MAY DAY TAXES LATE SATURDAY

Workingmen May Save the Three Per Cent.

Sheriff Storey Says He Will Keep Tax Office Open After the Usual Closing Hours.

It can be announced that arrangements will be effected whereby labor ing men may pay Sheriff Storey their taxes after the scheduled time for closing the collector's office next Saturday. This being the last week in which three per cent may be saved by prompt payment, this forethought on the Sheriff's part is favorably commented upon by artisans, clerks and other working people who do not receive their wages until after the tax office is closed Saturday. It is stated on good authority erty owners will be benefited in this way.

Many Were Anxious.

The Journal has received several communications from working men in which is stated their inability to secure the three per cent reduction because they do not receive wages until the day's work is over Saturday, and by that time the collector's office has been closed. H. P. Howard, 149 Gomez street, in a letter to The Journal says: "I am a property owner and would gladly avail myself of the three per cent reduction on my taxes, but my pay is not due until 6 o'clock Saturday night. If some arrangement could be made which would keep the tax office open until 7 or 8 o'clock the coming Saturday night many others as well as myself, would be greatly benefited.

Sheriff Storey Talks.

Some provision will be made which will make it possible for working men to pay their taxes after the usual closing hour Saturday. Just what those conditions will be. I cannot state at present, but there will be no hardship handed out to small taxpayers who can only secure the three per cent reduction by paying their taxes after the usual closing hour." Friday evening The Journal will publish the extra hours the Tax Collector's office will be open. It is understood that only such persons may then pay their taxes as are unable to get their wages until the week's work is over.

A forecast made at the collector's of-Ace this morning, estimates that the repelpts this week will probably reach $1.000,000. All day a line of taxpayers, reaching out into the corridor of the court house, stood waiting in turn. Many of the heaviest property owners are availing themselves of the last days strong were the payments at noon today that several clerks were set at work checking up for tomorrow's business.

TO HOLD A MEETING

Packing People Wish to Confer Before Acting.

The incorporators of the Columbia Packing Company smell a rat somewhere. They will not commence arranging for the establishment of a packing plant in Portland until they meet with some of Portland's leading citizens. Either today or tomorrow there will be a meeting of Channing M. Ward of Evansville, Wyo., and D. S. Kramer of Pittsburg, two of the incorporators of the company, who are at present in the city, and some of Portland's leading people.

The reason for the conference as given by the gentlemen is that they desire considerable information before taking action. The meeting will probably be held in the rooms of the Board of Trade. Those who will be invited to attend this

JAPS ARE DISCHARGED.

Justice Reed this morning discharged the four Japanese defendants in the case of Multnomah County against S. Taniyani and others. They were charged with assaulting Knute Thompson, section foreman for the O. R. & N. Railway Company at Bonneville. They were alleged to have done a great deal of violence in that town, being charged with malicious destruction of property, as well as assaulting their foreman.

The four little brown fellows did not look very ferocious in court this morn ing, and from the remarks of Justice Reid it would appear as though he thought there had been much ado about nothing. The Sheriff of Multnomah County arrested the little Japs, together with a federal official. They tied the Japs hand and feet, and gave out that they were a bad gang, and would kill any one if given a chance.

Little Girl Gave Vent to Feelings at Marquam.

Although none who saw Miss Nance O'Nell, the famous actress, in the plays presented by her company during the ngagement which closed Saturday night, will not say her work was of the highest, there was a time when at the most solemn part of "Camille" the tears of the audience turned to shouts of mirth. It was during the Saturday afternoon matinee. Those who were in attendance and saw and heard say it must doubtless have required the exertion of all Miss O'Neil's great will to prevent her from at least momentarily surrendering the part she played and joining the general laughter. The fact that she did not do so adds another sprig of laurel to her crown of merit.

During the great death bed scene, when Camille is supposed to be in the last stages of consumption, she seeks to perform one last act before yielding up the tired spirit of life.
