Portland, 6; Seattle, 5. The Browns continued their excellent work yesterday afternoon and succeeded in defeating Wilson's Satellites by the score of 6 to 5 in a contest that was interesting and exciting throughout.

It was a great game, to watch, the large crowd thoroughly enjoying every play of the battle. Jay Hughes was in superb form, keeping the Browns guessing every inning with the exception of the third, when three hits and a couple of passed balls scored four runs for the local talent.

The ninth looked dubious for the locals, but sharp fielding and steady work retained the victory already won. Seattle played a really brilliant game, making 10 hits, but could not negotiate at the correct periods.

Detail of Game. Carlos Smith started things for Seattle in the second by a two-bagger to the fence in Schmeer's territory. Zinsar hit to Andy and was out at first. Smith going to third on the play.

Seattle scored again in the fourth on a pass to Schwartz and Smith's second two-bagger. The Browns also got a run. Schmeer walked, but as forced by Sammy. Shay walked a double and Van Buren brought him home with a hit.

ON A LONG TRIP (Journal Special Service.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 6.—George W. Anthony of this city has started a wheel on a trip to St. Louis and thence to San Francisco.

NO BUSINESS! Abe Attel seems to be having his streak of bad luck in getting fights. The calling off the McGovern fight is only another of his string, and the question is when will he get on. He has tried repeatedly to get a match with Young Corbett, Vaquer, McGovern and Broad, but there is something which always comes in between the men. It may be Abe's cleverness or may be just hard luck.

PORTLAND TEAM RESENTS ATTACK

Browns Claim That Incompetents Are Not Capable Judges to Criticize the Playing of Men Who Are Ball Players.

Criticism Was Untimely, Ill-Advised and Ungenerous, and According to Experts, Not Worth Prominence Given It.

The disposition to attempt a criticism about his subject, has caused many a man to become the laughing stock of a community. In every line of endeavor, moral and athletic, there may be found the restless, unsatisfied with conditions, and not content to look at things with any other than biased eyes.

It is not ungenerous to give a person occasion to blush at his own misplay or error, because that same person may excel in many things. Baseball, like any other business, has its good days and its dark ones.

While not disparaging the virtues of Mr. McCloskey, either as a gentleman or a baseball manager, the public would certainly be the pleaser of knowing what he would have done had he been manager of the Portland Browns when adversity beset them on every hand.

The management of the Browns is pleasing to the fans and acceptable to the directors. The men are doing their best since their injuries have healed, and what is the result? Seattle has gone down to defeat four times straight after the manner of a team of winning is not in sight.

It is unkind of a person to criticize a team when he is enjoying the privilege of attending games on a pass, gratuitous to "knock" the home team because it has been unfortunate, and decidedly poor judgment to attempt to write about baseball when silence would rebound more to the credit of his knowledge of the game and opinion of players.

The batting averages of the Portland players are as follows: Van Buren, .373; Nadeau, .332; Andrews, .295; Raldy, .294; Hess, .288; Anderson, .273; Vigneux, .273; Schmeer, .271; Shea, .260; Butler, .257; Shields, .253; Engle, .243; Kosta, .197.

ZINFAUDEL WINS (Journal Special Service.) LONDON, June 6.—Zinfaudel captured the Manchester cup at the Chichester Whitstable meeting. Chichester Hall was second and Bachelor Bunting third in a field of eleven entries.
