He quoted the following constitutional

"In all criminal prosecutions the ac-cused shall have the right to a public trial by an impartial jury. In a crim-inal action the testimony of a witness must be given orally in the presence of the court and jury, except in the case of a witness whose testimony is taken by deposition, by order of the court in pursuance of the consent of the parties." There was a pathetic scene in Judge Frazer's conrt room today. Charles Houghton, alles "Chick" Houghton, is having his second trial for alleged robbery of Steve Balch the night of November 7, 1902.

Young Houghton sits at the table with his attorney. W. T. Hume. Just behind him sits his aged father and mother. uary, and upon being convicted, received Mr. Houghton is blind, and the mother sobs now and then, as, holding her husband's hand, she leans over and whispers a word to him A year ago the father of "Chick" Joughton had worldly possessions sufficient to keep the wolf from the door during the remainder of his life. Rid of the blessings of sight he had consolation which was, that during the days when he could see and work he had been industrious and had laid aside enough to tide over a few years should misfortune come. Misfortune did come. He lost his sight. More misfortune came. His son went wrong. Charles began going in bad company. The crisis came last November when he was ar rested for robbery. He was tried and convicted, and received a sentence of eight years in the Salem penitentiary. A new trial was secured on a technicality when the case was appealed to the Supreme Court, Ball was granted by the court and the old father went security for his son to the amount of $2,000. And now the final arraignment, and when it is over, no matter which way It goes, the father will have spent about all he had to defend his son.

Not ill-looking is young Houghton, as he sits in the court room; still there is a hardness about the face that comes from dissipation and dissolute ways. What Accused Of.

Last November, late one night, "Chick" Houghton was drinking and carousing in the Mint Saloon on Fourth street, between Flanders and Everett streets. He lacked money, so it is said, and the prosecution in its complaint alleges that Steve Balch, who happened to be in the place at the time, had money and Houghton knew it. At any rate, Balch testified that he left the saloon, and was followed by Houghton, who robbed him of a $7 check, a $5 gold piece, and $14 in silver money. When Houghton was convicted the first time, the jury found him guilty of assault with attempt to rob. The new trial was secured by the Supreme Court ruling that the identification of Houghton by Balch, by means of a photograph, was hearsay evidence. What the verdict will be this time can tion held in Portland last year, touching not be stated, as Balch has no other means at this time of identifying young Houghton than by photograph. And so it is believed that the blind father and structions to the executive council for the grief-stricken mother will again have their conduct of the organization. Gentlemen—We have used WARNER'S SAFE CURE in our family for sev-eral years. My husband used it when he had backache and kliney trouble, and it cured him. And I am pleased to state that I also have used it successfully. It cured a cold that settled in my back and kidneys, and which caused me intense suffering and puln. With locs of sleep my health became impaired. I took only four bottles of Safe Cure and was completely cured, and now I am as en-thusiastic in its praise as my husband, and shall be pleased to recommend it to my friends.

There are so many medicines that are worthless that it is a pleasure to find one that can be absolutely depended upon to do more than is claimed for it. Very sincerely yours, MRS ESTELLE CLAYTON, 554 Adelaide Street, Toronto, Canada. "Secretary Club Ouvrier.

Report of President.

G. Y. Harry, president of the Federation, reported in part as follows: "To the delegates of the first annual convention of the State Federation of Labor:

"The purposes for which this organization was perfected havy been carried out during the past year by your executive officers to the best of their ability. In making my report to this convention it is impossible for me to cover all the matters that have been handled by your state organization. The principal reason for the organization of the State Federation was to promote new unions throughout our state and to bring into our ranks the unorganized workers of Oregon. When the State Federation was organized last year at 'Portland we had in six different towns in Oregon, outside of Portland, about 32 different labor unions. We have now in the state, outside of Pertland, I am glad to report. In 22 different towns more than 130 differ-

The impetus given the labor movement by the organization of the State Federation is responsible for the phenomenal growth of the movement in our state. A Broad Organization.

"While it is not necessary that we have any cast-iron rules governing a labor organization, it should at the same time be as broad and comprehensive as possible so as not to hamper or interfore with the work of those who are entrusted with the duties of carrying out the purposes of the organization.

"One recommendation that I would suggest to the convention is that the permanent meeting place of our annual convention be fixed at Portland. The reason for this recommendation will appeal to the judgment of all our delegates from the fact that Portland is the center of the state, and to hold our onvention at any other point necessitates too much expense upon the unions outside of the city.

To Abolish Treasurer.

"I would also recommond that the office of treasurer be abolished, and that the secretary of the state branch ent labor unions. These unions have be designated as secretary-treasurer. Closer Affiliation.

"I would like to ask the earnest at tention of this convention to the plan of bringing about closer affiliation of the different State Federations of the Pacific Coast, and in this connection call your attention to the fact that your president made a visit to the convention of the Washington State Federation at Seattle the 5th of last January for the purpose of recommending to that convention that fraternal delegates be elected to meet with us at this time. I am very much pleased to be able to report that my efforts were entirely successful and that we have with us three land. gentlemen representing the Washington State Federation as fraternal delegates, as well as the president of the Washington branch, and I would suggest that our convention suspend the rules and elect at the very earliest possible moment three fraternal delegates from our convention to meet with our brothers from Washington during the session of this convention that they may formulate a plan to bring about a closer concert of action between the two state organizations. And that they be requested to at once form themselves into a committee and report back to this convention such recommendations as they may see fit to offer. I would further suggest that this committee be advised that it is the sense of this convention that their plans be made broad and comprehensive enough to take in all the states on the Pacific

Valentine, an employe of the Troy Laun dry, telephoned to Mrs. Brace last night that he met her son in front of a saloon at the corner of Third and Burnside streets at 6 o'clock Sunday. He said they went into the saloon and took a drink of beer together.

This morning at 2 o'clock the telephone rang at police headquarters. Cap-tain Parker answered it. Al Wallace, tain Parker answered it. Al Wallace, proprietor of a saloon at the corner of Fifth and Stark streets, was speaking from the other end of the line. He said that young Holland appeared in his establishment at midnight, in company with another man. He told Captain Parker that Holland was spending his money freely and was intoxicated, as was also his companion. Early this morning a telephone mes-sage, evidently coming from a woman, was received at The Journal office. "Holland is locked in a room now, and will be home shortly." This morning Mrs. Brace appeared at the police station for tidings of her boy. When informed that he had been seen in saloons by at least two men she seemed not at all surprised. In fact, Mrs. Brace stated to The Journal yesterday that her son sometimes drank. She said he was easily led into wrong doing, and she thought perhaps that was the trouble this time. At 9 o'clock this marning Mrs. Brace was called to the telephone at the police station and was informed that her son had returned. She rushed home at once.
