TO GOLDENDALE BY RAIL, MAY 1

C. R. & N. to Be Completed by Then.

Regular Trains From Southern Washington Points to Connect With Steamer Line.

H. C. Campbell, general manager for the Columbia River & Northern, is authority for the statement that by the end of April trains will be running from Lyle to Goldendale, and it is the intention of the company to place the steamer Regulator back upon The Dalles run within the next 15 days.

"We have all bridge work completed," said Mr. Campbell to a reporter for The Journal, "and will go ahead with the grading and track-laying as rapidly as possible. The work has been somewhat retarded from time to time by inclement weather, but I think the time is past when that will have anything to do with delays. We have plenty of material and enough rolling stock to keep the road in running order and we expect to do a thriving business when our lines have been completed into that new and rich country, opening to railroad transportation much which has in the past been brought to market only after long and fatiguing hauls by team."

No Mount Adams Extension.

It has been rumored that the Columbia River & Northern Railroad would build into the district about the base of Mount Adams, but this is denied by General Manager Campbell.

"I do not believe that there is sufficient business in that country at the present time to warrant an expenditure such as would be necessitated by such a road," he said. "We will make extensions from time to time as there is demand for them, and as we see that freight business would give us recompense, but we do not propose to go into any wildcat movements at the beginning."

Reports from Goldendale and other points in Southern Washington, which are to be included in the route of the Columbia River & Northern, are to the effect that the people generally are greatly pleased with the prospect of the road being completed in time to handle the 1903 crop.

"We will put regular trains on the run to Goldendale as soon as the track is completed," said Mr. Campbell, "and everything will be hauled to Lyle, where it will be reshipped on our river steamers and brought to Portland. All Southern Washington business will thus be made tributary to this city."
