IS NOT INSANE.

That it does not pay to persistently woo a married woman, when said woman is living in peace and harmony with her husband, is well illustrated in the case of A. McKendry, who became infatuated with Mrs. Mary Keno of the East Side. She and her husband had him arrested, and by an order of the court he was sent to jail for six months, or given the chance to put up $500 bail to keep the peace. This he could not do, and he will have to languish in durance vile. He was examined as to his sanity yesterday afternoon and found to be perfectly sane.

APPOINTED COMMISSIONER

After many years of faithful service in the office of A. C. Smith, the United States Commissioner at Enterprise, Wallawa County, has resigned. Mr. Smith is an attorney and has decided to retire from the practice of his profession. It is said, and concluded also to give up his office as commissioner. In his stead Judge Bellinger of the United States District and Circuit Court appointed John S. Hodgins, who will, on receipt of his commission, immediately assume the duties of the office.

THE COUNTY JAIL THIS MAN'S HOME

Archibald Ray Can't Stay Away--The Bazoo Band.

Archibald Ray, once a crackjack harness-maker, with a heart as big as any human being that ever lived, but now a habit of being in the county jail once more. He had served 90 days for carrying morphine in his pockets, and was released by County Jailor Jackson yesterday afternoon. "Archy," as he is more familiarly known, is about his limit on the outside, and re-booking on this basis, he will be back in by tomorrow. It will be interesting to see what he will do to break in, say those who are watching the case. In the past the old man has been exceedingly careful to commit some offense which will land him in the county jail. It is said he has a most awful dread of being thrown in the city jail, for the reason that the board is bad, and the rooming space worse.

HIS DEED OF CHARITY.

"Archy" is noted for telling the truth. Seldom, indeed, has he been caught in a fib. Here is a story often related about the city among those who like to spin yarns about "Archy." One day "Archy" came into the cigar store presided over by Bert Budd, saying he had entered: "Say, Budd, loan me two bits."

THE BAZOO BAND.

One day the prison band, known as the "Bazoo," had occasion to serenade John Williams, colored, who had escaped from the jail four months before, and who had been living in Tacoma for that period of time. He had been told that it was safe to venture back to Portland, so he thought he'd try it. No sooner did he arrive than he was pulled on orders from Jailer Jackson.

HE NEVER WASHED.

"Whew!" said Captain Moore, as he gazed in disgust on a fishbearded drunk this afternoon. "What is he?" "Drunk; sloppy drunk, on Second and Burnside," said Officer Griff Roberts, propping his catch up against the rail. "What's your name?" "I should say so, but in Jailer Roberts, dextrously removing a bladeless knife from a hidden pocket. "You need a bath."

TWO DECISIONS OF IMPORTANCE

How Mechanics' Liens Must Be Filed.

Radical Change in Manner of Issuing County Saloon Licenses.

Judge Frazer rendered a decision this morning in the case of Baughman & Johnson against Mrs. H. M. Taylor to collect on a mechanic's lien. It was found by the court that the house the plaintiffs built for defendant was inferior and the court therefore found against them. The decision carries great weight because the court finds that a mechanic's lien is void where claimants die upon property above the amount demanded. Judge George rendered a decision sustaining the writ of review in the case of C. J. Littlepage against Multnomah County. The County Court, it seems, granted a license for three months. The decision rendered will work a great change in the issuing of liquor licenses by the County Court. Heretofore licenses have been issued for three months, upon petition for a one-year license. Judge George's decision rules this contrary to law, as he says the statute carries no provision for such a procedure. Saloon keepers must hereafter apply for a yearly license and if they desire to consume it in quarters they must file a petition in each instance. The Littlepage license is rendered null by the decision and this roadhouse, which is situated in the eastern portion of the county, must immediately reapply if the proprietor desires to continue. This is the most radical change in the County Court that has been wrought for a long time. Judge Webster discontinued the former plan some time ago and, of course, will not issue any more licenses as heretofore.

WEATHER FORECAST. The barometer began falling rapidly yesterday afternoon and a disturbance of decided energy made its appearance over British Columbia. This storm caused a heavy rain last night and in the North Pacific States as far south as San Francisco. A maximum velocity of 60 miles southwest is reported from Toots Island, and storm warnings are continued at the mouth of the Columbia River and along the Strait of Juan de Fuca. The indications are for rain in this district Saturday, with cooler weather.

WESTERN OREGON--Tonight, occasional rain, cooler except near coast, Saturday, probably fair south, showers north portion; southwesterly winds. Western Washington--Tonight and Saturday, occasional rain; high southwesterly winds diminishing tonight. Eastern Oregon, Eastern Washington and Idaho--Tonight and Saturday, occasional rain or snow; probably cooler Saturday. EDWARD A. BEALS, Forecast Official.

There are 58 school districts in Multnomah County, including joint districts, outside the City of Portland. There are employed in these 112 teachers, and the average daily attendance of pupils is 20,000. All but five districts are supplied with schools, and these are too thinly populated.

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Williams appointed Councilmen Fiegl, Sigler and Zimmerman as the special committee which will consider the several ordinances regarding the storage of petroleum, etc., which have been dragging their weary lengths along through the Council for a long time. The committee will meet some time next week.

Chinese residents attracted considerable attention yesterday afternoon at the corner of Second and Oak streets by their efforts to raise a flagstaff to the top of a building. They were occupied at the task several hours and many white people were on the ground to give valuable advice. One of the latter was finally given a position as superintendent of the erection, and as the 50-foot pole was placed in position a mighty celestial wind rent the air.

"And what is he oop for?" continued the German. "Was the answer. The questioner began again: "What is a fagant?" "Without visible means of support." More silence, and then the inquirer called the reporter "fagant?" The reporter tried to explain. The German showed a puzzled face. "Support? Why, Edwards worked. I know he did. It was the day before Christmas." And he departed, wondering at the intricacies of the law.

CASTRONOVO MURDER TRIAL

Jury Hears Account of Eye-witness.

Fight as to Interpreter Resulted in a Win for the Prosecution.

THE JURY. These are the 12 men and true, in whose hands the life of Giuseppe Castronovo rests: R. S. Chase, John Patterson, F. M. Ireland, W. G. McCormack, Jacob M. Geller, Morris Harner, E. L. Stone, Peter J. Neuberger, M. E. Thompson, F. M. Kandle, H. F. Yates and Marx Crandall. After a hot contest, Peter Jany of Spokane was sworn as interpreter. He was the one chosen by the prosecution. Dr. Candler, the local Italian Consul, sits near the prisoner. The Jury was informed today that this is to insure fair play. There is great bitterness between the rival Italian factions over the matter, each fearing the other will get the most advantage.

The state's two star witnesses were on the stand this morning in the Castronovo murder trial. They were Joe Barker and Frank Pazzi; the former was present in the saloon at the time of the slaying, as a patron and the latter was the bartender. Both saw the whole transaction and both testified that Castronovo was the aggressor all through the affair. From the time he entered the saloon until he fled from the place with the brand of Cain upon him, both witnesses were put through a withering fire of cross examination, but their testimony varied but slightly. The prosecution will have its evidence all in later afternoon, and the defense will probably have time to examine a few witnesses. It may go to the jury tomorrow night.

The case is advancing remarkably well when it is considered that the work is all done twice because of the necessity of an interpreter. The court room was crowded to the limit, and friends of the defendant and deceased, Guglielmo, even crowded into the corridors. The widow and her son sat inside the rail and gave the closest attention to every word uttered. Dr. Curtis Holcomb, who dressed the wounds, testified that there were three wounds. Two were in the breast, the left of the left nipple. The lungs and heart were pierced by the stilette. The knife blade penetrated downward and in the back. The third wound was in the fatal one.

Upon cross examination witness said death was due to internal hemorrhages. Two of the wounds were superficial. EYE-WITNESS STORY. Joe Barker, who witnessed the slaying, identified the underworlder as Guglielmo and it was introduced in evidence by the prosecution after objection by the defense was overruled.

Murphy cross-examined the witness as to his first sighting of America 11 years ago. Witness said he had known Guglielmo in Spokane and had known him eight years. They were not very friendly. Witness merely patronized his saloons occasionally. Sometimes there three times a day; some days not at all.

Prior to entering Guglielmo's place on the fatal night, witness was in other saloons. He entered Guglielmo's saloon at 11:15 p. m. He saw Charles Russ and two others were there, but he did not know them. He saw Charley Russ and his son were not there. Charley Russ and Mike Gavin went out before Guglielmo and son came in. When the defendant threw the bottle at Guglielmo there was not one present except Guglielmo, his son, Castronovo and witness.

When Guglielmo said "I'm out," about 20 minutes elapsed before he fled. Two policemen were the first to enter after the slaying. Witness said he and others searched the pockets of the dead man and found a bunch of keys and some money. The coroner removed the body witness took Mrs. Guglielmo home.

WITNESS ASKED FIRE. Witness was asked if he had a talk with Tony Pechico after the slaying in which he said that Guglielmo was the aggressor, that he attacked Castronovo and that the latter then cut Guglielmo.

WITNESS DENIED IT. He also denied that Guglielmo had a $200 check ready for him.

BARTENDER TESTIFIES. Frank Pazzi, the bartender, told how Castronovo came in, topped the nickel in the slot machine and because it would not work began to pound it. He said Guglielmo gave Castronovo a glass of beer and tried to get him to go home. Castronovo was slightly intoxicated and was quarrelsome. He grabbed a wine bottle and hurled it at Guglielmo. The latter said:

"I see you are trying to get me into trouble." He then opened the swinging door and shoved Castronovo out. The slaying then occurred and when witness next saw Castronovo he was running down First street toward Mill street. When Guglielmo came back into the saloon he took a chair and sat down. Witness then saw blood on Guglielmo's left hand. Then he ran behind the bar, put on his coat and ran for a doctor.

Witness said that Castronovo was the aggressor throughout the whole affair, and that Guglielmo tried to avert trouble. At the noon adjournment Pazzi was under a hot fire of cross-examination, but varied none of his testimony.

Murphy drew out the statement from witness that he and Guglielmo were born and raised in the same town in Italy and were very friendly.

HAS WATERMELON CRAZE. Afflicted with a mania which makes him think every man has a watermelon concealed about his person, Mike Houston, a small negro with rolling eyes, was arrested by Officer Roberts yesterday and charged with insanity. There is said to be nothing dangerous about Houston's case. He just sits and smelts and thinks of watermelon and lets his mouth water.

COL LYNCH IS FOUND GUILTY

Sentenced to Death for High Treason.

Prisoner Takes Sentence Coolly Though Wife Weeps in Court --May Escape Doom.

(Journal Special Service.) LONDON, Jan. 23.--Col. Lynch, accused of high treason in having fought with the Boers in South Africa against the British forces, has been found guilty. He was immediately sentenced to death. The defense closed its case this afternoon after hearing only four witnesses to show the sole fact that Lynch took the oath of allegiance to the Boer cause. The court room was crowded, but there was no demonstration when the verdict was announced. Col. Lynch took his sentence coolly. When asked if he had anything to say, he replied, "Thank you, nothing," and bowed to the court. The Lord Chief Justice granted permission to Mrs. Lynch to see her husband. The prisoner's wife appeared to be bowed with grief and wept when the verdict was read. It is regarded as almost certain that the death sentence will be reduced to 10 years' imprisonment by the King, as the execution of Col. Lynch would throw all Ireland into a ferment.

THE CHINESE ARE A MENACE

City Physician Fears the Bubonic Plague.

"Chinatown is the source of danger to Portland in the matter of the bubonic plague," said City Physician Zan this morning. "There has been a quarantine for two years in force against all vessels entering the Columbia River from foreign ports. Every ship that has entered Astoria harbor has been carefully inspected by the Marine Hospital surgeon and the only vessels allowed to come in without extra precautions have been the coastwise craft. Now all we have to do is to watch the incoming trains and the San Francisco steamers."

Doctor Zan went on to say that the Chinese quarter was the menace. "It will have to be carefully looked after for the Chinese go back and forth a great deal and conceal all cases of sickness to the utmost of their power. I have given orders that the coroner report all sudden or suspicious deaths immediately to this office in order that we may know instantly when the plague appears, if it does. There are two forms of the plague on this coast. One brings death within a very few hours, the other takes two or three weeks to reach its end. The San Francisco sort is the slow kind, hard to deal with and offering opportunities for concealment."

Portland Riding Club.

The best medical authorities are unanimous in recommending horseback riding for nervous, lung and kindred complaints. Particularly in this mode of exercise beneficial on the West coast, where the patient can enjoy the fresh open air, inhale Nature's ozone and the restorative fragrance of pine, fir, cedar and hemlock. It is safe to say that there is no country of earth where horseback riding is more healthful than in Oregon.

FIGHT, FUSS AND NO FINE.

The Lancaster-Easterby squabble, which has been taking up Judge Hogue's attention for several days, reached its final entanglement yesterday afternoon, when the case against Lancaster was dismissed and Easterby, charged with everything from assault and battery to assault with intent to kill, was put under $100 bonds to keep the peace. The evidence tended to show that Easterby was the aggressor and was unwilling to take a good-fiddling at Lancaster's hands. One of the cases against Easterby was continued and probably there will be further airing of the Cloverleaf backyards if the threats of the opposing parties are any indication.

SHOULDER OUT OF JOINT.
