ESTIMATED COST OF FILLING IN ROADWAYS

City Engineer at Work on Report to Be Submitted to Public.

The City Engineer's department is making estimates of the cost of filling in several of the elevated roadways on the East Side. The work was begun some time ago and the engineer is busy preparing statements of the probable cost of the work.

One of the engineer's forces has just completed a preliminary survey of the East Washington street roadway from East Water street to Union avenue, and a report will be made public in a few days.

Property owners on the East Side, especially those in the elevated roadway districts, are gradually changing their opinions as to the cost of making solid fills of their property. "I find," said one of the larger property owners, "that the cost of constantly replanking the roadway in front of my property is much greater within a few years than it would cost to make a solid fill. Then, the filling in of the roadway would make the property more valuable."
