

Yes, tomorrow is Washington's Birthy. It would be intensly interesting to know just what he thought of the day d how he kept it.

One can get an inkling of what was rch. Now, in February, 1752, he had at returned from the Barbadoes with brother, Lawrence, whose serious illas must have made the 22d only one of many sad days.

On February 21, 1776, he wrote to the President of Congress of his plans to take Boston from Cambridge. He told of the hard work it was to get supplies of the hard work it was and ammunition ready.

February 22, 1778, must have had just one ray of light. The great hero was at Valley Forge with the army. while his enemies were trying to get Gates appointed commander-in-chief in his stead. On the 20th came a letter from Patrick Henry full of kind words and promises to do his best to keep Washington in command. And 1780 was not much better. February 22 found him wintering at Morristown. New Jersey, with an army whose ra-tions seldom included both bread and meat and sometimes neither one.

But Washington has left an account of the way he spent one of his birthdays in a diary kept for a time when first President of this country. On February 1 he writes:

"Have taken Mr. McCombs' house, lately occupied by the Minister of France, for one year. This day sent my secretary to examine rooms to see how my furniture could be adapted to the respective apartments."

"February 22.—Set seriously about removing my furniture to my new home. Two of the gentlemen of the family had their beds taken there, and would sleep there tonight."

EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

C. Stumberg.

Mrs. W. H. Grindstaff gave a progressive cinch party Wednesday afternoon The house looked as pretty as possible with decorations of Oregon grape and pussy willows, while the red-shaded globes and candles gave just the needed touch of color. The hand-painted score-cards used at the eight tables were very pretty. Pussy willows with the initial "G" were on some, and a pussy's head on the others. An unusual, and, as it proved, most successful plan of serving the refreshments in a pause of the game ed Mrs. McCully had won the first prize and Mrs. Herbert Caldwell the second. while Mrs. Warren Knight was the fortunate possessor of the consolation.

Mrs. George B. Schark, Miss Mollie Murphy and the Misses Sutherland of Astoria assisted Mrs. Grindstaff during

Thursday Night Club.

The basket social given by the Thursday Night Club at its cosy hall in the G. A. R. Building was most suc-cessful. The committee, Miss Marie Leisure, Miss Ethel McFarland, Miss Filla Hevlund, Mr. Martin E. Kuhns and Mr. Andrew Parloff, did good work. The prize winners were Miss Hattle Brown, Miss Marie Leisure, Miss Tressle Edholm and Mrs. B. L. Beckett. The judges -Mr. Peter Rudolph, Mr. A. W. Kline and Miss Nealand. The amateur theatrical committee gave an encouraging report of plays in preparation.

St. Ann's Society.

One of the very pleasantest parties this week was given by the St. Ann's Society at the Western Academy of Music Wednesday evening. February The hall had been decorated under the direction of Mrs. J. P. O'Brien and Mrs. P. J. Flynn; in fact, they had done most of the work and it looked as pretty as pussy willows, Oregon grape and cedar could make it. Every light was softened with delicate pink shades and long streamers of pink paper crossed from each chandelier to meet the strands of cedar in the center of the room. Ever-Orchestra furnished excellent music, for of course dancing was the special feature of the evening.

The party was ye real old Colonial affair, so the good old dances found their way back to the program. opening grand march had a real old-time flavor, Mrs. J. W. Watson, Mrs. I. Law-ler, Mrs. C. guests, distributing programs as the grand march came to a close. The climax of the evening came when the Vir-ginia Reel was announced. Everyone had an idea how the old favorite should be danced, but some of the ideas proved very hazy when put to practical test. It was one dance the spectators enjoyed quite as much as the participants.

Whist was played progressively in the reception room for those who preferred ards. The prizes offered were won by Mrs. George W. Schmidt and Mr. C. J. Il Malarkey, while the consolution gifts were at last the property of Mrs. Kathrine Daly and Dr. George W. Schmit.

Punch was served during the evening. lete-a-tete tables were scattered about for those who cared to enjoy the more substantial ice cream and cake. The president, Mrs. J. Lotan, was unble to be present, and the vice-presi-

With Mr. and Mrs. M. A. M. Ashley. The George Washington party to riven by Mr. and Mrs. M. A. M. Ashley this evening promises to be a very bright affair. The house is a real camp for flags are everywhere and pussy willows and Oregon grape give a suggestion of outdoor things. The game of the evening is to be military cinch, and the score ards are to bear the well-known faces of George and Martha Washington. The winners of the first prizes will carry away dainty china plates, and those successful in a second degree will have pic tures of scenes in Washington's life to remember a pleasant 22d of February Solitaire is called a consolation game the prizes to fall to the losers are packs of Washington cards. The tional idea is to be carried out in the refreshments. The punch to be served will float cherries in memory of the fruit never allowed to ripen on one particular tree. At the Bishop Scott Academy.

As the invitations sent out for the Bishop Scott Academy party foretold, pleasure did indeed reign within the walls last night. At 8 o'clock mysterious figures muffled in dominos and masques began to flit about, with an ocafter, the Spanish Students struck up a spirited measure and a pretty confetti march began. The ranks wound in and out through the halls and recreation rooms, which were bowers of cedar and fir. The cloud of confetti that filled the air gave a very pretty effect. When the fun of unmasking was over the guests flitted into the ballroom and "tripped a measure." Supper was served in the dining room during the evening. The decorations were most artistic, Oregon grape being used effectively about the room. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs
