HOME INDUSTRY

Officer of International Cigarmakers in City.

Will Remain Here Two Weeks and Visit Unions-Buy Home Made Cigars.

For the past several weeks the local Cigarmakers' Union has been doing everything in its power, to interest the general public in the blue label and the nome industry principle. The various locals throughout the country have also taken up the work, and the leaders in the organization are confident that their efforts will be attended with success. One of their favorite methods has been to advertise extensively the union label and to explain why it is that a city or community would benefit if the home industry idea should be faithfully carried out. Their arguments along this line are supported with figures.

Luke Kelly, business agent of the Cigarmakers' International Union of America, is in the city to assist in putting the home industry theory properly before the people. His headquarters are at Butte, Mont., and he is one of five international officers who are working on the same proposition in various sections of the United States. In an interview this morning, Mr. Kelly said:

Adds to Payroll. "Our aim is to establish union factories in every town of any size in the When we succeed in unionizing a factory we exert every influence at our command to induce the public to give it liberal patronage. If our advice is heeded the town in which the factory is situated will reap an untold benefit. "Take Portland as an example. There are only about 50 cigarmakers here, but as a matter of fact there ought to be There would be that number if the cigar consumer would buy exclusivehome-made goods instead of buying the Eastern product. Now, if there were 250 more cigarmakers here, just see what it would mean to this city. The average cigarmaker receives $20 per week in wages and this would represent an increased disbursement of $5,000 in the city's payroll. It can thus easily be seen that if the citizens would take this matter up they could easily increase the wealth of the city to no small extent. Every Eastern cigar purchased here is just the same as sending three cents out of this section of the country. Will Visit Unions.

"I intend to remain at Portland two weeks, and will visit every union in the I will endeavor to impress upon their minds the importance of purchasing home-made cigars. It seems that they ought to do this without being requested to do so. Here every one knows that cigars are made in shops where the best of conditions prevail. But this cannot be said of many of the Eastern fac-tories. Take the Henry George, the Childs and the Cremo cigars, for in-stance; they are all made in tenementhouses by women and children. Any one who is a consistent believer in the abolition of child labor cannot use any of those goods. Mr. Kelly has covered Montana, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming pretty thor

Wenzel Kopta of San Francisco, and one of the greatest American violinists of the day, gave a splendid recital at the Marquam Theatre last night. large and appreciative audience greeted the virtuoso and listened to the master pieces with rapt attention. Kopta was ecompanied on the piano by John B. Warburton of San Francisco. Mr. War burton has a strong personality, al-though he showed to some disadvantage last night. Not being the regular accompanist of Kopta he followed the violinist in some scores with conspicuous difficulty.

Kopta himself is a wizard, and this fact was felt when dreamily he began his first number, Paganini's "Second Concerto." There is a wonderfully alturing persuasion in Kopta's playing, and those who had not before heard really great violinists, did not realize that such soul-stirring tones could be produced from the violin. For his first number he was encored and responded with the sextette from "Lucia di Lammermoor." Probably the most pleasing rendition given last night was the diffi-cult "Spanish Dances" by Sarasate. During the rendition of the program Kopta seemed to be lost in the grandeur of his art and like Ole Bull, the master of them all, he awakened only when McEwen is Coming.

McEwen, the great hypnotist and magician, one of the best, if not the best, man in his line of entertainment, has been engaged for a week at the Marquam Grand, opening next Monday evening. His own performance this season is more varied and pleasing than ever before, combining as it does a most startling and mystifying exhibit of hypotism with a variety of new and pleasing lot of tricks of magic. Many of these have been originated by McEwen imself, and have never been seen here while those which have been presented by other performers are given by Mo-Ewen in a style and manner entirely new. EcEwen's own performance is supplemented by another particularly strong feature. This is Newton Smith. a great solo cornetist, formerly of Sousa's and the Marine of Washington

Denman Thompson and George W. Ryer's latest New England idyl, "Our this Bunday closing is to the effect, that New Minister," will be presented at the no person shall keep open any store, Marquam Grand Theatre next Thursday, shop, grocery, ball alley, billiard room Friday, Saturday matinee and night. The claim that it is the best of New England dramas is fully substantiated, the idea of making a minister with liberal views the central figure is a novel one, and the close attention given by audiences everywhere to all that is said and done in the play attests the wisdom of the experienced authors in their choice. "Our New Minister" is full of interesting types, and the atmosphere of the small New England town is excellently preserved. It abounds in noble and sublime sentiment, interspersed with rich humor and keen wit. It produces more genuine applause, and a greater number of hearty laughs than any play of its character ever produced in this country. The company that appears here is the original one, and the scenic production is a credit to the American stage, Seats are now selling.

The petition of Mary Blake for $400 damages for injuries sustained by tripping on a defective walk at Milwankle street was, on the advice of the City Attorney placed on file, though the members of the board thought that when people walked about on the streets of the city they took some risks which they should not expect the city to be responsible for R. OPPOSE SABBATH OPENING OF FAIR

Earnest Discussions at Ministerial Meeting.

Dismal Failure Prophesied if Gates Retain Open on the Lord's Day.

That the Lewis and Clark Fair shall not be opened on Sunday was the prin cipal subject of discussion at the meet ing of the Fortland Ministerial Association yesterday, and the members will do all within their power to effect this end. A committee was appointed to pay especial attention to this feature and to head off any attempt at what seems to them a desecration of the Sabbath.

Rev. C. H. Daniels of Boston predicted failure for the Fair if the gates were kept open on the day of rest.

Rev. J. F. Ghermley, pastor of the First Christian Church, made a short and to-the-point address on the inadvisability of Sunday opening. He said, in part, as follows:

"The Lewis and Clark Memorial will be an event in which all should have a just pride. Our pride does not spring from the mere fact of achievement, but rather from the power which achieves

We have as a people in times of great peril implored Divine protection and our prayers have been answered. Now, in times of peace, it would be unpardonable ingratitude to ignore that all-directing and sustaining power by an open violation of Divine law. The civil authority which requires obedience to law cannot afford to set the example of lawbreaking. We may safely infer that neither the general government nor the states represented at the Fair will open their exhibits on the Lord's Day. The local managers of the Exposition have other than financial interests at stake. The securing of their property and profits depend upon the righteousness of our people. Hear me: The standard of rightsousness in this Republic is Jesus the Christ, our Lord. The Lord's Day is the one specific, divinely appointed day for instruction in righteousness, and must be recognized or forfeit the security which Christianity brings. the question of profit the only one to be considered, it is doubtful whether, with many of the exhibits closed, the gate receipts on the Lord's Day would pay expenses.

"It may be argued that we had better turn the multitudes into the Fair on Sundays than into the saloons. In the first place it is not a saloon crowd coming. It will be a time of great religlous and kindred conventions on the Pacific Coast. The best people on the earth will be here. In the second place, the saloons ought to be compelled to close their doors on every Sunday in the year, Fair or no Fair. "No argument from expedience can justify the choosing of the lesser of two evils. If the lesser evil is chosen it then becomes the greater

"Our society is constantly becoming more complex. With this increasing complexity we must have due regard for each other's rights. These rights are expressed in civil law. The law on or tippling house, for purpose of labor or traffic, or any place of amusement, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or the Lord's Day.' The laws of Oregon further declare that: 'No person shall keep open any house or room in which intoxicating liquor is kept for retail, on the first day of the week, commonly called Sunday, or give or sell or otherwise dispose of intoxicating liquors on that day." "That the saloons keep open now on the first day of the week and that the managers of Sunday theatres trample the law under their feet, and that all kinds of games and amusements are constantly carried on in violation of every law sacred and secular, is no reason why we should go further in transgression by opening the Exposition on Sunday. "Let us today put the discussion of this 'Sunday closing, question on high ground. The desecration of this day is not only sinful in itself, but it is also a symptom of a malady. If ye love me you will keep my commandments,' said the master." A motion was made by Rev. C. E.

Cline to take under consideration the erection of a church building at the Fair. This came in the nature of a surprise and as it was at a late hour that the motion was made, it was not seconded, but will later be given considera-

Theatrical Notes.

Portland is the only city in the Northwest in which is published a booklet devoted exclusively to theatrical doings. The Portland Theatrical Guide is the name of a very neat weekly pamphlet. filled with advance theatrical matter, reviews, programs and well printed halftones. One particularly unique feature of the Guide is a life drawing appearing each week as a supplement. The work is executed by Mrs. F. S. Ballard, wife of Mr. Ballard, one of the managers of the publication. This week there appears from her pencil a profile of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, drawn on the Gibson style. The work is artistic and clever.
