

RUSSIA RENEWS AGGRESSION BY SEIZING TREATY PORT AND DIPLOMATS BELIEVE MOVE FORESHADOWS WAR

LARGE FORCE OF CZAR'S TROOPS TAKE POSSESSION OF NEW CHWANG

Weakened China Will Appeal to the U. S. and Europe.

Washington Much Surprised and Worried at the Move.

(Journal Special Service.) WASHINGTON, May 8.—The State Department received today from China official information of the re-occupation of New Chwang by the Russians.

The greatest reticence is observed by officials of the department, but it is plainly evident they are exceedingly surprised and much worried over Russia's action.

They absolutely refuse to discuss the probable action of this country, but it is generally believed Ambassador McCormick at St. Petersburg has been directed to lodge a strong protest on behalf of the United States against this latest aggression of Russia.

China is so prostrated she is not in a position to offer any resistance but she will nevertheless appeal to the three powers, the United States, England and Japan, as these powers have so much at stake they must compel the evacuation of New Chwang even at the cost of hostilities.

Further Aggression. LONDON, May 8.—In spite of her statement that she would not force her way further into the Chinese Empire, Russia continues to advance.

A dispatch from Shanghai this morning states that Russia is establishing and extending independent telegraph lines despite the protests of the Chinese in Tukestan. Prince Ching, head of the Chinese foreign office, has vainly objected to the encroachment.

CHIEF OF RUSSIA

MARQUIS ITO

Whose latest move in the Far East has set the whole world talking of war, Nicholas declares he is only demanding his rights in China, but the other powers are still suspicious.

Japan's grand old man who is ready to fight at the drop of the glove unless the czar will modify his demand on China for possession of Manchuria.

Coup d'Etat Is Accomplished Having For Its Object Complete Russianization of All Manchuria.

(Journal Special Service.) LONDON, May 8.—Despite all promises which she made to the Powers recently, Russia has again taken the aggressive in China and has deliberately flouted the most powerful nations on the earth.

A dispatch received today by Reuters Agency from its Peking correspondent says that the latest move of Russia in the Orient is interpreted at the Chinese capital as meaning nothing less than a courting of war.

New Chwang, a treaty port at the mouth of the Liao, has been reoccupied by a large force of the czar's troops, and all the forts have been reorganized.

Changyn, Chinese Ambassador here, when shown the dispatch, says if it is true it is evident that a coup d'etat has been successfully accomplished, that has for its ultimate object the complete Russianization of all of Manchuria.

"This comes the nearest to foreshadowing what the Far East than any news has yet received," was the comment of the Oriental, who appeared greatly agitated at the information.

It is believed here that the late protestations of Russia that she really had no designs on the Orient that would conflict with the interests of other nations, particularly the United States, was made for the sole purpose of gaining time, that the czar's Ministers might put through the game that now appears to have been worked so adroitly.

England, Japan and the United States will be greatly affected by this action on the part of Russia, and it is believed in English official circles that the United States will join the other two Powers mentioned in an energetic effort to block the game of the czar.

It is not believed that France would stand with Russia in its campaign of aggression when this would undoubtedly be followed by war with two of the other greatest Powers of the world and probably another important, though less resourceful ally, Japan.

Russians Pour Into Korea. (Journal Special Service.) LONDON, May 8.—Yokohama dispatches says reports are in circulation there that Russian troops are pouring into Korea on the plea of protecting concessions of Russian citizens. Japan will enter a vigorous protest should the report be confirmed.

FALCONI VISITS SANTA BARBARA. (Journal Special Service.) SANTA BARBARA, May 8.—An impressive ceremony was held in the old Franciscan mission and a solemn reception rite was sung in honor of the visit of Archbishop Falconi, papal delegate to the United States.

He was met at the train by a delegation of fathers and escorted to the mission where a crowd of spectators had assembled. Arriving, he at once donned the Eucopial robes and led the way in a procession to the old church where 60 priests and brothers took part in the welcome. The delegate is to go north in a day or two.

As the representative of Leo XIII, the visit of the Archbishop marks an era in the history of the Catholic Church on this coast. This is the first occasion that an official delegate for the See of Rome has come across the continent. He will stay a week in San Francisco, where Catholic organizations are preparing to give him a fitting reception.

PERFECT RAIN OF FLOWERS

President Made a Target for Roses.

Laughing, Cheering Children Bombard Roosevelt at Claremont--Disappointed Soldiers.

(Journal Special Service.) CLAREMONT, May 8.—The President of the United States was today assailed on every side, but his assailants were those who loved him and the missiles they hurled were most fragrant roses.

Hundreds of school children were drawn up on either side of the road down which President Roosevelt's carriage passed to Pomona College, where he spoke. Each child had an armload of roses, and the bombardment of the Presidential carriage was affectionately furious.

The President caught several of the roses in his hands and hurled them back at the ranks of cheering children.

As the President ascended the stand in front of the principal college buildings the student body raised the Harvard yell, the cry of the college from which Mr. Roosevelt graduated. Stretched across the front of one of the buildings, lettered in white on a field of Harvard crimson, were the words: "Nine Kaha, His Alms Matter."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke for 15 minutes, directing his remarks both to the students and the members of the faculty. The needs of character and good citizenship as companions to a successful business career and individual ambition were points upon which he dwelt.

Cleveland Grays Pooled. The Presidential train reached Claremont at 9 o'clock and was met by a committee. The President was at once ushered into a waiting carriage and driven to the college.

The Cleveland Grays, who are in this part of the country on an excursion, are the maddest crowd of men in California today. They had arranged their itinerary to connect with the President at every stop from New Mexico to San Francisco. They got to Riverside yesterday and last night announced they would remain until this morning, then go up the road either just ahead of or just behind the President.

The officials of the road got a tip from the President's secretary that the Cleveland's continual presence was not quite as welcome to Mr. Roosevelt as flowers in spring and orders were at once issued to take their special out of Riverside last night. In vain the Grays asserted that they were not ready to leave. It was a case of go with the train then or go today without the train. They went.

President Planted Oranges. RIVERSIDE, May 8.—On the way to the railroad station from the hotel this morning President Roosevelt planted an orange tree in Glenwood Grounds. The tree is one of the two original navels sent to California by the Agricultural Department years ago, and from which all seedling oranges now grown in this state descended.

Last night the President was given a handsome book of views of Riverside, bound in leather and the gold badge of the Los Angeles Terrers.

Los Angeles Was a Garden. LOS ANGELES, May 8.—From Redlands down to Los Angeles it was one continuous ovation for President Roosevelt. Every station was crowded with children with wreaths of flowers in their hands, and with cheering men and women. Minute stops were made at Colton, Pomona and other points along the way.

At the station here the party was met by the citizens' committee and many distinguished people from all over California. An escort of artillery and seven companies of militia, acting as an escort, had difficulty in clearing a passage through the enormous crowds and conducting the distinguished visitors to the hotel. In the rotunda of the hotel the Mayor of Los Angeles formally greeted the Chief Executive and extended to him the freedom of the city. In his address he recalled the rather odd coincidence that it was on this same date two years ago that Los Angeles had extended a welcome to President Roosevelt's distinguished predecessor, William McKinley. The President responded in an appropriate speech, and then held a short public reception in the parlor of the hotel.

This afternoon the Presidential party witnessed a floral parade and a battle of flowers. The parade was one of the most splendid affairs of the kind ever seen here and included all varieties of bouquets handsomely decorated with blossoms of many varieties. The President enjoyed the sight immensely and whenever a particularly gorgeous vehicle went by he showed his appreciation by generous applause. The city was crowded with visitors and everywhere the President showed himself he was greeted with tumultuous cheers. Several features of entertainment have been arranged for this evening. The train will leave Los Angeles tomorrow morning on the hotel.

WIFE'S PRETTY SISTER LEADS HUSBAND ASTRAY

Violating All Laws of Common Hospitality Miss Eva Mallin Flees With John Wickham.

Forgetful of her sister's rights, and violating all laws of common hospitality and social ethics, Miss Eva Mallin fled to the love whisperings of John Wickham, her brother-in-law, accepted his proposal to elope from Eugene and today the pair are hunted by the police and sheriffs of the Northwest.

The happiness of a home is destroyed, marriage vows are broken, and a loving wife has been robbed of her husband through the charms and fascinations of her sister's lover.

The outcome of the affair is problematical, but Mrs. Mary Wickham, the wronged wife and sister, vows she will prosecute the case.

Eugene, Ore., was the scene of the elopement, which occurred last Monday night. Only one month previously Mrs. Wickham had extended a cordial invitation to her sister in a distant city to come and pay her a visit. Mrs. Wickham was so anxious to see her sister, from whom she had been separated for several months, that she forwarded cash for transportation. In a few days Miss Mallin arrived, and began at once to enjoy the love and hospitality of her sister's home.

Every desire of Miss Mallin's heart was gratified by her sister, who lavished upon her everything money could purchase in the way of luxuries and pleasures, such as drives about town, seats for the passing shows, together with the affection of a loving relative.

Makes Love to Sister. So devoted was Mrs. Wickham to her husband, and so fond was she of her pretty sister, that she failed to notice the attention paid Miss Mallin by the head of the house. Beautiful Miss Mallin was but 30 years of age, while her sister had reached the half-century mark.

Wickham was younger than his wife by ten years, and by nature loved an adventurous existence. Though quite well along in life, still he was fond of romance, and often while his gray-haired and faithful wife was toiling inside the house, the husband would stroll through the garden and the grove making love to the fair woman at his side—his wife's sister.

Miss Mallin, it seems, was not slow to admire, and at last to love her sister's husband, and when he vowed that he

At Pasadena. PASADENA, May 8.—President Roosevelt called upon Mrs. Garfield in this city and spent 15 minutes in chatting with her about her affairs and the White House. He made a speech from a reviewing stand at the High School. A thousand little children, crowned with roses, passed in review before him.

MINERS TELL OF THEIR TROUBLES Testimony Before the Royal Commission.

(Journal Special Service.) VICTORIA, B. C., May 8.—Before the Royal Commission inquiring into the strike at the Extension mines several miners gave evidence today.

They told of having to move from Extension to Ladysmith in order to hold work. The men complained that when they bought property and built at Extension they were told by Dunsmuir that they would not be interfered with. Later orders came that they must move to Ladysmith, eight miles away, where a new town was founded by Dunsmuir.

They object to living so far from work. Chief Justice Hunter told Dunsmuir's counsel that the onus was upon the colliery company to show that the men were not dealt with unfairly and that due notice was given them of the change.

The miners also complained of being laid off work simply because they were members of the union.

loved her more than his wife, and asked her to flee with him, she consented.

The dreadful truth of the situation did not dawn upon the forsaken wife until two days after her faithless husband and ungrateful sister fled from Eugene. They left the house ostensibly to take a short stroll, but failed to return. The anxious wife and sister remained up all night, vainly striving to construe their absence into some feasible form. The morning dawned, but still no trace of the missing ones. The Eugene police were called upon that day and immediately set to work to solve the mystery. It was quickly ascertained that Wickham and his sister had taken the north-bound train for Portland the previous night.

Wife Follows Elopers. It was then that Mrs. Wickham, vowing vengeance, started to track the elopers. She boarded the next train for this city and arrived here yesterday morning. Before partaking of breakfast she appeared at police headquarters, where she poured out her sad tale into the ears of Captain of Detectives Simmons.

"I will prosecute them to the full extent of the law," she dramatically declared. "Think of the injustice done me! Think how cruel of my sister, and how unworthy of my husband! But I might have known it, my sister is young, beautiful, while I am old. Yes, this terrible thing was to be expected. I might have known it was mere folly to marry a man younger than myself. God knows I did not believe that Eva would steal him from me. But I will repay them for their villainy—I'll hand them both in the penitentiary."

Captain Simmons detailed detectives on the case, and it was soon learned that the elopers had been in Portland. They evidently did not remain more than a few hours, however. Wednesday Mrs. Wickham received a letter from her husband, in which he stated that he loved her sister, and that they were going further north than Portland. The letter was posted from Portland.

The police have ascertained that Wickham and Miss Mallin left Portland last night for Seaside. Sheriff Linville, who is in the city today, has telegraphed instructions to his office at Astoria to investigate the matter, and a deputy will leave for Seaside on the next train from Astoria.

LABOR SEEKS RELIEF

Injunction Is Asked Against Western Union.

Telegraphers Apply to Courts to Restrain Company From Discharging Union Men.

(Journal Special Service.) ST. LOUIS, May 8.—Use of the injunction to protect the rights of workmen and against oppression from employers was made today by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America when that organization made application in the United States District Court for an injunction to restrain the Western Union Telegraph Company from discharging union operators in its employ.

The petition was filed before Judge Adams, who consented to render the famous Wabash Railroad injunction. According to allegations made in the complaint of the telegraphers, General Manager Clowry, at the head of the Western Union system, recently issued orders of a sweeping character requiring district managers to discharge from their employ all operators who are members of any labor union. It is to prevent the carrying into effect of this order that the injunction is sought.

It is further charged in the complaint that the Western Union is a trust and that its dictatorial policy is in violation of and an infringement upon the Constitutional rights of its employees.

Judge Adams has not yet heard the arguments in the case.

S. P. BOILERMEN WILL ALSO STRIKE

Sympathise With Those of the Union Pacific.

(Journal Special Service.) SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Boilermakers of the Southern Pacific system go out tomorrow night.

Four hundred and twenty men employed in the shops at Sacramento, Oakland, Ogden, San Francisco, Portland, Los Angeles, Bakersfield and Tucson are affected. Unless something is done soon, the engines will be in great need of overhauling, and the service badly crippled. President Harriman is perturbed on account of the present action, but will not talk for publication.

Thirty days ago the Southern Pacific Boilermakers' Union of this city notified that company that unless it ceased sending out its engines for use on the Union Pacific, all boilermakers in the local shops would go on a strike. The time limit expired today and advice was requested by wire from the Grand Lodge of Boilermakers at Omaha. A reply was received that the matter had been taken up and that action would be taken by Monday. It is believed here that a general strike will result.

TRY TO WRECK THEATRE TRAIN

BAKERSFIELD, May 8.—A spiked switch, which was discovered last night at a point a mile above this city, was undoubtedly the work of miscreants who sought to wreck a theatre train which left for San Francisco at 11:45 o'clock. A similar attempt was made recently at Fresno. Engineers all along the line have been instructed to exercise great care in entering yards.

No bad results followed the attempt of last night, on account of lack of time being given for the miscreant to drive the spike. The engine passed over the
