon, is respectfully called to the meeting to be held this evening in the hall of the Oregon Mining Exchange, in the Chamber of Commerce Building. A large attendance of all local sportsmen interested in field trials is expected.

TO CARE FOR DEMPSEY'S GRAVE

Journal Successful in Locating Fund.

Over $500 in San Francisco Which Will Be Used to Preserve Nonpareil's Tomb.

Recently The Oregon Daily Journal printed a story and poem calling attention to the neglected grave of Jack Dempsey, who lies buried in Mt. Calvary Cemetery, this city, and requesting those who had charge of the maintenance of the same to do something so that the resting place of one of our popular "nonpareils" would not be lost to view. Readers of The Journal began at once to see what could be done to preserve Dempsey's tomb, and it is with pleasure that the announcement is made that the fund which was started many months ago for the purpose of locating the amount forwarded to this city, E. W. Frost, of this city, received a letter from John L. Hergat of San Francisco, stating the amount that was collected and adding that in a short time the grave of Jack Dempsey will be reclaimed from the weeds and brushwood that have almost hidden it. Mr. Hergat's letter to Mr. Frost reads:

"Yours of January 15 received, containing Journal clipping and request for information regarding Dempsey fund. Allow me to thank you for the interest displayed. In reply I will say that we are just closing our affairs in connection with the fund. Every cent will be accounted for, and we have at present in the Western National Bank the sum of $510. After paying a few incidental expenses, we will publish a full account of the fund and the names of those who contributed. A number of the lists from the country have not yet been returned, but we are hopeful for general returns. Our end will soon be closed, as I am anxious to have things settled, and the best use made of the money. Let me say that this fund has nothing to do with the Dempsey estate, but is a fund for its promoters. Trusting that we may arrive at the end for which the subscription was started, feeling certain that something will be done towards brushing away the weeds and erecting a suitable mark, so that the world will know that Jack Dempsey is not forgotten, and that he is still fondly remembered. I am, extending to you my sincerest regards. Respectfully yours,
"JOHN L. HERGAT."

WOMEN AS MOUSE BAITERS

When the modern woman attempts to do anything, she generally does it well, although the methods and means may be severely criticized by her more staid and conventional sisters. The best illustration of the great strides that women have made during the past few years in sports of various degrees, has been exemplified at the big cat show recently opened at Stamford, Conn. The members of the Connecticut Cat Club spent many months of tireless endeavor arranging and planning for their annual exhibition of felines. To have something out of the regular routine was their scheme, their ambition. Different things were suggested, but voted down on account of their kittenish tameness. What they really wanted was a show that would shock the religious sensibilities of the citizens of that hitherto semi-comatose town. Finally it was proposed to have a "mouse baiting" contest, and reports say that when a motion was made to adopt that form of a display, the women got so excited in their endeavor to vote for the resolution that they actually stood in their chairs and passed the proposition unanimously, and with a volcanic hurrah. There was one old lady, however, that dissented from the prevailing sentiment of the meeting, and when she arose to register her voice and argument against the measure, she was violently seized and carried hurriedly to the cloak room. Thus gagged, the "mouse baiting" contest was on. The scene that followed the adoption of the proposal was so animated that it was an hour before the victorious women stepped from their perches, and resumed business. The next question in order was the purchasing of mice. This nearly caused a riot, as every woman had mice in her cellar that she was anxious to dispose of, providing some one captured them. An order for 10,000 mice was so quickly amended so as to read ten million, that the lady who was previously ejected for making objections, fainted upon hearing the news. Fearful that some members would change their minds before the meeting got through its business, a motion to adjourn was made and carried with a whooping "meow." Now the serious part comes. When it became known what the women had done, the officers in the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, in a thousand different cities and towns, voiced their protests and characterized the plan as brutal in every manner, and stated that if the club persisted in carrying out their agreement that every member would be arrested. The members of the Connecticut Cat Club promptly resented the unwelcome interference of the R. P. C. A., and hinted that any one who did not approve of the scheme was unworthy the principles and prerogatives of American citizenship. The fight is on and the climax is awaited with interest, especially by the cats and trembling mice.

LEAGUE SPLIT IS INEVITABLE

Sam Crane Thinks the National League Is About to Smash Up.

According to Sam Crane, in the New York American, a general split is due in baseball circles. Mr. Crane says: "A split in the National League seems to be almost a foregone conclusion and the formation of Eastern and Western leagues working on separate lines is more than a possibility. That this will be the outcome, unless the National and American Leagues decide to form a 12-club circuit by amalgamation, is the opinion held by many well-posted baseball men who are alive to the present complicated situation. In Baltimore they are preparing for just such a solution and even expect it. Ned Hanlon, manager of the Brooklyn Club, arrived at the Victoria Hotel last night in company with President P. T. Powers of the Eastern League, and a wealthy Baltimore capitalist, and they held a long conference with Secretary Knowles, of the New York Club, and President Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Club. "Manager Hanlon was not inclined to talk over the recent action of the 'peace commission,' which fished his club of Keeler, Donovan and Kitson, but said: 'As I understand the situation now, I strenuously object to what the 'peace commission' did.' There are many things, however, that I do not understand, and there is a possibility that the National League has not got so much the worst of it as is evidenced by first reports. I shall certainly do all I can to retain Keeler, Donovan and Kitson, and do not think that I have lost them yet. "I prefer to wait until after the National League meeting in Cincinnati before voicing my opinions too forcibly, but at that meeting I shall see that the Brooklyn club does not get the 'dinky dink,' as it now appears it has. "President Pulliam of the National League went to Philadelphia to consult John I. Rogers and to throw a bit of 'hot air' into the doctory Colonel. Mr. Pulliam met with a very cold reception here from representatives of the New York and Brooklyn Clubs, and it is not likely that he will meet with a very

Keel Frames Raised.

BRISTOL, R. I., Jan. 23.—The raising of the keel frames of the midship section of the new yacht ordered as a prospective cup defender has been accomplished at the Harrobbrook, and it is now possible to obtain some general idea of the form of the craft. While her lines in many respects conform to those of the Constitution, there will be less dead rise, less curve at the garboards, the bilges somewhat harder

For Politeness Sake.

Now doth the busy naval lad
Improve each fighting hour,
And land upon the freshman jaw
With all his dainty power.
The freshman notes a thousand stars
That round him flash and sweep;
And while they slowly count him out
He gently drops asleep.
The upper classmen stand about
And watch the mainly fray,
For there's no game with them to match.
A freshman brought to bay,
Oh! let his merry sport go on
And banish boys to suit the foe,
For that's the way to educate
The braggart and the brute.

and a considerably flatter floor. The departure from the Constitution's lines is, however, not at all extreme. Owing to the stern post not being in position the framing is being worked further forward than aft, and there are now several frames out ahead of the lead keel.

As in the other cup defenders, more reliance is placed in the belt and longitudinal frames, of which there are 15 in the midship section. The belt frames are six feet eight inches apart, with intermediate frames between. As usual, the connectors are made by T bars and the plating will follow the belt frames end for end.

Banderillo Gored to Death.

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 23.—The annual bull fight at Juarez, Mex., held in honor of Guadalupe, the patron saint of the republic, reached its thrilling climax recently when the famous banderillo Francisco Matillera, was gored to death by a fierce Samalayuca bull.

Matillera was pierced through both thighs by the beast's horns and pinned to the ground. His bones were broken and his flesh torn.

Five thousand people, many of them Americans, who had come to the city to attend the El Paso carnival, witnessed the spectacle. A number of women fainted, but the Mexican contingent of the audience cheered lustily and seemed to gloat over the torture of the banderillo, who was borne from the arena in a dying condition.

Tokell Training Hard.

Andrew Tokell, the English bantamweight champion, is matched to fight Harry Forbes, his training in New York. Speaking of his work the New York Sun says: "Kelly has his protegee indulge in hard work all the time. Tokell begins at 2 o'clock and does not let up until nearly 4 o'clock. He boxes, wrestles, skips the rope, punches the bag, pitches the medicine ball, uses the dumbbells and has an inning at the weights. With the exception of poor weather he emerges from the performance with flying colors. Whitley Casper, Tokell's sparring partner and champion, opposed the foreigner in a boxing bout. Casper weighs about 150 pounds and is a pretty strong youth. However he was not much troubled by the wonderful strength and endurance of Tokell and swung Casper about at will. Tokell is clever, quick and ready to take advantage of openings. He has an excellent left hand, which carries enough force behind it to make his rival stagger. Although the bout with Casper was not very strenuous it showed Tokell's knowledge of the game to be much better than that of the average English scrapper. In action he resembles George Dixon. He has Dixon's double punch, the left for the body and the same hand for the jaw, down to a nicety. In a mixup he is agile, accurate and relentless. His foot power remains on a par with Torrey Morgan, yet he does not stumble or tilt to one side."

He Weighs But Little.

Columbia has just unearthed a candidate for the coachship of the crew from the records for size. He is a freshman, probably the smallest member of his class, weighing only 89 pounds and 5 feet 3 inches tall. He carries the prodigious name of Samson Bloch. He can probably train down a few pounds and should prove a valuable man.

Big Auto Show at New York

Costly and Magnificent Display of Splendid Machines.

The great automobile show now in progress in New York City is the finest display of horseless carriages ever witnessed in this country. Each day the capacity of the building is taxed to its utmost in order to accommodate the immense crowd. There are machines of every possible description on exhibition and reports of the success of the show are in every way. In speaking of the popularity of the autos, the essential requisites for a first-class chauffeur, and the attainment of high speed, Henri Fourrier, the peerless automobilist of France, writes in the New York American:

"What effect do I think the improvements will have? Well, it will make automobiling more popular with the public than it has ever been before. Take, for instance, the new Mors cars that I will have on exhibition at the Garden. One look at the machinery will give any one an idea how the machinery is improved. It will not take any individual any time to master the works. Things have been reduced to their simplest form, and the future buyers will profit by it greatly.

"Any one who has his nerve with him can become a good chauffeur. All one wants is confidence in his own ability to control the machine. The great mistake many people make is that they change their minds too often.

Sporting Notes.

Philip H. Kunzig, captain of Yale's 1902 crew, has been officially named as the head coach for this year. Mr. Kunzig will not be much more than a figurehead at Yale, because nearly all of the coaching is left to the veteran professional, John Kennedy.

It is announced that Durnell & Herz will at once ship their racers from New Orleans and will return to the States, but will send some to Los Angeles to take part in the meeting which will begin there January 21. An effort will be made to have Redfern accompany the "California" contingent, but his father will probably refuse his permission.

Additional entries to the Suburban Handicap are Agreger, Articulate, American and Marquis. The first three are well known to Eastern race goers, but Marquis never ran in this section. She is a 4-year-old, by Simon Magnus, out of Mary, the latter one of the best mares of her day. Up to date the Suburban entries number 54.

The sporting fraternity of England, Ireland and even Scotland have a promising time ahead for the next few months. If that trio of pugilists, Joe Gans, Terry Moran and Young Corbett make their threatened trip across the broad Atlantic, not one of the three has been busy at late gathering in money, and the little that might come from the tour of the British Isles would about reach the spot, and open the way for a better disposition and some good dinners.

In spite of the adverse ruling of the Haulage Regatta stewards against American crews the Argonauts of Toronto, Canada, has decided to enter again this year. The Argonauts will use a professional coach to within a month of the races, and will then depend upon amateurs. The Canadians have six of last year's eight this season. The Toronto oarsmen did not make much of a showing at Henley last year.

PAROLE HAD A FAMOUS CAREER

Noted Events in Which the Great Racehorse Figured.

The death of the famous American racehorse Parole, owned by the late Pierre Lorillard, recalls a career on the turf of England and America which was the talk of the world 20 years ago, says the New York Sun. He was by Leamington-Malden, was foaled in 1874, and at the end of his 5-year-old campaign in this country, which included eight triumphs and two defeats, Mr. Lorillard shipped him abroad. Parole stood the ocean voyage well and was sent to the post for the Newmarket Handicap on April 16, 1879, in splendid condition, though he was practically unbacked in the betting. Parole shouldered 116 pounds and was asked to defeat, among others, the noted racehorse Isomy, who the previous year had won the Cambridgeshire from a field of 37. In this race Isomy picked up 124 pounds and was the choice. "The distance was a mile and a half, and Parole was ridden by an English jockey named Marley, who wore, of course, the famous Rancocas colors. Three furlongs from the end Isomy looked as if he would win, but Parole came on with a magnificent turn of speed and beat Mr. Grant's great 4-year-old by a little more than a length.
