

A GRATIFYING EXPRESSION OF THE LOYALTY OF OUR STATE

CIVILIANS IN LINE WITH THE SOLDIERS

Military and Regulars—Schools Turn Out Their Full Quota of Lusty Young Americans—Pretty Girls and a Plentitude of Choice Flowers.

THE SPECIAL AT A CALIFORNIA TOWN

President Roosevelt speaking to a gathering of people at a town of California. Taken especially for The Journal.

(Continued from First Page.)

L. McGrew, Senator C. W. Fulton, Congressman J. N. Williamson.

Fifth carriage—Reserved for guests of the President.

Sixth carriage—H. A. Coleman, R. H. Hazard, Lindsay Denison, Wm. D. Wheelwright.

Seventh carriage—R. L. Dunn, N. Lazarnick, C. B. Bellinger, Levi Ankeny.

Eighth carriage—Geo. B. Luckey, H. A. Strohmeyer, L. Zimmerman, A. L. Mills.

Ninth carriage—F. W. Williams, J. P. Gooch, E. E. Beach, Wm. D. Fenton.

Tenth carriage—Major Wm. Hancock Clark, John Barrett, Paul Westinger, J. M. Church.

Eleventh carriage—Robert Livingstone, John L. Wilson, Most Rev. A. Christie, Rev. A. A. Morrison, D. D.

Twelfth carriage—General Frederick Funston, Colonel B. J. Craigie, Major R. K. Evans, Lieutenant H. J. Mitchell.

Thirteenth carriage—Lieutenant Colonel T. E. Wilcox, Colonel W. F. Tucker, Colonel J. McE. Hyde, Major W. C. Langfitt.

Fourteenth carriage—Major Lea Febriger, Captain W. A. Bethel, Colonel F. E. Nye, Lieutenant Colonel E. T. C. Richmond.

Fifteenth carriage—General C. U. Gantenbein, Colonel D. M. Dunne, Colonel S. C. Spencer, Colonel Jas. Jackson.

Sixteenth carriage—Frank I. Dunbar, Chas. S. Moore, J. H. Ackerman, A. M. Crawford.

Seventeenth carriage—F. A. Moore, C. E. Wolverton, R. S. Bean, W. P. Lord.

Eighteenth carriage—A. Bush, Z. F. Moody, T. T. Geer, Malcolm A. Moody.

Nineteenth carriage—F. O. Young, Rufus Mallory, Binger Hermann, W. A. MacRae.

Twentieth carriage—John B. Cleland, M. C. George, A. F. Sears, Jr., A. L. Frazer.

Twenty-first carriage—Arthur K. Bentley, A. F. Fiegel, G. E. Rumlind, B. F. Caldwell.

Twenty-second carriage—F. H. Hopkins, W. L. Boise, R. L. Durham, J. H. Albert.

Twenty-third carriage—H. R. Albee.

Lieutenant Colonel John T. Van Arsdale, commanding United States troops, Band—Seventeenth Infantry, U. S. A. Second Battalion Seventeenth Infantry, U. S. A., Major Chas. A. Booth, commanding.

Twenty-sixth Battery, U. S. A., Captain H. L. Hawthorne, commanding.

Third Infantry Band, O. N. G.

Third Regiment Infantry, O. N. G., Colonel E. Everett, commanding.

Light Battery A. O. N. G., Captain H. U. Welch, commanding.

De Caprio's Band.

The Human Flag.

As the procession passed Alder street the human flag, composed of school children under the direction of Professor—, assumed position in line. Following this unique event were:

Cadets, Hill Military Academy, Captain J. R. Martin, commanding.

Battalion Cadets, State Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or., Major F. E. Edwards, commanding.

Uniformed Rank, Woodmen of the World, Colonel H. L. Day, commanding.

Southern Pacific Band.

Cadets, Bishop Scott Academy, Major W. Otto Rudy, commanding.

Independent Order of Odd Fellows, J. C. Jameson, commanding.

Letter Carriers' Band.

Letter Carriers and Postal Employees, Hon. F. A. Baneroff, commanding.

Mount Angel Band.

Italian Colony, John Cordano, commanding.

Industrial Band.

Colored Citizens, W. L. Brady, commanding.

Company of American-born Chinese, Captain Seld Back, Jr., commanding.

Portland Military Cadets.

his beauty scheme. The big room is finished in white and red. No bunting or flags will be placed in the room, but pink roses by the hundred will enrich the tables. There will be three tables, a large one in the center of the hall, oval in shape with plates for 44. Two side tables will seat 10 each. A tree of soft colored flowers will cover the center of the large table with beds of pink roses and lilies of the valley around it. Palms and ferns decorate the corners of the room.

The passage leading to the dining hall is filled on either side with stands of huge white lilies and clusters of purple rhododendrons.

In the court throughout the afternoon and evening De Caprio's Band of 34 pieces will play. During the dinner hour Wilder's stridged orchestra will furnish music. The program to be rendered by Wilder follows:

Wilder's Orchestra.

March—"Middle Bass Club" Johnson

"Chimes of Normandy" Pianquette

"Love's Dream Valse" Tobani

"American Patrol" Johnson

"Tonight" Johnson

"Don't Make Dem Scandalous Eyes at Me" Johnson

"Petite Mignonne" Johnson

"The Stars and Strips" Johnson

"Mazurka" Mazur

Spanish Dance—"Pirani"

"I Went to the Animal Fair" Brown

"Love's Dream Valse" Tobani

"Smoky Mokes"—cake walk. Holtzmann

"Valse Amoureuse" Berger

"Dance of the Brownies" Hamman

"Je Pense a Toi" Anearani

A. de Caprio's Band.

March—"Portland" A. de Caprio

Overture—"Festival" Leutner

"American Patrol" Johnson

Selection—"King Dodo" Leutner

"Miserere," from "Il Trovatore" Verdi

Descriptive piece—"The Night Alarm" Reeves

Polish Dance—"Scharwenka"

Baritone Solo—"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" Rollinson

Sig. A. de Caprio.

Waltz—"On the Beautiful Rhine" Leutner

Selection—"The Stars and Strips" Johnson

"Grand American Fantasia" Bendix

March—"The Stars and Strips" Johnson

Selection—"The Stars and Strips" Johnson

"The Star Spangled Banner" Key

The menu will be as follows:

Toke Point Oysters.

Clear Green Turtle.

Broiled Royal Chinook Salmon.

Cucumbers.

Crawfish, Newburg.

Sweetbreads with Spring peas.

Maraschino Punch.

Breast of Spring chicken supreme.

Salad of hearts of artichokes.

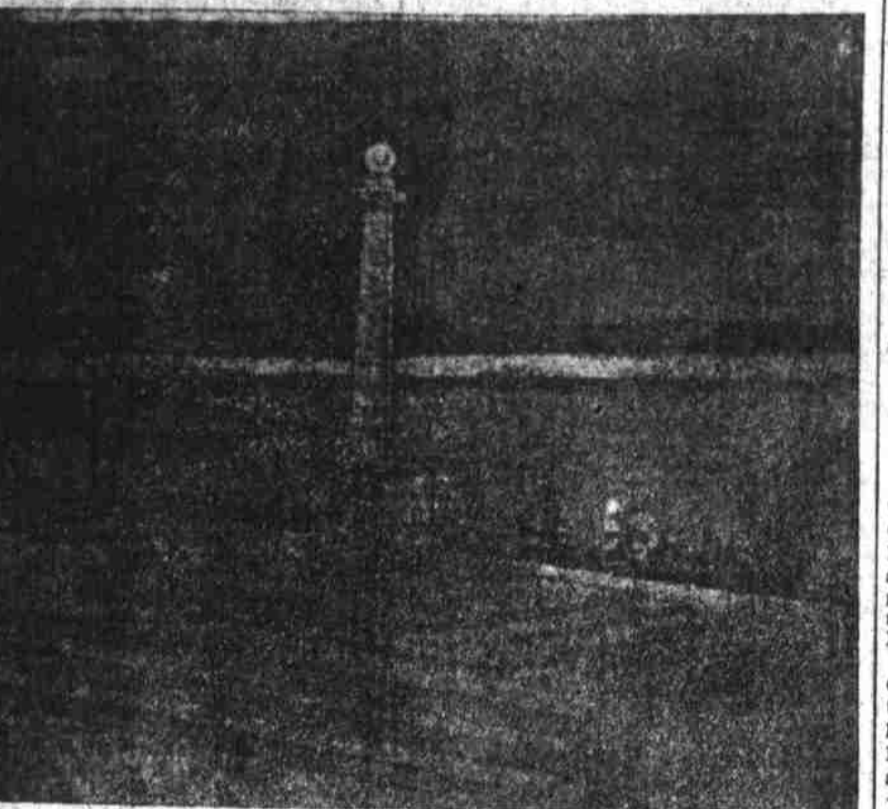

Charlotte Russe American.

Biscuit on surprise.

Mocha.

WHERE ROOSEVELT WILL DINE TONIGHT

Immediately after the ceremony at the City Park the President and the members of his party will be driven to their rooms at the Hotel Portland, where they will rest until the hour of Monument to Lewis and Clark, Dedicated by President Roosevelt Today.

J. D. Meyer, Thos. C. Devlin, J. E. Werlein.

Twenty-fourth carriage—R. W. Mitchell, L. Allen Lewis, I. L. Patterson, E. M. Brannick.

Twenty-fifth carriage—Henry S. Rowe, Jas. Laidlaw, Geo. Taylor, J. C. Ainsworth.

Twenty-sixth carriage—S. Takagi, Arthur Wilson, C. Henri Labbe, L. L. Hawkins.

Twenty-seventh carriage—J. A. Sladen, Colonel D. B. Bush, Department Commander M. L. Pratt, Assistant Major-General J. E. Mayo.

Twenty-eighth carriage—H. L. Pitcock, Ernest Bross, C. J. Owen, C. S. Jackson.

Twenty-ninth carriage—W. B. Ayer, L. T. Harris, Adolphe Wolfe, Leo Frider.

Thirtieth carriage—J. E. Hasselbin, G. A. Dolph, Wm. M. Ladd, Jon Lewis.

Thirty-first carriage—R. Koehler, E. A. Wyld, R. Lea Barnes, A. H. Devers.

Thirty-second carriage—H. M. Cake, H. C. Broeden, John H. Hall, I. N. Fleischner.

Then came the Eighth Battery, United States Artillery, mounted, acting as personal escort to the President. Captain W. L. Kenly rode at the head of the troop, which was in platoon formation with sub-lieutenants in charge.

Successfully Bowed Acknowledgment.

The Presidential carriage was close behind the soldiers. President Roosevelt was seated beside Mayor Williams, Governor Chamberlain and Secretary Moody occupied the opposite seat. Mr. Roosevelt bowed acknowledgment of that rose in a continuous line of march lengthened and mapped out.

Order of the procession was as follows:

President and members of committee.

The guests other than those of the Presidential party will first assemble in the banquet room and remain standing until President Roosevelt enters. He will come direct from his rooms, thus allowing the general public but slight opportunity to see him after his return from the park.

After the entrance of the President and those who accompany him Mayor Williams will request Archbishop Christie to ask divine blessing. There will be no further ceremony until the close of the dinner, when Mayor Williams will propose the health of the President. Mr. Roosevelt will respond. No other toasts will be given.

The Hotel Portland, where tonight, the head of the Government will dine and sleep will be ablaze with hundreds of electric bulbs and the east court of the huge hostelry is a mass of color, decorated as it is with the flags of all nations, the red, white and blue being ever present. Bunting and big American flags cover the building on the outside while within the hotel every nook and corner is filled with cut flowers and potted plants and silk stars and stripes hang from chandeliers and balustrades.

Mr. Roosevelt will occupy the entire east wing of the second floor. His suite will be furnished with simple elegance and taste. Manager Bowers will endeavor to make his guest comfortable and feel that he is at home, and the rooms he will occupy will be away from the rest of the guests. White lilies and purple rhododendrons will be the only decorations of the suite.

When the President Will Dine.

The dining hall where the President will be entertained at dinner at 8 o'clock is off the south hallway on the Seventh street side of the hotel. It is here that Mr. Bowers has concentrated

TO THE MEMORY OF LEWIS AND CLARKE

Standing among the evergreens of City Park with the metropolis of the Great Northwest stretched out below him, the President of the United States at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon was programmed to place the corner stone of the monument erected to the memory of Lewis and Clark.

The site of the memorial to the first explorers of the West is situated near the east entrance to the park on a knoll overlooking the City of Portland. For several days Engineer Oskar Huber and a corps of assistants have been at work erecting platforms around the monument base to accommodate the Presidential party and others connected with the ceremony of the laying of the cornerstone.

Mr. Huber has followed a very harmonious scheme in the decorations at the park. The main platform surrounding the base of the monument is surrounded with a rope railing. The posts are graced with white and red streamers, with white and blue silk suspended from them. Oregon grapes and garlands of flowers cleverly conceal the rough work.

The musicians' stand, just west of

(Continued on Third Page.)

(Continued from First Page.)

to F. W. Durbin, A. T. Wein and Wm. Steusloff. The militia, under command of Major R. S. Leabo, marched in two columns, one on each side of the President's carriage, the men clad in the regular army blue.

Those in Carriages.

In the rear of the President's carriage others followed. Those occupying the carriages in line were:

First carriage—President Roosevelt, Private Secretary Loh, Governor Chamberlain and Mayor Bishop.

Second carriage—M. C. Latta and three Secret Service men.

Third carriage—Assistant Secretary Barnes, Surgeon General Rixey, Secretary of State F. L. Dunbar and Dr. J. F. Calbreath.

Fourth carriage—N. P. Webster, J. L. McGrew, Geo. C. Brownell, L. T. Harris and W. N. Gatens.

Fifth carriage—Secretary of the Navy Moody, Ex-Governor T. T. Geer, Ex-Governor W. P. Lord and Judge Geo. H. Burnett.

Sixth carriage—H. A. Colman, of Associated Press; H. B. Thielson and R. J. Hendricks.

Seventh carriage—H. R. Hazard, of Scripps-McRae Association; J. H. Albert and A. F. Hofer.

Eighth carriage—Lindsay Denison, New Sun; Judge R. P. Boise and Hon. John Minto.

Ninth carriage—R. L. Dunne, of Collier's Weekly; State Treasurer C. S. Moore and Judge Wm. Waldo.

Tenth carriage—Wm. Lazarnick, Rev. P. S. Knight and F. X. Mattheu.

Eleventh carriage—G. B. Luckey, of Leslie's Weekly; J. Q. Barnes and Hon. J. D. Lee.

Twelfth carriage—H. A. Strohmeyer, of Harper's Weekly; Gen. W. H. Odell and Superintendent J. H. Ackerman.

Thirteenth carriage—P. W. Williams, of Western Union Telegraph Company; Judge J. H. Scott and Binger Hermann.

Fourteenth carriage—J. P. Gooch, W. T. Slater and A. E. Reames.

Fifteenth carriage—Chas. V. Gallogway, E. V. Carter and B. F. Jones.

Sixteenth carriage—B. L. Eddy, E. M.

ALONG THE LINE OF PARADE

School children with flags, ready to wave a welcome to the President. From a photograph by a Journal photographer.

CEREMONIES OF SPLENDID NATURE MARKED PRESIDENT'S SALEM VISIT

Governor Chamberlain, Mayor Bishop and Senator Brownell Give Oratorical Addresses of Welcome—Mr. Roosevelt Replies With Fervent Words—Greets School Children and Seems Happy Among Them—Leaves Capital City Amid a Tremendous Ovation.

The largest ever assembled in Salem. A sea of humanity surged about the passenger station this morning, when, prompt to the minute, the special train bearing the President and his distinguished party, rolled into the Capital City of Oregon, and cheer upon cheer rent the air as the private car came to a stop in front of the depot, where the citizens' reception committee, consisting of Mayor C. P. Bishop, Judge George H. Burnett, W. H. Holmes, W. M. Kaiser, Dr. W. B. Morse, E. M. Croisan, N. J. Judah, was in waiting to do honor to the Chief Magistrate, on this, his initial visit to "Fair Oregon." The platform, surrounded by a guard of militia consisting of three companies of infantry, Company D, Captain W. E. Finzer, of Woodburn; Company F, Captain C. A. Murphy, of Salem, and Company G, Captain Stellmacher, of Albany, under command of Major R. S. Leabo, was occupied only by the committee and the party of distinguished visitors. While the latter were being introduced to the committee strains of a patriotic selection rendered by the Salem Military Band, filled the air; flags waved and the immense throng again and again cheered the President of the Nation.

Escorted to Carriages.

Without delay, the party was escorted to the carriages in waiting, the procession was formed, and the line of march taken up through the city, to Marion Square, Salem's beautiful park, where President Roosevelt was scheduled to deliver the first address of the day to the school children.

Chief Marshal Frank T. Wrightman led the procession, followed by the Salem Military Band. Next came a platoon of seven of the Marshal's aides, mounted, as follows: J. T. Hunt, R. A. Crossan, F. N. Derby, John O. Estes, Thomas Caulfield, John Knight and H. H. Humphrey. These were followed by the President's carriage, attended by four mounted aides of the Chief Marshal, consisting of D. C. Min-

to F. W. Durbin, A. T. Wein and Wm. Steusloff. The militia, under command of Major R. S. Leabo, marched in two columns, one on each side of the President's carriage, the men clad in the regular army blue.

Those in Carriages.

In the rear of the President's carriage others followed. Those occupying the carriages in line were:

First carriage—President Roosevelt, Private Secretary Loh, Governor Chamberlain and Mayor Bishop.

Second carriage—M. C. Latta and three Secret Service men.

Third carriage—Assistant Secretary Barnes, Surgeon General Rixey, Secretary of State F. L. Dunbar and Dr. J. F. Calbreath.

Fourth carriage—N. P. Webster, J. L. McGrew, Geo. C. Brownell, L. T. Harris and W. N. Gatens.

Fifth carriage—Secretary of the Navy Moody, Ex-Governor T. T. Geer, Ex-Governor W. P. Lord and Judge Geo. H. Burnett.

Sixth carriage—H. A. Colman, of Associated Press; H. B. Thielson and R. J. Hendricks.

Seventh carriage—H. R. Hazard, of Scripps-McRae Association; J. H. Albert and A. F. Hofer.

Eighth carriage—Lindsay Denison, New Sun; Judge R. P. Boise and Hon. John Minto.

Ninth carriage—R. L. Dunne, of Collier's Weekly; State Treasurer C. S. Moore and Judge Wm. Waldo.

Tenth carriage—Wm. Lazarnick, Rev. P. S. Knight and F. X. Mattheu.

Eleventh carriage—G. B. Luckey, of Leslie's Weekly; J. Q. Barnes and Hon. J. D. Lee.

Twelfth carriage—H. A. Strohmeyer, of Harper's Weekly; Gen. W. H. Odell and Superintendent J. H. Ackerman.

Thirteenth carriage—P. W. Williams, of Western Union Telegraph Company; Judge J. H. Scott and Binger Hermann.

Fourteenth carriage—J. P. Gooch, W. T. Slater and A. E. Reames.

Fifteenth carriage—Chas. V. Gallogway, E. V. Carter and B. F. Jones.

Sixteenth carriage—B. L. Eddy, E. M.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

When Senator Brownell had finished his well worded address of welcome, the President came to the front of the platform and was wildly cheered. He smilingly bowed and said:

"This is a land that is bound to make its future greater than its mighty past. We then thanked the men of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Volunteers who went to the Philippines, and also extolled the valor of the men who once wore the grey as well as those who at that time wore the blue. 'The Civil War,' he said, 'left us all a heritage of brotherhood, a heritage as glorious for descendants of those who fought on the side of the South as those on the side of the North. The volunteers of the recent war proved that they, too, have the courage, the spirit of patriotism and the principles of brotherhood in their souls as well as their fathers had before them. The only distinction of citizenship that should be recognized now are between the men who do their duty and those who fail to do it.'

"The man who tries to excite sectional or class prejudice is an enemy to the State and should be so treated by his fellows. Just as in the case of war, it mattered not whether the man at your right hand was a banker or a bricklayer, a Jew or a Gentile, a millionaire or a pauper. It matters not what your neighbor's creed or station may be. You want to know whether he is a good citizen or not. If he does his duty to the state and city and his family, he is all right. We must continue to work out our salvation along the lines of fairness, of honesty and common sense."

At the Capitol Building.

At the conclusion of his address, the President again entered his carriage and the line of march was taken up, going east on Marion to Commercial street and winding through the streets, passing the City Hall, the Odd Fellows Temple, the Court House and the Federal Building up Court street to Capitol, to the east entrance of the State House. Here again the procession halted. Bows, stretched from the east steps of the Capitol to the driveway, were guarded on each side by the members of the Grand Army of the Republic in solid lines, while the militia, marching up, formed lines just inside of those made by the G. A. R. As the President and party left the carriages and while passing through the lines of soldiery to the Capitol, the guardsmen presented arms.

An honorary guard of 25 members of the G. A. R. accompanied the Presidential party into the Capitol where admission could only be secured by ticket.

When the President and party proceeded through the Capitol and appeared on the platform on the west steps of the structure, a thickly packed mass of humanity counting many thousands cheered the distinguished guest as no one in the past has ever been cheered in Salem, the music of the brass bands being drowned by the music of happy human voices.

Program at the Capitol.

When the visitors on the platform had been seated and Judge Geo. H. Burnett, the master of ceremonies, had announced the program, the Salem Choral Union opened the exercises with a vocal selection.

The Governor's Welcome.

When all had assembled on the speaker's stand Governor Geo. E. Chamberlain came to the front of the platform and glancing over the sea of upturned faces, bowed first to Mr. Roosevelt and then said:

"On behalf of the people of Oregon I extend to you, Mr. President, and to the distinguished gentlemen of your party, a most cordial welcome. As the Chief Magistrate of the Nation, our whole people, irrespective of race, religion or party, delight to do you honor. 'As a citizen, we of the West admire and love you as a magnificent type of sturdy, rugged and honest American manhood. Reared, as you have been, in the great commercial center of the country, you have nevertheless spent many days in traversing arid wastes and in climbing majestic mountains, and have thus come into intimate touch with our people and our civilization. Your course as Chief Executive has convinced us that, more than any President since the days of Jefferson, you appreciate the possibilities of the West and its importance to the country as a gateway to the Orient. 'It is a great pleasure to us, therefore, to be permitted to greet you as the Chief Magistrate of the most powerful Nation on the face of the earth, and as a friend who, in the multitudinous affairs of a busy life, can yet find time not only to write about, but to visit us, occasionally.'

"I welcome to you, Mr. President. Permit me to express the hope that your stay amongst us may be most pleasant, and that upon your return to Washington you may cherish none but pleasant memories of our people and our state."

Mayor Bishop's Address.

Amid prolonged cheering the Governor became seated and Mayor C. P. Bishop, of Salem, arose and in his address of welcome said:

"Mr. President, Salem is the Capital City of our state and is one of the pre-eminent historic places of the Pacific Coast. In the years 1824-1835 the

(Continued on Fifth Page.)