

PERSONAL HISTORY OF NEW SENATOR

How "Charley" Fulton Fought His Way From Obscure School Teacher to the Senate.

(Journal Special Service.)
ASTORIA, Feb. 21.—Charles William Fulton brought to himself all the honor that has come to him. Born of humble parents he has made his own way in the world from his youth.

Mr. Fulton was born at Lima, O., August 24, 1853. His father was a merchant and farmer and in 1855 resided to Magdalen, Ia., where the family resided for 16 years. Here Mr. Fulton received his early education, attending the common school. In 1871 he accompanied his parents to Pawnee City, Neb., where he attended a local academy for a short time. He also taught school there and spent his spare time studying law. Before departing for the coast he was admitted to the bar of the State of Nebraska.

In the spring of 1875 young Fulton reached Portland. His finances were at a low ebb, for school masters were not overburdened with cash in those days, but he did not see any very favorable opening in the law business, and determined to look for a school. In the little town of Waterloo, Linn County, there was a position offering, and thither went the young man to earn a livelihood.

Moved to Astoria.
While in the valley he heard much of Astoria, which in those days was a far famed town—and deservedly so, for money was as plentiful, perhaps, as in any other town on earth—and in July, 1875, he became a resident of this city. He had saved enough at Waterloo to pay for a law shingle and the few necessities of life that a modest young man required, and soon there appeared a new sign on the street:

C. W. FULTON,
Attorney-at-Law.

Perhaps he didn't expect a rush of clients that would keep him up at nights, but certain it is he did not look for the vacation which followed. Somehow or other, clients went elsewhere. But at last there came that first client, with his little case and a few dollars for attorney's fees.

"I remember the first time I ever saw Mr. Fulton," relates former Mayor Bergman, who then conducted a butcher shop at the corner of Bond and Ninth streets—then Shohomish and Main streets.

Wore frayed trousers.
"I was standing in front of my shop, when a young man walked by. He carried one hand in his hip pocket, and I noticed that his trousers were frayed. I asked a friend who he was and he told me the young man was Charlie Fulton, who had just hung out his law shingle. I'm not much of a prophet, but I remarked at the time that the carriage of the youth indicated good traits of character, and I ventured the prediction that he would be successful. But I can still see those frayed trousers! It seems to me the young man must have noticed that I was eyeing the worn pants, for he suddenly removed his hand from the pocket and covered up the evidence of

THE ALBANY SPRUNG A LEAK

She Sinks Before Shore Could Be Reached.

The steamer Albany, owned and operated by the Columbia River Paper Company, sprung a leak in some unknown manner and sank this morning at about 4 o'clock. The accident happened just on this side of Washougal.

The boat had a log raft in tow and the crew had been working nearly all night. Just as they were retiring the foreman noticed that the vessel was taking and a run was made for the shore. The water came in so rapidly, however, that it was impossible to reach the land, and the boat sank onto a sand bar, near this side of the river, and is resting easy in water up to the deck. The crew is still on the boat. Pilot McIntyre came to Portland on the lone, and arrangements will shortly be made to raise the vessel. It is believed that this can be done with very little trouble.

MARINE NOTES.

The steamship Coma, now at San Francisco, is reported as having been chartered to load grain on Puget Sound for Australia. The rate is said to be 20 shillings.

The schooner Anita, Captain Yabell, cleared yesterday for San Francisco with 38,411 feet of lumber and some hardware, tools, etc.

The steamer Norman Isle is discharging railway iron at the O. C. dock, and the steamer Meteor is at the Victoria taking on a wheat cargo for San Francisco.

The British ship Euphrates sailed this morning at 9 o'clock for Sydney, Australia.

The steamer Hassalo, which ran aground near Brookfield a few days ago, has been successfully floated, and is back on her regular run today.

The Scottish Minister has moved from the Glebe to the Greenwell dock.

MUST NOW FACE SERIOUS CHARGE

Aged Mr. Walker Has Many Troubles.

Subornation of Perjury Is the Accusation—His Son Will Escape.

W. C. Walker will be charged with subornation of perjury. Henry Walker will go free. Father and son are still in jail at Vancouver.

Proceedings will begin on the subornation charge Monday. The aged Mr. Walker, who, as has been previously published, eloped with Martha Sims, will have to face a charge of subornation of perjury. For this charge, if conviction is made, he may be sentenced to the penitentiary for from two to five years.

The aged benighted life has been full of troubles of late. He has learned that when a man marries his troubles begin. They have begun, and where they will end is a matter of conjecture.

Wooded, Won, Lost.
Walker senior wooed, won and then lost his youthful sweetheart. It did not take long for all these things to happen.

Shortly after the marriage, John Sims, father of Martha Sims, appeared on the scene, determined to have revenge. He said his daughter had been practically stolen from him and that she was far under age, notwithstanding the old man's son swore that she was of legal age.

John Sims first swore out warrants for the arrest of the father and son on charges of perjury. As has been published, this charge cannot be pushed, because the parents of May Payne, who married the young Mr. Walker, are satisfied and will not appear as witnesses against the young man. Therefore, in order to punish the aged Mr. Walker, and to satisfy the demands of the law, a charge of subornation of perjury will be placed against the old man.

Troubles Galore.
Shortly after their marriage the Walkers were arrested and placed in jail at Vancouver. Soon after, the Sims girl got tired of married life, and deserted her aged husband. She returned to her father, with whom she is now living. The father and son, however, the young man's wife, are still incarcerated in the county jail.

When they were first arrested, it was said they would not return to Portland for trial unless extradited. Now, however, they have decided to come back, and stand trial. They will probably be held on bail, for hearing early next week.

Alliance between Bourne and Scott an utter failure.

The marionettes danced at Matthews' word. McGinn proved himself so thoroughly incompetent in political manipulation that his services will not be in demand by the machine in the future.

It is such tools as he that have been used to nullify the wishes of the voters of Multnomah and to make the county the laughing stock of the state.

ASTORIA IS HAVING A CELEBRATION

ASTORIA, Feb. 21.—Astoria is pandemonium turned bottom sides up. Everybody is celebrating. It is not a question of politics here, but a question of home pride. The Hon. C. W. Fulton has always been popular among every class, and it has been the dream of the life of the citizen to see him in the United States Senate. He has represented this county in the making of state laws for years. He has ever stood as the champion of the people's rights here. He made the fight in the late campaign all over the state for the Republican party, while other candidates were lukewarm and hard to place.

When the Oregon Legislature opened, Astoria expected the most brilliant session to be elected at once. From the day of the opening of the session, Astoria has been disappointed. She watched every ballot. She has weighed every word spoken, and as time rolled on her citizens became disappointed. Scott and the Oregonians were determined to support him, but the greed of the "green editor" led him against right. He wanted it himself. The "darkest hour before dawn" had approached. We were discouraged last evening. We feared that justice would not be done. But when the glad news of "Charlie" election was flashed over the wires, Astoria went on a celebration. Republicans, Democrats, Socialists—every political belief—men, women and children, came forth and showed their loyalty and patriotism.

All through the night they celebrated. The morning found them still celebrating. The evening, the night, Sunday, the time until our new United States Senator arrives home, which will be next Monday, will find them celebrating. Then the climax will come. They will give such a reception as was never given in Astoria before, and Astoria knows how to receive it. It will be the event in the history of Astoria.

But Astoria knows that while Mr. Fulton goes from Astoria, he will not represent Astoria alone. He is not that kind of a man. The rights of the most remote portion of the Oregon desert will be looked after as carefully as "Charlie" Fulton will be the interests of his home town.

INVESTITURE OF ARCHBISHOP

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The investiture of Archbishop Farley with the pallium will not, it is learned, take place now until after Easter. The pallium will be dispatched here by special messenger after the next consistory, which will be held in Rome next month, and at which it has been announced several new Cardinals will be named. It is possible that at the same time an auxiliary, or coadjutor bishop for Monsignor Farley will be named, and the consecration ceremonies may take place at the same time that the pallium is bestowed on the Archbishop.

CHILD WIFE IS QUITE UNHAPPY

Married at Twelve Years, Sues for Divorce.

(Journal Special Service.)
TACOMA, Feb. 21.—Sensational allegations are contained in a complaint asking for a decree of divorce filed here by Julia Roubinall. The complaint states that the plaintiff was married to the defendant when she was but 12 years of age. The story is told of an alleged forced union, the statement being made that the child's parents obliged her to marry Roubinall, although he was over 20 years of age.

After nine months of married life the little bride left her husband and they have since lived apart. She alleges that she found life with her husband unbearable.

CANAL COMPANY IS INSISTENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Representatives of the New Panama Canal Company here deny the report that the company will extend the time beyond March 4 on the option this government now holds. If the treaty is not ratified by the senate before that date it will hold that the option has expired. If ratified it will regard the property as disposed of.

PASSENGERS ARE HELD IN SNOW

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Feb. 21.—Dog teams carrying food started today for the interior where two trains with more than 100 passengers on board are snowed out. The government has been called upon by the railroad to assist in rescuing the passengers.

YANKEE BANQUET IN LONDON

LONDON, Feb. 21.—For the first time in three years there is to be a great banquet here in celebration of Washington's birthday. The American Society has decided to be patriotic once more, and the Hotel Cecil will be the scene of a notable gathering. No less than 400 notable men and women will be present, including all the officials of the United States embassy, as well as the Consul, in addition to many distinguished English guests. The American women to whom most credit is due for arranging the celebration are Mrs. James Speyer, Mrs. Ronalds, Mrs. Lafayette de Fiesse and Miss Agnes Tobin.

FENCING OVER SPITE FENCE

The matter of the "spite fence" built by Mr. Frank against S. Silverfield's new house on Twelfth between Columbia and Clay, came up this morning again in the Circuit Court. Attorney Joseph desired a more definite and specific complaint, and Attorney Citron objected hotly.

"This is simply a play to get time, a mere quibbling," said Mr. Citron. "Council is perfectly aware that he has no grounds for such a motion."

"I want the ear of the court," vociferated Mr. Joseph. "I want to be heard in this matter."

"This has gone far enough," retorted Mr. Citron. "This motion is utterly unsupported. It's a play for time, a quibble."

"The court agrees with you," put in Judge Sears.

"I want to be heard; I demand a hearing," shouted Attorney Joseph, facing the court with flaming eyes.

"You drew up the contract," said the judge, suavely. "You must be quite aware of its conditions."

"I object to the putting of pages of construction of this contract," responded Mr. Joseph.

Then a warm argument ended in Attorney Joseph's asserting that there were no grounds for the hearing, and something that could not be heard, and Mr. Joseph's thunder died away as the court said "Motion denied."

SISTER AMADEA DEAD.

PENDELTON, Ore., Feb. 21.—Sister Amadea, aged 30 years, died at St. Anthony's Hospital in this city of consumption, with which she had been afflicted for some years.

She was a native of Kentucky, and had been a member of the Sisterhood of St. Francis for 10 years. Six years ago she came to Pendleton in hopes that an increasing trouble with her lungs would be relieved by this climate. But her health gradually declined, until a year ago she became satisfied that she was really afflicted with consumption, a conclusion which she hesitated to accept and did not until about a year ago. She was a teacher in St. Francis Academy. Her funeral occurred this morning and her remains were interred in the Catholic cemetery.

MEETING NOW IN SESSION

A conference between the agricultural committee of the Lewis and Clark Fair and rose enthusiasts and experts of this city is being held in the office of the company at 248 Washington street. This committee has decided to go to work at once arranging for a growing agricultural exhibit, which will include a rose garden. George W. Riddle and J. C. Cooper, out-of-town members of this committee, arrived this morning from Riddle and McMinnville, respectively, so as to attend this meeting.

WILL SPEAK ON TONGUE

(Journal Special Service.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—When the House met Henderson appointed Moody of Oregon to preside over tomorrow's session, when eulogies will be delivered on the lives of the late T. H. Tongue of Oregon, Yumple of Iowa and Moody of North Carolina.

THREE GOVERNORS AS GUESTS

(Journal Special Service.)
PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 21.—The Creve Coeur Club has made elaborate arrangements for its annual banquet tonight. Three governors are among those who have accepted invitations to speak—Governor Yates of Illinois, Governor Durbin of Indiana and Governor Cummins of Iowa.

WAS FIRST TO GIVE RESULTS

Journal Beat Competitors in Senatorial Bulletins.

Magnificent Service Direct From the State House at Salem to Portland Public.

Acting upon its policy to always be first with the news at all times, the Journal last evening gave to the public of Portland the first information of the election of Charles W. Fulton as United States Senator.

Not only was this paper the first to announce the result of the joint balloting at Salem, but it gave the intelligence of the progress of the fight in the Legislature. Bulletin boards were located at the leading hotels and at several other points in the city and as fast as The Journal's corps of trained newsgatherers at Salem could put the news on the wire the latest information concerning the progress of the struggle for the toga was placed before the public.

Bulletins were issued from The Journal office at intervals of two or three minutes until the situation became more tense, and then bulletin after bulletin followed each other with but a few seconds intervening.

On all sides were heard expressions of admiration and praise for the magnificent news service of The Journal. But that is the way The Journal does business. "All the news, all the time, and always first," is the motto of this newspaper.

FOR CENTRAL OREGON TRADE

A special committee of the Portland Board of Trade presented resolutions this afternoon to the Executive Board, urging immediate extension of transportation facilities into Central Oregon in order that Portland may retain the trade of that section.

The committee, T. B. Potter and E. M. Branjek, pass severe strictures on the officials of the Columbia Southern for their inactivity.

They recommend the appointment of a committee to act in conjunction with a committee of the Chamber of Commerce to investigate the cause of the Columbia Southern's inactivity and ascertain the feasibility of other routes, and do all other things necessary for the opening up of Central Oregon to settlement.
